CITY NEWS. FOR UNIFORM BOOKS

TALK IS MADE EASY

The Journal Installs Private Switch Board of Twin City Company.

Splendid Service of This Company Is Recognized by City's Business Men.

The daily newspaper, with its large circulation, is possible only because of the adoption of time-saving and labor-saving devices. The Journal has ever been progressive along these lines, and is equipped with the latest and best devices throughout all its departments; in fact, it is a model newspaper plant.

In accordance with this policy, The Journal has installed a private branch switch board of the Twin City Telephone company in the library of its building. Heretofore, The Journal has had a number of Twin City telephones distributed in various offices throughout the Journal building, but

A Washington Convention Will Discuss Uniform Accounting for All Cities.

Minneapolis Is Interested and Will Have Representation in the Meeting.

From The Journal Bureau, Colorado Building, Washington.

Washington, Nov. 11.—A meeting will be held at the Ebbitt house in this city on Nov. 19 and 20 to discuss a subject of great interest to Minneapolis at this time, namely, municipal accounting and auditing. The convention is to be held on the invitation of Director North of the census bureau, and accounting officers of all the cities in the United States of 30,000 population and over have been invited. So far acceptances have indicated that a fairly representative gathering will result. Among those to be present are Harvey S. Chase, who will supervise the starting of a new set of books for the city of Minneapolis; several representatives of the controller's office and of commercial

PRIVATE BRANCH SWITCHBOARD RECENTLY INSTALLED IN THE JOURNAL BUILDING.

It was found that much valuable time was consumed in calling employees from their various desks to answer calls. Furthermore, there was a loss of time in calling from one department to another because the call had to go through the central exchange office of the telephone company.

After careful investigation into the merits of the Twin City Telephone company's private branch exchange switch board, the management made a decided advance into the field of economy and convenience by installing one of these time-saving devices. By means of this private branch exchange board, with telephones distributed on the desks throughout the various departments of the Journal building, there is communication direct from one department to another and from any one desk in a department to a desk in any other department, without the necessity of the call going outside of the Journal building.

With this private branch switch board, the 20,000 or more users of Twin City telephones can have immediate access to any department of The Journal and its various branches. The Journal has the immediate access to all Twin City subscribers. By means of this private branch switch board, all departments of The Journal also have access to the outside towns and cities reached by the Tristate Telephone company and allied long-distance lines of the Twin City Telephone company. To a newspaper, minutes are golden, and the time saved by the introduction of this private branch exchange switch board, means dollars to The Journal.

The decided advantages of the private branch switch board were so evident that The Journal was interested to learn further regarding their reception among business houses in the twin cities. William M. Kerckhoff, secretary and treasurer of the Twin City Telephone company, when asked regarding the matter, said: "These private branch exchange switch boards have been especially acceptable to the business men of the twin cities, who appreciate that time is money. We have about 175 of these inter-city systems in the twin cities. In the first place, we have no party lines, therefore, the chances of finding a line busy are reduced to the minimum. Then, too, we have no string of prefixes and affixes to our telephone numbers which slip from memory the moment one closes the directory. On our system, a subscriber calls for a simple number, which is easily remembered. Another point in favor of our boards is the fact that they contain the latest improvements in the way of signal lights and other modern devices showing that the subscriber has finished his conversation. Again, our operators are impressed from the time they enter our employ that their duty first, last and all the time, is to give prompt and courteous attention to the subscribers' wants.

"The more rapid service that can be given because of the absence of party lines, the simplicity of our call numbers, the up-to-dateness of our entire equipment, the careful attention given to the subscribers' wants as well as the low rates at which we are giving a superior telephone service, have met with a hearty response on the part of the business men of the twin cities."

JUGGED THIS TIME John Wilson Is Finally Found Guilty of Burglary.

John Wilson was convicted of burglary in the third degree by a jury in Judge Simpson's court this morning. The prisoner was remanded for sentence. He was tried last term for a similar offense and his acquittal was a great surprise. Not three hours after his discharge he was arrested on a new charge of breaking into a gas meter and on this charge he was convicted today.

cial bodies interested in the city accounts of New York, as well as city treasurers and controllers of cities like Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

The main question to be discussed is uniformity in municipal accounting in all cities of the United States, something for which the League of American Municipalities has been agitating for several years. The census office has recently been gathering information and has prepared a schedule which will be used as a basis of discussion, probably, and from which it is hoped that some common plan of municipal bookkeeping can be evolved. This schedule was prepared by L. G. Powers of Minneapolis, formerly state labor commissioner of Minnesota, and now one of the chief statisticians of the census office, who will be the principal representative of his bureau at the convention. Secretary Cortelyou of the department of commerce will deliver an address at the opening of the convention. —W. W. Jermaine.

HE WASN'T A FUGITIVE Therefore J. A. M. Robb Couldn't Be Held —Police After Him.

A man who is not a fugitive from justice cannot be held under arrest upon a mere telegraphic request from the officers of another city. This decision by Judge Harrison yesterday afternoon released J. A. M. Robb, arrested on the strength of a telegram from Toronto stating that he was wanted for embezzlement. The prisoner went his way rejoicing. Judge J. R. Corrigan began habeas corpus proceedings and restored his client to liberty. "Thirty minutes had not expired after Robb's release before the police were looking for him again, extradition papers having been received. The detective force was at once put on his trail again, but he could not be found.

HOME DRAMATIC CLUB TO ENTERTAIN

The above is a photograph of that portion of the Home Dramatic club that will present a repertoire of dramatic and comedy sketches at the Johnson School of Music this evening. The club was organized about six months ago, and has to-day a membership of twenty-five, but only a part of these will participate in the theatrical entertainment. The officers of the club are Max Robb, president; Lillian Jeffery, secretary and treasurer; and R. B. Fobbshek and L. L. Schwartz, stage directors.

An exceptional program has been arranged for the theatrical entertainment. Among the sketches to be produced are "A Pair of Lunatics," "A Telephone Romance," "Chatterton," "Courtship Under Difficulties" and "The Passing Show." There will be an opening address by Max Robb, president of the club.

According to the story told by his associates in the department, Ringer went to the park to look for his cow, which had strayed from the premises. A man came running up to him, saying that a large flock of wild geese had settled on the lake. Ringer ran home for a goose call and a shotgun, and concealed himself behind a large tree near the bank. The calls proved effective and in a few seconds a large gray goose began moving toward the shore, and Ringer fired. When the bird was fished out with a pole, it was found to be an ordinary tame goose. Ringer was telling the joke on himself at one of the fire stations later in the evening, and one of the firemen turned a different light on it by saying that the goose belonged to his flock. His proof was forthcoming, and it was then up to the marshal to pay damages. This was entirely too good a chance for the firemen to lose, and they in turn carried Ringer to the nearest cigar store, where he was forced to invest in order to keep the boys quiet.

ERNST COMPLICATIONS

Philadelphia Insurance Co. May Take Building—One Woman's Case. The Penn Mutual Life Insurance company of Philadelphia may take control of the Ernst building in St. Paul. The way has been opened by Peter Schollert, who yesterday filed a mechanic's lien on the building. The failure of Ernst to pay such a bill given the insurance company power to take the building under its control under mortgages of $110,000 which it holds. A woman who purchased a home from Ernst two years ago paid $500 in cash and gave a mortgage, so she says, for $350. On investigation she finds that there is a mortgage recorded against the home for $1,150. Ernst is still a prisoner.

SERVA BOUND OVER

Amanda Arnett Is Charged with Robbing Her Employer. Amanda Arnett, a servant, was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of grand larceny. She was given a preliminary hearing and held to the grand jury in $500 bonds. While employed at the home of Mary McElweeny, Miss Arnett is alleged, took $77 in cash and then secured another place to work. She offered no explanation of her conduct in the lower court.

DRIED UP

Coffee Was Drying Up Her Blood. "Coffee had the peculiar effect on me of thickening the blood and lessening it in quality, in other words drying it up," says a young lady of Shelton, Neb., "and so long as I used the drug coffee, I had terrific headaches frequently accompanied by sour stomach and a very bad breath. "My condition was serious and I knew something had to be done so I decided to quit coffee and drink Postum. "A few days after I quit drinking coffee and shifted to Postum I felt much better and continued to improve on the Postum until I am now entirely free from headaches and stomach trouble and steadily gaining in flesh and health and feel happy and full of rich, pure blood. "My parents were ailing as long as they were coffee drinkers. They were certainly great coffee fiends and claimed that they could not get coffee strong enough for them and my father in particular was a regular slave to coffee, drinking many cups of it daily altho he had terrific headaches about once a week, while my mother complained of her liver and took different liver remedies but all to no avail. "Then I persuaded them to quit coffee and drink Postum Food Coffee and the result was all that I had hoped for and both are now hearty eaters and are strong and well. I know of many other cases where leaving off coffee and drinking Postum has resulted in wonderful changes in health." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. ferred no explanation of her conduct in the lower court. Daily Barater, an inmate of Gladys Barr's place on the East Side, was arrested on a similar charge, but the value of the goods was only sufficient to have her charged with petit larceny. She is said to have taken three dresses from the place and to have started to leave the city. She pleaded guilty and was given a sentence of $75 or eighty days.
