ON MINE-BUYING TOUR

O. A. Johnson Tells of Successful Trip to Honduras Where Gold Is Abundant.

O. A. Johnson, heretofore a farmer in Clay county, Minnesota, has just returned from Honduras, where he has been buying gold mines that belonged to the Spanish conquerors 400 years ago. Mr. Johnson left San Francisco last May. He found Honduras an excellent country for mining investments. Few Americans, however, have taken advantage of the opportunities. Some of the best known American miners in Honduras are negroes. The department of Santa Barbara, northwest Honduras, one colored man owns a placer mine for which $300,000 has been offered him. The whole district bears traces of having been worked by the early Spanish discoverers or by the natives themselves at a period still more remote. Not far from the negro's mine, Mr. Johnson bought several places from which he brings back gold assaying $18. He also secured from another negro in northern eastern Nicaragua, close to the southeast border of Honduras, a half-interest in a quartz mine likely to prove profitable. As soon as he has secured mining machinery and additional capital Mr. Johnson will return to Honduras. The mining laws there are very liberal. Upon sixty acres of mining lands he is taxed only $2.60 a year. On the output of the mines he will pay nothing. Mining machinery can be imported free of duty.

CLUB'S 25th ANNIVERSARY

Minnesota Congregational Club Celebrates Occasion with a Banquet.

A banquet, at which toasts were responded to and letters read from the charter members, marked the celebration of the quarter-centennial of the Minnesota Congregational club at Plymouth church last night, and nearly 300 members of the famous club joined in the celebration.

Those who joined in the program last night took part in the first setting of the club twenty-five years ago at the home of R. J. Baldwin of Minneapolis. Two of the original members could not be present. They were Dr. W. C. Foster and W. J. Dyer, who had been called out of the city.

Charles J. Hunt of St. Paul, president of the club, acted as caller. He was followed by C. Bell, O. J. Griffith, Dr. J. W. Strong of Northfield, George R. Lyman and Judge A. H. Young responded to toasts. The secretary, Rev. W. A. Snow, read letters from the following churches: St. Paul, Rev. Henry A. Stinson of New Jersey, Rev. E. S. Williams of California, Coley L. H. of Massachusetts, Dr. D. L. Leonard of Oberlin college, Ohio, Professor J. B. Clark of Columbia university and Dr. O. M. Humphrey of Minneapolis. Greetings were also extended by John A. Stenon of Wisconsin, a past secretary.

NEW PARK PLAN PRESENTED

Park Board Committee Has Mr. Lowry's Plan in Hand Now.

Thomas Lowry's offer to give the city a park site worth about $70,000 on condition that other adjacent tracts were secured was presented to the park board last evening and referred to the committee on designation of grounds. The board also received options from Mrs. Louisa McNair and Mrs. Louis K. Hull on three blocks of land at the corner of Third and Michigan, and from Mrs. F. M. Henry on a block at $10,000. The acquisition of these four blocks and other necessary land presents to the board the question of way out of the city has been assessed, and quite means that for "Loring park," it is believed to be just to levy another assessment for park purposes. Moreover, the new park will be vastly different from Loring park, in that it will be more on the playground order and will be used by the whole community. It has been suggested that the city council sell about $100,000 of bonds in order to secure funds for the new park. For the improvement of the river bank at Minnehaha and the extension of the boulevard system so to include Cedar lake and Glenwood park.

The contract for the construction of the new pavilion at Lake Harriet was awarded to Pike & Cook, Inc. There were three other bids, all over $30,000.

ELKS' CHRISTMAS PLANS

They include the usual benefit and a Bundle Social. In addition to the usual Christmas benefit, the Elks of Minneapolis will have a bundle social on the evening of Dec. 24, at which the Elks and their families, friends and relatives, will add each their little mites to a general fund of good and practical things which the really deserving will enjoy. These contributions and the others which are well known to the Elks or some similar organization under the direction of a committee consisting of Dr. C. M. Jordan, William M. Regan and A. L. ... The poor children of the city will not, however, be deprived of their annual Christmas entertainment, for the Elks show their benevolence by holding in the Bijou theater on the afternoon of Dec. 24.

T. N. HOOPER IS DEAD

Once Assistant Superintendent of the Great Northern Road. Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 24.—T. N. Hooper, general agent of the Great Northern railway, and formerly assistant superintendent of the Great Northern, died here early this morning.

CROSBY HOPPS' FAREWELL CONCERT

At the Crosby Hopps' farewell concert in Lyndale Congregational church to-morrow evening, the following will assist: Misses Frances Vincent, Maud Gleason, Florence Verge and Grace Hennessy. Crosby Hopps will sing songs by Maascheron, Newton and Bismarck. This will be Mr. Hopps' last appearance before leaving for his new work in Chicago.

Extensive experiments with submarine boats will be made by the navy department here. The government now has five submarine boats, and it wishes to have a sufficient number of officers and men thoroughly familiar with their use and to make practical use of them in case of necessity.

MAKING OXYGEN

Interesting Operation of Taking It From the Air for Use. Philadelphia Record. A plant for the manufacture of oxygen to be used in charging its distilled water was put in operation recently at an ice plant in Los Angeles, Cal. Oxygenated water is now being prescribed by physicians in certain diseases, and hence a cheap and simple method of separating the oxygen in the atmosphere becomes a matter of daily importance. The process employed by the Los Angeles company is based on the principle that a certain chemical compound—manganate of soda—readily parts with the oxygen it contains when subjected to the action of a jet of steam. A blast of air on the residue reforms it into manganate of soda. No more chemical process is required of absorbing oxygen from the atmosphere, parting with it when exposed to steam, and being reformed again upon water. No more chemical process is required of absorbing oxygen from the atmosphere, parting with it when exposed to steam, and being reformed again upon water. SAVAGE GORILLAS

Do Not Fight with Clubs, but Amputate Limbs with Teeth. New York Tribune. "The prevailing belief that gorillas, chimpanzees or orang-outangs, as they are variously called, use clubs when they attack each other or their enemies is entirely erroneous," said the naturalist to a group of interested listeners. "They do nothing of the sort and how such an impression ever came to exist, or how old-time African explorers ever came to formulate such a theory, is beyond my comprehension. During a long sojourn in that country I had ample opportunities to learn the truth about them, and what I discovered there was subsequently confirmed during a protracted hunting trip in Borneo. The fact is that in fighting each other, or in attacking or defending themselves from other enemies, they depend entirely upon their teeth, which are abnormally strong and sharp and cut like a razor, making a wound as smooth and clean as the scalpel of a surgeon. They are clumsy on their feet, but the enormous strength of their powerful arms more than makes up for this deficiency. In fighting they almost invariably attack the face or the limbs of their adversaries, grasping their opponents with their hands and drawing them close enough to sink their teeth in their flesh. In the case of human beings or other members of the monkey tribe, the gorilla's favorite point of attack is the hand, and especially the finger. Catching them by the wrist, the creature, with almost irresistible power, draws the hand within reach of his fangs, and in the twinkling of an eye consumes one or more fingers. This mode of warfare is a very effective one among the orang-outangs themselves, for, with fingers and toes gone, the animal is not only out of the fight, but is powerless to climb trees, to protect himself or to provide himself with food, and soon succumbs to starvation or falls an easy victim to some other animal."

Six Million Dollars

Miss Rose Hennessy, well known as a poetess and elocutionist, of Lexington, Ky., tells how she was cured of uterine inflammation and ovaritis by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I enjoyed the best of health and thought that would always be so. I attended parties and receptions till I had and would be suddenly chilled, but I did not think of the results. I caught a bad cold eighteen months ago while menstruating, and this caused inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I suffered excruciating pains and kept getting worse. My attention was called to your Vegetable Compound and the wonderful cures it had performed, and I made up my mind to try it for two months and see what it would do for me. Within one month I felt much better, and at the close of the second I was entirely well. "I have advised a number of my lady friends to use it, and all express themselves as well satisfied with the results as I was."—Miss Rose NOBA HENNESSY, 410 S. Broadway, Lexington, Ky.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.
