The damage suits against the railway engaged in the blockade, amounting to $120,000, will be pushed.

According to agreement between the parties the time on Tuesday and Wednesday is to be evenly divided between the republicans and democrats.

NANCE O'NEIL AS TRILBY

Theatrical Manager Says She Plays the Character in Real Life.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—"It is a second case of Trilby and Svengali," said W. E. Cleveland, the theatrical manager, in his testimony in the justice court yesterday in suing Miss Nance O'Neil and McKee Rankin to recover advance expenses which he claims to have furnished them.

"From the stage of my theater," continued Mr. Cleveland, "I have seen Rankin exert his influence over Miss O'Neil. When he looked at her she forgot her lines and when he snapped his fingers at her she would act. He has an undue influence over her and he has kept her segregated from other actors or managers."

When Miss O'Neil was put on the stand she denied the allegation of Mr. Cleveland.

PROCTOR DEAD

The Civil Service Commissioner a Victim of Heart Trouble.

Washington, Dec. 12.—John H. Proctor, civil service commissioner, died about 2:35 o'clock this afternoon as a result of the attack of neuralgia of the heart.

STARTLED

By some sudden sound she drops the vase upon the floor. She is nervous and may be told that nervousness is a luxury which only a rich woman can afford to indulge in.

Nervousness has cost many a woman her position. Sometimes when working in a mill, the price of nervousness is a mutilation—a finger lost or perhaps the whole hand crushed.

Nervousness in women is commonly but a symptom of womanly disease. It is useless in such cases to "doctor" for the nerves alone. Cure the disease which attacks the delicate womanly organism and nervousness will be cured also.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong, sick women well. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves and induces refreshing sleep.

In the fall of 1877, I was troubled with nervousness, headache, heart trouble and female weakness," writes Miss Blanch M. Bracey, of California. "I tried many remedies, but it was not until I took your Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery that I was cured. I have since taken the medicine, and have a dozen children, and I feel as well as I ever did. I have not had a headache since I began to take your Favorite Prescription, and Golden Medical Discovery for the space of five months, and in less than a year had regained my former health."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the muddy complexion.

DISSENTION WILL MEAN DISASTER

REPUBLICAN PARTY IS NOW ON TRIAL.

Opposition to Roosevelt Would Lead to Disruption—More Unpopular With Politicians Than Any President Since the War—He Can't Be Worked and That Is Why the People Respect Him.

From The Journal Bureau, Colorado Building, Washington.

Washington, Dec. 12.—The meeting of the national committee appears to have been the signal for an outbreak of anti-Roosevelt sentiment all over the east, but it is believed that it will quiet down in a short time. Roosevelt occupies rather a unique position before the country. He is, so far as the politicians are concerned, perhaps as unpopular a president as we have had since the war, and so far as the masses of the voters in his own party are concerned, one of the most popular. While the people do not have for him and have not for any other president, that warm personal affection which they had for McKinley, they regard him with undisguised confidence and esteem, and his unquestioned moral courage and honesty of purpose cause him to be respected by the public eye as embodying those characteristics which in these days are demanded in a president.

The interests, which for selfish reasons are opposing him, do not seem to realize what disaster might befall the party, and perhaps the country, should he be defeated for nomination as the result of their plotting. Roosevelt knows that the politicians do not like him, and he knows, also, why. Your practical man in politics doesn't like anybody in office who cannot be used. It's the old story over again of the New York boss who wanted certain things done by a governor of his state and was informed that his chosen ran counter to the constitution. "What's the constitution among friends?" he asked, and Roosevelt would be advised to drop the matter. Roosevelt, however, is not so tractable and less inclined to demand that the rights of the people be protected.

While the present knows of the dislike of the politicians, he knows that he has the confidence and good will of the rank and file of his party, and that any attempt to defeat him, for reasons thus far alleged, is likely to prove unsuccessful. Apparently, he is worrying very little over the outcome. In a struggle between the classes and for the control of the government, and for the administration of the laws in the interest of the latter, he feels that there can be but one result. The failure of the masses to win would be indicative to his mind of the partial failure of free government on the American continent, and of the inability of a government to govern the people, and by the people long to endure. His optimism is one of the interesting features of the present situation. Beset as he is with foes, within as well as without his party, he has confidence in the abiding good sense of the people, and in their determination to rule.

With Hanna the nominee of the republican party next year, and Gorman the nominee of the democratic party, the honest voters in both parties would be apt to feel that the money classes have controlled the national convention. This might lead to serious revolts in both parties, possibly as serious and as far reaching as those which characterized the campaign of 1880, when there were four candidates, each with a strong following in the field. Such a condition would also, it is believed, lead to the formation of some new party, to invest the masses with a voice in the government, and to be debated so fiercely in the year preceding the great war, led to the formation of the republican party. Any party so founded would, it is further believed, eventually come into control of the government, and repeat, substantially, the record of the republican party in the past.

There is no escaping the conclusion that in the present instance the republican party is on trial. The defeat of Roosevelt in the convention, on any or all of the grounds thus far suggested, would be indicative that the party was under the control of certain interests which are inimical to the welfare of the nation, and the falling away of the party of Lincoln, of Grant, of Blaine, of Garfield and of McKinley from the high ideals which they stood for, would be a corruption beyond the probability of redemption. This is the opinion of many careful observers, and they are watching the outcome with intense interest.

TURNS NEGROES WHITE

Effect of X-Ray—Causes as Well as Cures.

Philadelphia, Dec. 12.—Dr. Henry K. Paucot of the University of Pennsylvania, at the closing session of the American Roentgen Ray society yesterday, called attention to the remarkable effect of the X-rays upon negroes. In every case the part subjected to the rays turned white and after a year or more the skin has remained like that of a white man.

The curative properties of the X-ray on cancer and lupus occupied the greater part of the session. The general conclusion was that the rays had a great value in many cases of cancer, but they should follow a surgical operation. On lupus the rays are extremely successful.

One case of cancer of the neck, but could not be cured by the rays, but that under continued exposure cancer might be cured.

TRAILS OF ASSASSIN

Point to Brother as Murderer of Elizabeth Gillespie.

Rising Sun, Ind., Dec. 12.—Frank Sebastian, colored, who has carried laundry to the home of Miss Elizabeth Gillespie, who was assassinated recently, declares he was within a hundred yards of the assassin when the man was fired, and can identify him. No one else appears to have been near.

Bits of hair wadding taken from the wound in Miss Gillespie's head in a well-preserved shape, show conclusively that they came from a shell of a small-bore shotgun. This fits the cutting of the emerald dropped in front of the house of a prominent citizen. This was a No. 16 gauge shell and the people of Rising Sun say there is only one man who has a gun of that size bore. That man, they say, is James Gillespie, twin brother of the assassinated woman.

London, Dec. 12.—Advices from Somaliland, East Africa, say that the Mad Mullah's camp followers have taken to cannibalism owing to a shortage of supplies. SHERIFF SENT TO JAIL

SCHOFIELD OF WARD COUNTY SENTENCED FOR NINETY DAYS FOR JURY TAMPERING.

Special to The Journal.

Grand Forks, N. D., Dec. 12.—Just before the adjournment of the federal court at noon today Sheriff Schofield of Ward county was called before Judge Amidon for sentence for contempt of court for having approached a member of the federal jury, Ben Jones of Minot, and telling him that Major Murphy was a fine fellow and that the charge upon which he was to be tried was being met up by his political enemies to kill him off.

Before passing sentence the court administered a most scathing rebuke to the sheriff for his conduct, which was termed extremely reprehensible, and designated such practices as one of the most serious offenses against civilization and good government.

CITY OF MINNEAPOLIS AS AN IDEAL FOR WINTER ILLS

Valuable Health Hints for December.

SLEEPING ROOM.

The sleeping room should be well ventilated and kept cool. No one should sleep in a hot room. Before going out in the morning, splash the throat with cold water, and gargle the face and neck with water. This is a preventative to catarrh of the throat, and especially liable to cold should take a tablespoonful of Peruna before breakfast.

EXERCISE.

A brisk walk in the open air before the midday meal is necessary for good health. Those who have a touch of catarrh or a cold should take a tablespoonful of Peruna before the midday meal.

CONFINEMENT.

Those confined to the house or office during the afternoon should be sure to take some exercise before dinner or the evening meal. December, being the most trying month for us in winter, all people who have ever been troubled with catarrh should take a tablespoonful of Peruna before supper.

SUNLIGHT.

The long nights and short days of December make sunlight so scarce that every one should get as much of the direct rays of the sun as possible. Let sun into the house. Walk on the sunny side of the street. Keep in the sun all you possibly can. Take a tablespoonful of Peruna at bed time.
