SHAARE TOV DEDICATED

NEW HOUSE OF WORSHIP OF THE HEBREW REFORMED CONGREGATION IS FORMALLY OPENED.
Shaare Tov temple at Tenth street and Fifth avenue S., the new building which has risen from the ashes of the Hebrew Reformed congregation's church, was formally dedicated yesterday.

The services were begun with the invocation by Rabbi E. L. Hess, Henry Wiskopf, chairman of the building committee, delivered the keys to A. Stromberg, president of the congregation, after which Gustave Placina lighted the perpetual lights. The Feastuch scrolls were then placed in the ark by three members of the congregation. The scripture was read by Rabbi I. L. Rypins and Rabbi S. N. Deinard preached the dedicatory sermon.

The meeting from the St. Paul churches was brought by Rabbi Rypins. Rev. Dr. J. S. Montgomery of Wesley church paid an eloquent tribute to the symbols of the past preserved by the congregation.

TRAMP ROOM UNSAFE

Sanitary Inspectors Are Ordered to Have a Look.
The tramp room at the central police station will probably be closed by orders of Dr. P. M. Hall, commissioner of health for the city of Minneapolis. This step will be taken on account of the unsanitary condition of the place.
For many years the tramp room has been the source of trouble and worry to the police. It is in a cellar underneath the barn at the central station and is about as unsanitary a place as it is possible to find. There is no ventilation and the air becomes exceedingly foul and unwholesome after the room is occupied for a few hours. During the day it remains closed.
Dr. Hall said to-day that he would send an inspector to the station and if the room was found to be unsanitary, it would be closed.

D. PATCH ENJOYS CHRISTMAS TREE

CHAMPION RECEIVES GIFTS SAVAGE CHILDREN.
Appreciates the Apples and Candy, but Turns Up His Nose at the Fine True Worth Appreciated.

"Well, this really looks like a Christmas tree," said Dan Patch, as he reared himself up from his arm bed in a box stall of M. W. Savage's private stable Christmas morning. A Christmas tree all to myself. With electric lights, no. Not so romantic as candles, but they don't drip grease on the presents. Apples, I declare! Well, it's a little early for my breakfast, but as long as it's Christmas, and Dan reached out and gathered a big Northern Spy into his capacious mouth.

The tree was prepared by Mr. Savage's children as a surprise for Dan, and it was decorated in traditional Christmas style, with strings of popcorn and cranberries, colored electric lights, and a lavishment consistent with the exalted position of Dan. There were big apples, candy, ribbons for Dan's mane and tail, and everything that a champion pacer could desire. A pair of knee boots in fancy leather completed the list.

"You know you might regret this before you start eating," said one of the youngsters, as Dan munched at his apple.
"Dinner first, speeches afterward," said Dan, chewing thoughtfully at the morsel.
"You may be older in years, but not in other ways," retorted Dan, remembering I have children of my own. But I am pleased, children, greatly pleased. It is always gratifying to find one's true worth appreciated like this. Here Dan snatched a piece of candy from the hand of one of the youngsters. Dan has the instinct of a gentleman, and his manners still smack a trifle of the stable.

"The apples and the candy are fine," continued Dan. "The boots look very pretty, but I don't suppose they would stand much wear on the track. Those ribbons are too effeminate for me. Better give 'em to one of the fillies; the women like that kind of thing. Horse that is worth $60,000 L. O. B. doesn't have to bother so much with his dress. Consider yourselves thanked, children. Run along now. Ta-ta," and Dan heaved himself to another apple and nickered. "I ain't no airy fairy wind-shield pacer," as the children filed out.

WIDESPREAD LAWLESSNESS

Bishop Edsall's Plea for Greater Respect for Law.
Obedience is a lost art. Lawlessness has largely taken its place. The present problem is to arouse in the hearts of men a respect for the authority of law. It is the duty of men not only to obey the law, but to recognize the rights of mankind as a whole. This is the plea of an address before the St. Paul Young Men's Christian association yesterday by Bishop S. C. Edsall. The spirit of lawlessness, said the bishop, showed itself in the attempts of the rich and powerful to override the law, as well as in the attempts of the laboring classes; it was shown in the home, among the young, in literature for old and young, and in the drama.

COAL TRUST PRICES SLUMP

A 40-CENT CUT COMING ON BITUMINOUS.

Independents Doing an All Rail Business Claim Credit for Forcing the Reduction—They Predict that a Still Heavier Cut Must Be Made.

Representatives of independent coal companies met in Minneapolis last night and the coal trust is broken and that owing to the efforts of the all rail companies the trust offices will cut the price of soft coal about a ton and a half. The independent companies, which appear to be flourishing this winter, are perfectly able to meet the cut and to do so. They intimate that in addition to the public benefit from this reduction of 40 cents, the railroads will cut the soft coal rate further, thus making possible another reduction in the price.

It is said that immense sums of money will be lost by the trust in this reduction. The opponents of the big company asset that the wholesale price of $5 a ton has been a holdup, inasmuch as the coal costs at the mines only $1.50. It is evident that although the large companies have long contracts at $5, to prevent ill feeling they have to cut the price to $4.50 to hold the future business of their clients.

As probable evidence that the companies will cut the price of coal it is pointed out that the county commission has let a contract for soft coal on a bid for 1,000. This is said to have resulted from a private tip that after the first of the year the price would be made better.

DESERTED AND PENILESS

WOMAN AND LITTLE GIRL FIND THEIR WAY TO MINNEAPOLIS—HUSBAND LET THEM AT FERGUS FALLS.

Deserted by her husband, who left her in Fergus Falls with only $1.50 with which to support herself and an 8-year-old girl, a woman and her daughter found their way to Minneapolis. The woman, Mrs. Carrie Clark came to the offices of the local police department this morning and asked for a return ticket to her home at Fergus Falls. She had been deserted by her husband, who left her in Fergus Falls, where she was deserted.

Mrs. Clark says that she and her husband, and his brother-in-law left their home in Maine last fall and went to Fargo, N. D., where Mr. Clark worked as a canvasser. They finally went to Fergus Falls, where the husband disappeared, and since then has not been seen. He left his wife with only $1.50, and she had to make her way to Minneapolis on a tie-pass and started to walk to Maine. The police at Fergus Falls sent the woman to St. Cloud and the police there sent her to Minneapolis.

ARMORY PLANS NOT DEAD

Nothing Worse Than a Delay Expected by Military Experts.
Lieutenant Frank T. Corston of the army board says that the refusal of N. W. Halsey & Co. to take the armory bonds still legally approved, does not dispose of the armory proposition. It may be some delay in the work. It will, of course, be necessary to secure a ruling of the court on the validity of the bonds, and this may take some time. The bonds may be obtained has not been determined. If N. W. Halsey & Co. could begin proceedings for a mandamus to compel the city officers to countersign the bonds, a supreme court ruling could speedily be secured.

The bride early last spring arrived in Sioux Falls from Canada. Her new husband is an officer in the British army. They will live in China.

HE GOT THERE ALL RIGHT

Some Said He Would and Others Said He Wouldn't.
Charles Evers said he would be ready to open up to-day his new barber shop, corner Fourth street and Nicollet, in the basement under Thompson's drug store, in the A. D. T. building, and was there all right early this morning smiling to the patrons as they came. Some thought he would not get in to-day, but they did not know Evers. Business has grown so with Evers in his old shop, 39 Fourth street S., that he had to branch out. This accounts for his branching out. He can now better take care of his regular patrons and the new shop will be drawn to this corner. This new shop is one of the most complete and finest places of its kind in the north-west. The walls are finished in marble and late glass mirrors. The floor is of white tile. The barber chairs and furniture are all of mahogany. The decorations were designed by Meyer, who has certainly combined the artistic parts and the equipment in a whole that has made a modern and up-to-date barber shop.

GAMBLERS CAN'T PAY ANY FINES

JUDGE HOLT WILL DENY THEM THAT OPTION.

In Pursuance of This Policy He Sends "Doc" Mattison to the Workhouse for Sixty Days Straight for Running a Crap Game.

"I do not intend to allow any gambling house keeper in Minneapolis or any man who assists in conducting one of these places the privilege of paying a fine in this court," said Judge Holt in police court this morning when he sentenced Dan Mattison to sixty days in the workhouse for running a gambling house.
Mattison was arrested last evening by Detective John Forster upon the complaint of Ed Fieldseth, who reported that he had been swindled in Mattison's place at 1203 Washington avenue S.

Fieldseth lost $4 at the crap table and while busy at the game someone stole his overcoat. He reported the matter to the police and Mattison and a man named Peterson were arrested, the latter charged with grand larceny.
In court Mattison claimed that he practiced medicine for a living and that a man named Kelly was proprietor of the gambling house. He said he simply hung around the place for amusement. Fieldseth said that when Mattison was arrested he offered to "square" the matter and admitted that he was the proprietor.

Fieldseth was extremely anxious to produce Kelly in court, Judge Holt believed he was a myth and found Mattison guilty.
Mattison, or "Doc" Mattison, as he is better known to the police, has been convicted twice of this offense.

GRINNELL GIRL MISSING

Local Police Are Asked to Prevent Her Marriage.
Minneapolis police have been asked to find Miss Mabel Christianson, a 19-year-old girl, who left her home at Grinnell, Iowa, Dec. 15, presumably to meet and wed Bergen Straustrade, also of Grinnell, who is in this city. The girl is 19 years old and the police have been asked to prevent the marriage, if possible. Young Straustrade is only 20 years old. The police have been unable to find either the man or the woman.

LIVE POSSUMS ARRIVE

A Shipment of Juicy Southern Delicacies Received in Minneapolis.
Henry Thomas of 918 First avenue S., today received a crate of live opossums from the south. Last year Mr. Thomas tried to secure opossums for a restaurant on the roof, but was disappointed. The consignment received to-day includes a large variety and Mr. Thomas, who is a cook of some experience, contemplates numerous possum dinners when the consignment is distributed.

CREAM SEPARATOR TESTS

The agents of the Sharples tubular cream separators are publishing pretty extensively over the country test of cream separators at the Minnesota Dairyman's convention at a dinner Monday. They are quite careful not to mention the details which show that Sharples did not comply with rules laid down in the book of directions for the use of the Sharples machine. When the dairy public examine these they will see that the Sharples, as well as all of the others were badly beaten by the United States cream separator. One of the conditions of the agreement was as follows: "No machine to skim cream of a density of less than 70 per cent, but that the Sharples separator skimmed cream of only 25 per cent butter fat. To have complied with the conditions it must skim one per cent thicker or 20 per cent thicker cream than it did skim, and therefore Sharples was beaten on this point.

The United States separator skimed cream that tested 50 per cent butter fat, just twice as rich in butter fat as the Sharples. The Sharples agent, knowing that his separator could not skim thick cream at a temperature of 62 to 70 degrees would not and did not comply with the agreement. All creamery men require thick cream because it is so much less bulky and so much less expensive in transportation costs correspondingly less. It is much easier, as every one of experience knows, to separate thin cream than it is to separate thick cream and separators that can run thin cream cannot run thick cream under same conditions.

The Sharples book of directions reads: "Turn the crank forty to forty-five turns per minute." The average of this is forty-two and one-half turns per minute. The Sharples separator in the test at fifty-two turns, which is about 25 per cent faster than their average direction to the farmers who buy them. The Sharples separator bowl was run at between 18,000 and 20,000 revolutions per minute and more than twice as fast as the United States or any other machine in the test.

The United States book of directions reads forty-five to sixty revolutions of crank per minute. This was formally decided upon at the meeting of the joint committees held last Saturday afternoon at the office of Mayor Hayes. When it was reported that both cities had raised the necessary funds and that there was now $25,000 available for the twin city exhibit, it was voted to set aside $10,000 for a building, which will represent a municipal industrial museum in the model city. Harry W. Jones was engaged to prepare the plans for the building, his suggestions meeting with general approval.
