At first it was thought that Ed Fisher, an employe of Babcock, had been burned, but tracks leading away from the barn, and evidently made by a man running, were found. Babcock's loss is about $500, partly covered by insurance.

Millwood Delays Cars.—Travel on the Bloomington avenue car line was blocked a long time this morning by the overturning of a wagonload of millwood at Fourth street and First avenue S. This also blocked the southbound First avenue cars. After the wagon was righted it took a large crew of men to clear the tracks of scattered wood.

FOLLOWS HIM FROM RUMANIA

LEAH SWARTZ SEEKS FAITHLESS HUSBAND FOR MONTHS.

Finds Him at Last in Minneapolis, but He Refuses to Recognize Her as His Wife or to Support Her and Their Child—She Now Asks Divorce.

She followed him and found him, but his love was dead and he refused to recognize her as his wife. Hence the hearing in Judge Cray's divorce court this morning, when Leah Swartz told in broken English, punctuated with tears, of her devotion to Allan J. Swartz and of his desertion while the court reporter wrote the last chapter of a romance of old Rumania. Since they were children Leah and Allan had been lovers in the country across the waters. When nearly 30 years old the maid became his wife. The honeymoon lasted only a few months, however, when a temporary separation followed. Finally, when the husband announced that he was going to the new world to seek fame and fortune, the wife decided that she could not be happy without him and a reconciliation followed.

On their arrival in the United States Boston was chosen as their home. Al- tar one evening announced that he was going out to pay the rent. He did not return. Alone in a strange land, without friends, with little money, and with a child to care for, the wife and mother started in search of her husband. From Boston she went to New York, from there to Montreal, to Detroit, to Chicago, to Milwaukee, to St. Paul and finally to Minneapolis before she found a trace of him.

Learning that he was living in this city, the wife appeared at his boarding house one day with the little daughter in her arms. She asked for Mr. Swartz and said that she was his wife. Her advent caused the greatest surprise, as Swartz had posed among them as a single man. When confronted by the mother of his child he refused to recognize her or do anything for her, and she has for more than a year lived in the city, worked and supported the child.

Judge Cray did not sign the decree of divorce asked by Mrs. Swartz, but intimated that he would do so.

Divorces were granted this morning by Judge Cray to Daisy Atwood from Arthur Atwood, desertion, and to Karen Mathea Steen from Christian T. Steen, desertion. Evidence was heard and taken under advisement in the cases of James F. Longstreet against Frances L. Longstreet, infidelity, and of Annie K. Guske against William Guske, cruel and inhuman treatment.

NEW SYSTEM IS READY

JONES, CAESAR & CO. CAN INSTALL PART OF NEW ACCOUNTING BOOKS AS SOON AS ORDERED.

Whenever the council says so, Jones, Caesar & Co. are ready to install a portion of their new public accounting system for Minneapolis. Their system has not been perfected owing to the failure of certain public servants to provide information as is essential, and to the unobliging attitude assumed by others. However, the work has now gone so far that the current business of the city can be handled under the new system.

It will be necessary to pass an ordinance installing the system and also to provide means. Representatives of Jones, Caesar & Co. will soon call a conference of the chairmen of the council committees on ways and means, accounts of city officers and ordinances to plan a line of action. That the revolving fund, needed straightening out has been known for many months, but there are many other things that need untangling. Thus, in the trial balance of the city controller, the park board is debited with a total of about $4,700,000, while the statement of expenditures of the park board since its organization, in the annual report of the park board, accountably gives the amount as less than $4,000,000. With regard to the schools and other departments similar discrepancies are noted with a similar lack of explanation.

MARRIED IN MILWAUKEE

MAURICE L. ROTHSCHILD OF MINNEAPOLIS AND MISS GUSTIA M. ROTHSCHILD OF CHICAGO.

Special to The Journal. Milwaukee, Jan. 15.—Maurice L. Rothschild, head of the Palace Clothing Co., Minneapolis, and Miss Gustia M. Rothschild, daughter of a millionaire dry goods merchant of Chicago, were married here yesterday afternoon and hurried back to Chicago to celebrate the wedding in that city.

Being cousins, the Illinois marriage laws prevented their union in this state, but the Wisconsin law imposes no such impediment. Preceded by an attorney, the bridal party reached Milwaukee at 1 o'clock. They found the circuit judge, the license clerk and Rabbi Julius H. Meyer awaiting them. The services of the judge were necessary to set aside a provision of the law which requires that marriage licenses must be issued at least five days before the ceremony is performed.

Attorney Binswanger reached Milwaukee early in the morning and, proceeding to make the necessary arrangements, he told the county clerk that his clients would not have time to go to the courthouse, because they were anxious to leave on the first train for Chicago, and before he got thru the clerk consented. Then he called upon the judge and enlisted his sympathies. His court calendar was exhausted and there was nothing to keep him at the courthouse, and he consented to go to the Pfister hotel.

Just as soon as the bridal party reached the hotel the clerk made out the license, the court suspended the operation of the statute and the rabbi performed the ceremony. Then, after the kissing, the handshaking and the congratulations, the couple sat down to a wedding breakfast, leaving on the first train for Chicago, where, after a celebration in the evening, they left on a wedding journey.

C. D. TAYLOR AT ST. PAUL

He Has Been Laid Up at the Ryan Hotel.

Clarence D. Taylor, the General Electric company employe whose disappearance created something of a sensation, is at the Ryan hotel in St. Paul. He communicated with his family yesterday afternoon and his father went at once to St. Paul. Mr. Taylor has been laid up at the Ryan since Monday and not in condition to communicate with his family. His friends say he had no intention of going farther away. His accounts with the Electric company are perfectly straight and there are now no other accounts outstanding against him.

MINNETONKA CLUB'S HOME AT LAKE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Handsome House on Island in St. Louis Bay Is Burned to the Ground—Lack of Fire Apparatus at the Lake Makes It Impossible to Save Either Building or Contents.

The Minnetonka club's handsome clubhouse at Deephaven was destroyed by fire which broke out shortly after 6 o'clock last evening. The lack of fire apparatus at the lake rendered it impossible to save the building or much of the furniture. The fire originated in the furnace-room of the clubhouse, supposedly in the cold-air intake. It had gained considerable headway before it was discovered. The clubhouse was a large three-story building, situated upon an island in St. Louis bay. The building and contents were valued at $25,000. The Minnetonka club, which leased the building, was formed about a year ago by a consolidation of the Minnetonka Yacht club and the Minnetonka Ice Yacht club, the latter having built the house. The clubhouse was one of the most popular resorts

THE POLICE ARE FEELING 'RILED'

THEY DON'T LIKE JUDGE DICKINSON'S POINTED INQUIRY.

The Latter Says the Police Court Is Not to Be a Cats-Paw—Aldermen Likewise Inclined to Resent Comment on Laxity in Handling Liquor Licenses.

A clash between the police and the municipal council seems imminent. Yesterday Judge Dickinson in passing sentence upon two offenders in police court, took the police to task for partially shown in enforcing the gambling laws and in enforcing the city council for the laxity with which liquor licenses are granted. Chief of Police Conroy said to-day:

"I thought Judge Dickinson was trying the case at the bar and not the general community. We arrested Phillips, the gambler in question, for violating the law and I supposed that it was the duty of the court to pass upon the case. As to other matters referred to, I think they were foreign to the case. Judge Dickinson said to-day that his remarks were made because he wanted to know if the police were beginning a crusade against gambling, if so he would be willing to help out by passing straight workhouse sentences, but if they were not starting a general crusade, which would mean that all gamblers should be brought into court, he did not purpose to send any to the workhouse. He feels it beneath the dignity of the court to become, even a silent partner in any scheme of the administration. A lawyer said this morning that the charter makes the judge of the municipal court chief magistrate of the city and it is his duty to see that the laws are enforced. He has a right at any time to order any offender brought into court without regard to the police department or the mayor himself.

ALDERMEN DON'T LIKE IT

The caustic criticism of the aldermen in connection with saloon licenses has aroused their resentment. They feel that the court is placing on them a blame which belongs to the police department.

"I have no intention of criticizing the municipal bench," said Chairman Clark of the license committee this morning. "The law is the law, and the council, and particularly the committee on licenses, that certain matters be explained. I frankly confess that my acquaintance with saloons and liquor dealers is limited, and I have found no member of the committee better informed than I. We rely on the police department for information, and it must be plain that we cannot have a suspension of saloons our personal attention.

"At the same time, we are willing to do our share toward correcting abuses and exterminating the dives. Now, long since the council passed an ordinance prohibiting the transfer of liquor licenses. If a man sells his saloon he may have the license revoked and obtain a rebate, and the purchaser must apply in person for his license. It may happen that applicants are merely stool pigeons for some one else, but how are we to know? As long as we know nothing about the man, we are obliged to issue a license even to a place that had previously had an unsavory reputation. I believe that the present council can be safely relied on to improve the moral tone of the city and to repress vice and crime, and to refuse licenses to objectionable characters when they are known to be such."

MOURN MEMBER'S LOSS

Chamber of Commerce Expresses Sorrow Over J. H. Martin's Death.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce have adopted resolutions in memory of Joseph H. Martin, president of the chamber for 10 years, and a member at the time of his recent death. The resolutions express sorrow over the loss of a useful member and an honest and upright man, to whose wise guidance, while in office, the association owes much of its present prosperity and high standing. The association tenders its sympathy to the family of Mr. Martin, and the directors and officers will attend the funeral in a body. A portrait of Mr. Martin will be placed in the directors' room.

CALDERONE'S TRIAL MONDAY

COUNTY ATTORNEY AND THE ACCUSED MAN ARE READY.

Trial Is Expected to Require a Week—Calderone Has Wholly Recovered from Wounds Received the Night of the Tragedy on Franklin Avenue Bridge.

Antonio Calderone, the self-confessed slayer of Salvatore Battalia, will be placed on trial for his life before Judge Brooks next Monday morning. It was thought a further continuance might be ordered, but the county attorney is ready for trial, and E. L. McGhee, Calderone's attorney, is also understood to be ready.

The prisoner has entirely recovered from the slight wounds received on the night of the killing on the Franklin avenue bridge. He is not only well physically, but his mental condition is much improved. He will not talk of his case, but is evidently confident that his attorney will find a loophole whereby he can escape hanging.

LONG PARTED FROM WIFE

Henry T. Scarfe Asks Divorce from Woman in England.

An action for divorce was commenced in the district court this morning by Henry T. Scarfe against Mary H. Scarfe, a resident of Yorkshire, England, whom he married thirty years ago. Ten years later the husband and wife made a home for himself and family. Since that time, heealges, he has endeavored many times to induce his wife to come over, but she has steadily refused. Now the husband seeks a legal release.

Because John Schaefer has been, in the language of the complaint, "a habitual drunkard, who has been cruel and inhuman and unfaithful to his marriage vows, Anna Schaefer has commenced an action for a divorce.

SILVERMAN CHANGES PLEA

Admits Passing Forged Check—To Be Sentenced To-morrow.

William Silverman, indicted for forgery in the case of the withdrawal of his plea of not guilty before Judge Brooks this morning and pleaded guilty to passing a forged check for $8 drawn on the Saxton Heating company, was sentenced to the workhouse for the crime while under the influence of drink, to which he is periodically addicted, and his good standing was vouched for by so many reputable citizens that the court was disposed to leniency. The judge suggested that a sentence to the penitentiary on the reformatory plan might carry less of a stigma than a straight short sentence and gave the defendant until to-morrow morning to decide which he preferred.

WON'T PAY FOR FURNACE

The Moore Heating company is the plaintiff in an action being tried before Judge Simpson to collect a bill of $523, alleged to be due from William Russell for the installation of a heating plant. The defendant says that the plant was not what it was represented to be and refuses to pay. The defendant has the same name as a former member of the board of charities and corrections, who is said to be wanted by the attorney general to be a fugitive from justice, but they are not related.

'KILTIES' SUITS SEIZED

THEY HAD ORDERED NEW FITS FROM GLASGOW BUT INNOCENTLY FORGOT ABOUT CUSTOMS REGULATIONS.

The "Kilties" are coming; but will they have their new kilts? Innocently but awkwardly the famous aggregation of musical Scots which plays at the Metropolitan theater next Sunday night, has run afoul of Uncle Sam's customs regulations and a big, new lot of brass uniforms are tied up. The "Kilties" ordered their kilts from Glasgow. When the band was in Detroit the clothes were sent to Windsor, Ont. On the advice of an American consul there, the members were to change clothing and parade across the line. But the clothes were again delayed, so the change was effected at Sault Ste. Marie. The band donned the kilts. It now develops that $150 a suit in export entry should have been exacted. Customs officers from the Soo followed the band to Ishpeming and yesterday seized the new kilts which were sent to Washington pending a settlement of the case. The band is fully provided with the outfits it had before the seizure.

WHEN WHEAT WAS $1.31 INTERESTING RELIC OF THE GRAIN TRADE POSTED AT THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE. Much interest was stirred up on change this morning by the posting on the bulletin board of a circular issued by the pioneer grain firm of Underwood & Co., almost thirty years ago. There are a few old timers here who remember the firm. The circular is dated at the Chicago office Saturday, Sept. 4, 1869. It was found among some old papers by Charles S. Fellows of the Albert Dickinson company, who brought it on change that afternoon. It might save a few prices that were really high. In those days hard spring wheat was looked upon with suspicion, not unlike that now directed towards macaroni wheat, consequently the spring wheat farmers could get only $1.31 a bushel for their product, while winter wheat brought $1.35 @ 1.38. Wheat in New York city was then worth $1.62. Flour was worth $6.80 @ 7 a barrel in car lots, and "Flisk's best," "Cole's" and "Bradwell's" were the popular brands. In course of time the prices were such as to seem almost impossible to one used to the figures of recent years.
