STATE'S LOSS AT OWATONNA

PRINCIPAL BUILDING OF THE SCHOOL WAS DESTROYED.

Insurance of $57,000 on Burned Property Saves the Commonwealth a Heavy Loss—All Important Records and Much of the Furniture Taken Out—Structure Likely to Be Rebuilt as Before.

Owatonna, Minn., Jan. 25.—Fire which broke out in the main building at the state public school yesterday afternoon destroyed the interior of the north wing and part of the central portion of the structure, causing a loss approaching $70,000.

The flames are believed to have originated from a defective furnace flue and probably had burned some time before they were discovered.

Facilities being poor for fighting the fire help from the city was called by telephone. The message was misunderstood, and a train was made for the eastern part of the city, a mile and a half away. When finally reached the fire was beyond control.

The south wing, children's dining-room and the kitchen were damaged by smoke. All the school furniture was saved, the Engineer Balch and his wife lost all their property.

Nineteen babies domiciled in the south wing were removed safely. Twenty-five companies had $50,000 insurance on the building and $7,000 on the furniture. The walls are in fair condition except in the central part of the building.

Moved Out in Order. All the inmates of the school had time to put on their outdoor wraps before they left the building, and they were cared for in the most orderly manner, as they were trained, and there was no panic.

All of the important records in the vault were saved, and the scenery and pictures in the auditorium were taken out before the fire got a headway. The auditorium wing is in ruins. The kitchen is located in the extreme end of the south wing, and the dining-room above it. Aside from the harm done by water, these rooms are not badly damaged.

The rest of the building, however, is in ruins, but the walls are standing. The superintendent Merrill says the building will probably be rebuilt practically as it was before.

GIRLMURDERED, HOUSE BURNED AND GOLD STOLEN.

Defendant Was Once Convicted and Was Serving His Sentence at Wau-pun When the Supreme Court Directed a New Trial—One of the Most Celebrated Cases in Western Wisconsin Will Soon Be Before a Jury at Alma.

Special to The Journal. Alma, Wis., Jan. 25.—The second trial of Eric I. Paulson for the murder of Mary Seidon at Pepin, June 16, 1898, began today. Paulson was convicted of this crime by a jury at Pepin, Wis., in 1901. The efforts of his attorney, S. G. Gilman, he was granted a new trial by the supreme court. He was brought back from Wau-pun last summer and has been in jail awaiting his trial.

On the day named Mr. Seidon and family went to Pepin, two miles away, to attend a soldiers' reunion, leaving their 16-year-old daughter, Mary, alone at home. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon word came to them that their house had burned. The big flames were completely destroyed and in one corner of the cellar on a great bed of coals and partly consumed cordwood lay the charred remains of the girl.

INTERESTING FEATURE OF BAYFIELD'S FISHING INDUSTRY. BAYFIELD, WIS.—One of the most interesting features of the fishing industry at Bayfield is the fact that the fish are being sold in the winter season. To engage in trout fishing one must secure a sled and a strong team of horses to pull the sled up the mountain among the Apocite hills. Having arrived at a point, usually near the point of a bay, a wind break is put up for protection against the cutting lake winds, and with a hole cut in the fishing ground, the fish are ready to drop his line and wait results.

A very strong line and hook are used, as the fish are taken in a thirty-day pond each. Many fish are caught in this way and are usually sold to the large fishing companies which supply the market.

Special to The Journal. Jackson, S. D., Jan. 26.—Suspected of having murdered his brother, Hanson is under surveillance of the officers to prevent his leaving the country before a warrant can be obtained to warrant an arrest. Hanson lives on a rented farm a mile from Irene. Up to last August his brother Hans lived with him.

According to Hanson's story his brother left the farm one day in company with a tramp. At the time he was wearing his working clothes and had little or no money. He has never been seen or heard from since.

The brothers owned stock and machinery and since the disappearance of Hans, Chris has been selling the property. The efforts to dispose of the stock aroused the suspicions of residents of Irene and especially of N. C. Andrews, mayor, who called States Attorney Holman and Hanson was taken into custody and put thru the sweating process for over two hours. Hanson admitted that he had filled the well with dirt and rubbish, but said it was done before his brother disappeared, and that he filled it because one of his hogs had fallen in. Neighbors of Hanson will testify that the well was not filled until after the brother had been gone some time.

Hanson's actions have been suspicious for other reasons than these. He has never shown the slightest interest in the whereabouts of his missing brother, and when questioned about his brother has seemed to resent it.

WASHOE SMELTERS WORKING AT FULL BLAST AGAIN.

Pittsburg Company's Plant to Swing Into Line in a Few Months—Clark's Good Luck Continues—One of the Greatest Strikes of Recent History Made in the Oriental Mine.

Special to The Journal. Butte, Mont., Jan. 26.—The present year promises to be one of the most prosperous in the history of copper mining in Butte. Barring the various properties closed as the result of litigation between the Amalgamated Copper company and F. Augustus Heine, full forces of men are working in the mines at the camp.

The Washoe copper smelters at Anaconda are practically working full blast. Within a few months the new smelter of the Pittsburg company on the flats below the city will be in full swing.

Probably one of the greatest strikes in the recent history of Butte has been made in the Oriental mine, one of Senator Clark's properties at a cost of $1,000,000. The mine is a body of copper ranging from nine to twelve feet in width was encountered. This ore will assay about 60 per cent copper, and throughout the vein masses of lustrous bornite are to be found, giving the workings into the mass of copper glance a very spectacular appearance.

The Original mine was one of the first properties of note to be discovered in Butte.

An interesting evolution is taking place in the famous Anaconda hill. The prediction is made that in the course of five years the Anaconda hill will be on a level with the Never Sweat mine many feet lower. This change is being effected on account of the fact that the men are constantly engaged in cutting off the surface and lowering the earth into the ground for the purpose of supplying filling for the shafts.

Articles of incorporation of the New York and Montana Copper Mining company, which is to be organized in the famous Anaconda hill will become, it is believed, almost a foot-hill in size if the top is to be replaced the miles of space, from which immense quantities of ore are being extracted day and night.
