POWERS SMELLS ANOTHER MOUSE
HE FAILS TO AROUSE OTHER ALDERMEN, HOWEVER.

He intimates that Alderman Holmes is interested in a paving company, but the charge receives small attention—the mayor sends in a comprehensive message.

Another of Alderman F. M. Powers' sensations was sprung at last night's council. Powers charged that Alderman C. B. Holmes of the fifth ward with being attorney for the creosoted wood company and with using his position as chairman of the paving committee to throw the bulk of city work to that company.

Alderman Holmes jumped to his feet, with a hot retort. He denied that he was attorney for the company but acknowledged that the official publication of the articles of incorporation bore the name of "C. B. Holmes, attorney." Nevertheless he had simply assisted the company in locating in Minneapolis and conducted the incorporation proceedings. Now he had no further interest in the concern.

But even if he had lost his interest in creosoted blocks, the other aldermen had not and several told what a magnificent paving material it made. Alderman Powers was not convinced, however, and maintained that cedar blocks were not only cheaper but far more desirable. He stated that while the life of cedar blocks properly used was fifteen years, the interest on the difference in cost between the two kinds of paving would pay for a new surface of cedar blocks every seven years.

But Creosote Won Out.

His arguments fell on deaf ears, for the friends of the creosoted block have a controlling majority in the council. Out of $100,000 of an ordinance re-ordered from last season, $74,000 will go to creosoted wood, as against $34,000 for sandstone, brick and macadam, and not a cent for cedar block. There is still $104,000 to be spent on paving this season, and an attempt is to be made to capture nearly the whole sum for creosoted blocks.

Every alderman present, except Powers, voted for the report of the paving committee. This report did not include the new work, which will be considered at a special meeting next Friday.

Free Lunch Attacked.

Alderman S. E. Adams introduced an ordinance abolishing free lunches in saloons. Such action is desired, not only by the liquor dealers, but also by Health Commissioner P. M. Hall as a sanitary measure and by all those engaged in charitable and social reform work.

Message from the Mayor.

A feature of the meeting was an annual report from Mayor J. C. LeMay, which was summarized by the city departments for 1903, complimented the police and made many recommendations. He urged the diversion of $200,000 into the city system of Minneapolis, the passage of an automobile ordinance to supplement the state law, the passage of a rigid and comprehensive theater ordinance, the passage of an ordinance prohibiting the sale of dangerous explosives for Fourth of July celebrating, and the establishment of a free employment bureau.

The council passed the ordinance authorizing the health department to "tag" wells condemned as dangerous. The "tags" are to be of brass and are to be fastened to the pump in conspicuous places.

To Enlarge Reservoirs.

The city engineer was instructed to prepare estimates of the cost of constructing two additional basins at the reservoir, duplicating the present capacity of 98,000,000.

The council adopted the report of the committee on sewers, providing for the apportionment of money among the various wards.

Alderman Schoonmaker gave notice of an ordinance, fixing the level of Lake Harriet at 138 feet.

Liberty Bell Plan.

It was decided to join the commercial bodies in a request to the city of Philadelphia to permit the Liberty Bell to be shown in Minneapolis.

Permission was given to John Burns to attach drinking troughs for dogs on the horse fountains. Mr. Burns will provide forty-three at his own expense.

Alderman Westphal gave notice of an ordinance to repeal the curfew ordinance, which was unnecessary because it was not enforced.

The Powers resolution providing for the refundment of sewer assessment rebates in such a manner that they can be applied to payment of current taxes was passed.

OFFERS CASH FOR RIGHT HUSBAND
"DR. WILSON'S BROTHER" INCLINED TO BE NONCOMMITTAL.

The Doctor Advertises in Detroit Papers, Making an Attractive Offer, but Information Regarding "The Pretty Heiress" Isn't Handed Out Promiscuously.

"A large sum cash is offered any respectable man to marry a pretty heiress. Dr. Wilson, 109 Central avenue, Minneapolis."

"That ad" published in a Detroit newspaper sent me wooling this morning for the first time in ten years," remarked a Minneapolis business man as he gazed reflectively at the small "ad" pasted at the top of a letter. "I have an old friend down at Marlon, Ind., who wrote me to see what there was in the matter as he felt inclined to give a pretty heiress who was inclined to put up a wad of money as an evidence of good faith. He wrote that if she had $5,000 he could like her, if she had $10,000 he could really love her and if she had more than that he could idolize her."

"I found the office of 'Dr. Wilson' on the third floor of the address given, but the doctor was not in. A middle aged man opened the door and coming out into the hall planted his shoulders squarely across the door."

"I stated my business. The advance agent for the would-be bride looked at me suspiciously and demanded that my friend write a letter of formal application for the hand and the cash of the young lady. I urged that the friend had sent me as a judge of beauty to cast an eye upon the maiden, but he said me nay. I could not find out whether she was a bleached blonde or a sunburned brunette. I was given to understand that my friend furnish credentials, and I told him that he was a pillar in the church and capable of caring for a lonely girl with money as long as her cash held out."

"The heiress, I finally found out, was not in Minneapolis. 'Out here a ways,' was the information on that point. I felt that my suit was not gaining ground, and I became anxious to hold soul communion with this lovely girl. Inside the room a typewriter was ticking away, and I formed a suspicion that the heiress was there answering letters to me. I didn't leave a few outward-bound tracks on the premises, he would set the dog on me."

PICTURES FOR PRIZE ESSAYISTS
MINNEAPOLIS WINNERS IN S. A. R. CONTEST ARE HONORED.

Pictures Won by East and South High School Pupils Are Presented to the Schools—Miss Esther Chapman and Willis Newton the Successful Contestants.

Picture presentations were the order in two of the Minneapolis high schools yesterday—the East and the South high schools. The presentations were made by representatives of the Sons of the American Revolution of Minnesota, and the pictures were those won by pupils of the two schools in an essay contest open to the pupils of the schools of the state.

At 10 a. m. about 800 persons gathered in the assembly-room at the East high school. Principal W. F. Webster called the meeting to order. Patriotic recitations were given, and Miss Esther Chapman, winner of the first prize in the state contest, read her essay on "The Women of the Revolution." Judge J. O. Pierce then presented the picture, "The Peace Ball," to the high school. Mr. Webster made the speech of acceptance. Addresses were made by Judge Ell Torrance and others.

At 11:30 the scene shifted to the South high school. The large auditorium was filled with pupils and friends of the school. South high was the winner of the second prize, thru the essay of Willis T. Newton on "The Surrender of Cornwallis."

The presentation was made by Judge J. O. Pierce, and the trophy was in turn presented to the school by Mr. Newton. W. K. Hicks of the board of education accepted for the school, complimenting the author upon his ability. Addresses were made by Superintendent C. M. Jordan, Judge Ell Torrance and others. The program was enlivened by patriotic airs from the school orchestra. The picture was that of "Washington's Farewell to the Army."

THE GRIGGS LECTURE
Only One Chance Offered to Hear the Lecturer Here.

It is a matter of regret to many who are acquainted with the great reputation of Edward Howard Griggs as a popular educational lecturer, that his Minneapolis engagement is for only a single lecture, as he is one of the stimulating teachers whom to hear once is to desire to hear again. Altho this will not be possible this year, and only a taste will be afforded of his forceful and winning personality, his lectures are so packed thru his books. Among these are "The New Humanism" and "A Book of Recitations."

Mr. Griggs will lecture in Minneapolis under the auspices of the Teachers' club at the First Baptist church, March 21. Mr. Griggs was born at Owatonna and is a nephew of Mrs. Harlow Gale.

LONG LEGAL BATTLE
Won by Security Land and Exploration Company.

After fighting the case in the department of the interior and in the courts for the past eleven years and winning it three times in the lower courts, John R. Vanderlip has received word that the United States supreme court has decided in his favor the case of the Security Land and Exploration Company vs. Burns, involving the title to 400 acres of St. Louis county mineral lands. Indirectly the decision affects 1,200 acres of land which is supposed to be rich in iron.

The dispute over title originated in the fatigue of an underpaid government surveyor, who, in 1876, ran three of the four lines around township 57, range 17, St. Louis county, and then sat down and drew his section lines, a map of Cedar Island lake, which lies mostly in the county, wrote his field notes, smoked a pipe, and went home.

It so happened that the lake, as he drew it, covered about 2,000 acres, whereas, in fact, it is but 500 acres. The patentee of the land around the lake maintained that their patents carried them to the shore line, while the settlers contested in the courts for ownership.

The firm of Wilson & Vanderlip represented the settlers, grouped under the name of the Security Land and Exploration company. The land is now being surveyed by the government and the homesteaders will be able to prove up.
