Women and the Professions

"There is not a good, wholesome woman in the world, who does not feel herself entitled to consideration simply because she is a woman."

DR. GERTRUDE STANTON, the woman optician, does not want, ask or expect consideration from the public on this ground. She has thoroughly educated and equipped herself for the successful practice of her profession, and intends to win in competition with men thru the force of her superior ability, her thorough mastery of every detail of her chosen work, and the fair and generous treatment of her patients. If your eyes trouble you, see her. All Work Guaranteed.
