CARGO RECORDS BROKEN

STEAMSHIP AUGUSTUS B. WOLVIN ARRIVES AT DULUTH WITH 10,300 TONS OF COAL.

Duluth, Minn., June 15.—All records for vessel cargoes on the Great Lakes have been broken by the arrival of the steamship Augustus B. Wolvin, with 10,300 net tons of coal, and by her scheduled loading this week of 19,000 gross tons of iron ore at the docks of the Duluth & Iron Range railway. The greatest coal cargo ever carried into Lake Superior was on the steamship I. L. Elwood of the United States Steel corporation, Buffalo to Duluth, 7,688 net tons, and the largest cargo of iron ore was that of the William Edenborn of the same company, Escanaba to South Chicago, 8,807 gross tons. In this cargo the ship was favored by a draft of 20 feet all the way, while the Wolvin is restricted to about 18.5 by the channels out of Lake Superior and by the fact that this is her first trip. The Wolvin should carry about 11,000 gross tons with all conditions favorable, and will doubtless make that mark this season. There are few ships afloat anywhere that carry heavier loads than this. The career of this ship will be watched with great interest, not alone for her unrivaled size, but on account of the revolutionary methods of construction employed, the freedom from annual labor planned for cargo delivery and the net returns expected from the immense investment in construction. Nothing could more closely typify the growth of marine traffic in the northwest than this ship.

Daily Newspaper Published on Board a Trans-Atlantic Liner. Marconi has made good his promise to publish a daily newspaper on board a trans-Atlantic liner, giving its passengers the news of the world each day. The experiment was successfully tried on the steamer Campania, which arrived at New York last Saturday. The passengers, while many hundreds of miles from land, read of the Colorado dynamite outrage, the events of the war and many other happenings. From all points of the compass we may hear of the comments given golden grain belt beer. Why is it so popular? Get a case and find out.
