DESERTED WIFE'S QUEST

A Milwaukee Woman Here Looking for Her Missing Husband.
Stranded in a strange city, because she had spent all her money for transportation to be used in searching for her husband, who had deserted her and her two small children, Mrs. Mabel Miller of Milwaukee was this morning compelled to ask the Minneapolis poor department for help. Altho she is not a resident of the city, she could not be turned away hungry, and an order for a week's board was made out for her. In the meantime the police will help her look for her wayward husband, who she believes is in the city.

Mrs. Miller says that her home life was happy until a few months ago, when her husband suddenly left her. She had no money and her children nearly starved before she could overcome her pride and ask friends to care for them while she could go in search of their father.
"I don't care for myself," said Mrs. Miller, "but it is his duty to care for his children. I will support myself, but he will have to support the children if I can find him."
Persons acquainted with Mrs. Miller say her husband has been seen here and she hopes with the aid of the police to find him.

HE STAYED ALOFT IN RAGING STORM

NAVAL DISCIPLINE NEARLY KILLED MINNEAPOLIS BOY.

He Was Sent Aloft for Breaking a Pane of Glass and Rode Out a Storm at the Masthead—Finally Fell, Sustaining Possibly Fatal Injuries.

For a heinous offense, Roy Hanson, a Minneapolis boy, who is serving on the United States ship Scorpion, was sent to the masthead for six hours. As he was descending, his numb fingers refused to hold and he fell sixty feet to the deck, sustaining serious injuries.

All things combined he had accidentally broken a window.
Hanson's parents reside in North Minneapolis. Word of the accident, which occurred two weeks ago, reached the city today.

Young Hanson has been in the navy long enough to have acquired the reputation of being the best climber aboard the Scorpion. Possibly it was this reputation which suggested the form of punishment when he broke a small pane of glass. The ship was then in West Indian waters, off San Domingo. It was a hot day and Hanson ran lightly aloft to do penance, attired in the thinnest clothing issued in the navy for wear in the tropics.

Less than an hour after he had taken his post, the wind suddenly veered, and black clouds came driving down before a typical tropical storm. Long, gray combes began to growl past the ship and all on deck was made fast for a big blow. To the men on deck the high sea was embarrassing, but a hundred feet above, the masted crew thru an arc of seventy-five feet for every roll the ship made.

With the storm came a sudden drop in temperature and a heavy rain. Accustomed to tropical heat, the cold seemed positively wintry to the sailors, who hustled into flannels and peajackets.

Lyapunov Hanson clung miserably to the railing mast, waiting for his period of punishment to expire. He was seared to the skin and chilled to the marrow. Whether the superior officer who had ordered him up forgot about his predicament, or whether naval discipline prevented a modification of the order, does not appear, but Hanson remained in his perilous position more than five hours before he decided that he must descend or lose his life. He started down, but was so numb with cold that he lost his hold and fell when sixty feet above the deck. He was picked up with one broken rib and suffering from internal injuries from which it was feared that he would not recover.

PEDDLERS' LICENSE VALID

Recent Supreme Court Decision Spurs the Police to Action.
Since the supreme court has handed down its decision holding the license of peddlers invalid, the law will be enforced impartially against all peddlers who do not take out their licenses promptly.

The Peter Jensen test case has been in the hands of the supreme court for several months, and during that time the city officials have been rather lenient with the peddlers. Jensen is a farmer and was arrested for selling mums grown on his own land. He held that he had a right to sell his own produce without a license. The supreme court held that he had no such right, and that the $50 amount to regulate the business, to prevent its becoming a nuisance.

Now that backed by the law a few days will be given the delinquent peddlers to take out licenses, and after that the police will begin to make arrests everywhere. The police are doing business under special permits issued by the mayor, but it is probable that these will be revoked. If they are not, the state grocers' association will swear out warrants and the permits will be of no value.

TAILORS PLAN PICNIC

Twin City Clothes Builders Will Visit Minnetonka Thursday.

The afternoon will be spent at Spring Park, where a baseball game will be played between nines from both cities.

Fifteenth Century Fieldpiece Was Brought from the Philippines.
A relic of the fifteenth century in the shape of a pony cannon has become one of the valuable possessions of the University of Minnesota thru the generosity of Captain Stacey of Fort Snelling. The relic was brought from the Philippines by George H. Morgan, commandant of the University Cadet corps.

The fieldpiece was brought from the Philippines by Major Morgan, who in turn has decided to make it a part of the university museum. It weighs 250 pounds and was in an excellent state of preservation. It is a relic of the Castilian conquest and settlement in the islands.

LOWRY FIGURES IN TIMES DEAL

Purchase Was Made Thru Him, but He Denies Political Significance.

One of the transactions incident to the Minneapolis Times by the Goodfellow interests came to light late Saturday afternoon, when two deeds were filed transferring property worth $60,000 from Thomas Lowry to William E. Goodfellow. Since the Thurston management was superseded by Albert Dollemeyer, there has been much quiet speculation as to the interest of the Times in the latter to control the Times.

The appearance in the deal of Mr. Lowry, who is already quietly interested in another Minneapolis newspaper, would naturally suggest political possibilities, inasmuch as the latest acquisition has not a record of earnings which would make it particularly attractive in a purely business way. Mr. Lowry and his friends, however, disclaim any such intent in the deal. They say the purchase was made thru him merely as a convenience to a friend, and that he will hold no permanent interest.

The property covered by the deeds filed Saturday is all in Remington Park. The first deed describes the following property: Eight lots in block 3, eight in block 4, nine in block 13; thirteen in block 14; ten in block 15; eight in block 19; eight full lots and portions of three lots in block 22, all in first division of Remington Park. The consideration for the sixty-four full lots and three portions was $46,830.

The second deed transferred the following forty-eight lots, all in the second division of Remington Park: One lot in block 2, one in block 8, twenty-four in block 5, thirteen in block 11, eight in block 12, and one in block 15. The consideration was $16,650.

TWO 'FOURTH' FATALITIES

DEATH COMES TO BOY HURT BY ROMAN CANDLE AND TO ANOTHER INJURED BY EXPLODING POWDER.

William Drake, 12 years old, a victim of Fourth of July explosives, died last night at the city hospital after a long fight with tetanus.
The boy is the son of Mrs. Mary Drake, 2308 Oakland avenue. He was shooting fireworks at his home the night of the 4th, when a Roman candle exploded in his hand. The burns did not look serious at first, but soon after a case of lockjaw developed and nothing could relieve him.

Another fatality caused by the celebration is that of little Emil Lohle of Little Canada. He died yesterday at the St. Paul city hospital from burns caused by the explosion of a firecracker in his mother's store at Little Canada on the Fourth. He was pouring some powder out of the can when a spark from a firecracker ignited the whole mass, which was blown thru the store window.

ANOTHER ISLAND PARK

Enchanted Island Is to Be Platted and Beautified.
Enchanted Island property in upper Lake Minnetonka is looking up following the announcement of the coming exploitation of Phelps island. Commodore Zimmerman is figuring with several prospective buyers of the whole island for summer home sites. Enchanted island is separated from Phelps island by only a narrow bit of water, which was formerly a bridge. Reconstruction of the bridge will begin in a few days. The island is unoccupied save for the Zimmerman cottage. It has over a mile of shore line and contains fifty-three acres of land. The remaining portion of the island is a park. In connection with the drives, which are to be laid on Phelps island, the joint park system will be fine.

THIS YEAR'S CROP 'WAY BEHIND TIME

NEW RYE MARKETED THIS TIME LAST YEAR.

To Date, However, Rye and Barley, the Early Grains, Have Failed to Appear, Tho Some Cutting Is in Progress—New Wheat Offered "To Arrive."

Grain men who looked for the first new crop stuff to show up on "change" morning were a little disappointed, for there was nothing in. A year ago at this time new Minnesota rye had begun to move and new barley had not yet received, was in transit to Minneapolis from northern Minnesota and southeastern South Dakota.

Last week barley cutting began in the more advanced counties, but on the whole the harvest is backward. Rye cutting has been in progress for some time and the first of the new rye and barley ought to turn up here soon. It is predicted that the general movement of coarse grains will not be early or heavy. T. M. McCord, the largest local receiver of rye, does not look for a big northwestern production, but expects it to fall under last year.

Barley is a big crop, especially in South Dakota. Commons has reports showing not only large yields but a high quality. Of all grain crops, however, barley is most uncertain and rains during harvest would bring down the quality materially.

New No. 1 northern wheat was offered "change" at 3c over the September option. A sale on this basis would make delivery obligatory within twenty days and in view of the backwardness of the crop and the weather uncertainty, it is considered dangerous to make heavy commitment in that way, as in case of failure to effect delivery the seller will have to make good by turning to the local cash market, already greatly influenced by the scarcity of old wheat. The fact that new wheat is offered "change" more than indicates that some at least feel certain of being able to cut wheat, that will grade No. 1 northern, within the next ten or twelve days.

As to the general movement of wheat, it will undoubtedly be late. While the early cars will soon be rushed in, no movement worth noting will beget until more and more rain meanwhile in the south Minnesota and South Dakota counties where the crop is the most advanced, would delay the movement. Further north the wheat is late and there are reports in important counties in Minnesota and North Dakota, where wheat will not be ready to cut before Sept. 1 to 10 even with continued good weather from now on.

YESTERDAY MOVING DAY

Seeking Pleasure, Minneapolisians Left the City and Others Came In.

About two thousand excursionists were brought to the city yesterday by the railroads, and a good many more Minneapolisians were taken out to the lakes. The Milwaukee brought excursions from South Dakota and Iowa, the Rock Island and Great Western brought in hundreds of people also.

The interurban cars were loaded with fans bound for Lexington park, and the Minnehaha and Lake Harriet lines carried crowds to the two outing places. Como park, at St. Paul, was well patronized from Minneapolis. The weather was fine. A good sailing breeze caused the lakes to be dotted with sails, and the fish were not neglected.
