Weather Conditions.

Rain was falling during the past twelve hours in the southern half of Minnesota, thence southwestward into northern New Mexico, including the eastern half of South Dakota, in the Atlantic coast states, in northern Montana and in the north.

Weather Now and Then.

Today, maximum 67, minimum 62 degrees; a year ago, maximum 78, minimum 66 degrees.

AROUND THE TOWN

Alderman Sutherland Busy—Dr. O. P. Sutherland has received a full complement of dental apparatus and is busy attending to patients—Isle of Pines Appeal.

Chance for Bookkeepers—A civil service examination for bookkeeper for the reclamation service will be held in St. Paul Aug. 31. While the salary ranges from $2,000 to $3,000, all candidates over 20 are eligible. The salary will be $2,000 a year.

NECROLOGICAL

MRS. MARY BOWEN—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Bowen, who died last Tuesday evening, will be held from St. Lawrence Catholic church on Como avenue SE Monday, Aug. 1, at 9 a. m.

MISS ANNA JOHNSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Andrew Johnson, died this morning at her residence, 509 Nineteenth avenue S. She was a graduate from Central high school in the class of '91 and since that time had been employed by the Latta Lumber company. The funeral announcement will be made later.

HURRYING CONTRACTORS

Board of Education Offers Bonus for Prompt Construction.

A meeting of the building committee of the board of education was held this afternoon to review the work in progress and to let a few small contracts. There was much delay last fall in completing the various additions and the opening of several schools was postponed several weeks after the school term began.

It is known that the Adams school cannot be opened before Oct. 1. As the pupils were deprived of five or six weeks of schooling last spring, their vacation will be an unusually long one. It is hoped, however, that the additions to the Clay and Calhoun schools, with the new rooms at the Central high and East High schools, will be in readiness by the first day of the new school year.

PRISONERS OBSTREPEROUS

County Jail, Inmates Make Trouble for Their Keeper.

Because they failed to receive the attention which they thought was due them from the night watchmen, the county jail prisoners attempted to start some trouble last night and succeeded in making the night hideous with their racket.

It was discovered recently that the night watchmen were acting as an errand boy for the prisoners. Orders were issued from the sheriff's office that this be stopped on account of the danger the watchmen incurred in handling things to the prisoners. Last night the men behind the bars asked for matches, water and other things, and the watchman paid no attention. They became indignant without effect, and they were allowed to tire themselves out with their own exertions.

The night man will have help tonight.

FOUND BODY AT THE "U"

John Stromberg's Long Search for Employee Successful.

After a search of two months the body of Peter Froberg was found yesterday at the university medical school by the man's former employer, John Stromberg. Froberg disappeared from Stromberg's farm at Big Lake, Minn., two months ago and as he had said he would commit suicide on account of a drink habit, his employer started a diligent search for him. The man's body was taken out of the river about three weeks ago and an autopsy showed that he had taken a large quantity of carbolic acid.

ROGERS STANDS FIRM

But Council Committee Votes Additional Salary Allowances.

Those who expected that Joshua Rogers, city controller, would recede from his position with regard to the increased pay for the mayor and aldermen were disappointed this morning when they saw the pay roll he presented to the council committee on claims. The salaries were at the same old figures, and the committee on claims, as before, ordered a new pay roll to cover the additional stipends.

NOT A BAD OPINION

Tot Watched the Judge as He "Demoralized Citizens."

A naturalization case was held by Judge C. B. Elliott between 8 and 9 o'clock evening. The big courtroom was opened, and at the end of the hour twenty citizens and voters had been created.

Judge Elliott's little daughter accompanied her father and sat in the courtroom during the evening's ceremonies. She watched everything with interest, and when she returned home answered her mother's question as to where she had been with the startling information: "Oh, I have been down the courthouse watching papa demoralize citizens."

The Japanese navy is now seventh among the navies of the world.

JONES SAYS "YES, IF PEOPLE WISH"

FIFTH WARD ALDERMAN STATES POSITION ON MAYORALTY.

A Large Delegation Waits upon Him and, Following His Declaration, Arranges for a Canvass to Define the Popular Sentiment—John Schliener's Attitude.

D. P. Jones practically gave his consent this noon to become a candidate for mayor. He was given after he had been urged at a meeting of over 100 representative business men, held at the Northwestern Miller building, and presided over by William A. Jones, Eustis. The chair was authorized, on consultation with Mr. Jones, to appoint a campaign committee, the first duty of which shall be to define the public pulse as to Mr. Jones' candidacy, and then to take charge of the campaign.

After forming an organization of the meeting by election of a chairman, Mr. Jones was called upon by Mr. Eustis, who introduced him amid much applause as "our next mayor."

"I am aware why you are all here," said Mr. Jones. "You are here because you are interested in the city's welfare and desire to select some candidate for mayor. And I am aware that there has been more or less talk as to myself as your candidate. In the past, I have on many occasions been urged to become a candidate, and to many men asserted I would not. But if events show my availability, and if it should be demonstrated after my consent, or to be the candidate, now out, that still I should become the candidate, then I should consider that I had been made to become a candidate and would consent. But I want it demonstrated that the people really want and need me. I do not want to be simply a factor to divide party strength, or to be the candidate of any faction. I desire, if I run, to be the candidate of the rank and file of the people."

Charles Carroll was the first of many to speak. He suggested immediately raising a campaign fund, and offered $50 to start it, with a pledge to change without being noticed, but a merry throng was awaiting him. Hardy says the role of Hooligan is a thankless job.

SECOND ISSUE MONDAY

COMMERCIAL CLUB CHRONICLE WILL BECOME PERMANENT PUBLICATION—CLUB ACTIONS OUTLINED AND RESULTS REVIEWED.

The second issue of the Commercial Club Chronicle, Wallace G. Nye and E. J. Westlake, editors, will appear Monday. The new four page bulletin of the club's doings was so successful that the directors have decided to continue the publication.

Some attention is paid to the Minneapolis smoke nuisance, indicating that the club will move for an enforcement of the new ordinance. A column is devoted to the progress of the auditorium building and reference is made to the new college which the public affairs committee was influential in securing. Numerous items refer to the conventions that will be sought for next year. It is announced that the American Association of Freight Agents is coming and that the American Institute of Bank Clerks will be invited at its St. Louis meeting.

Proper pride is shown in the reference to past entertainments of important persons and in the matter of securing park music and the titifying of the discrimination on Pullman tickets against Minneapolis.

THREE SUSPECTS HELD

Police Think They May Know of Saloon Holdup.

On suspicion that they were implicated in the holdup at Handley's saloon, last night, three men were taken to the station this afternoon. They were found on the street near the saloon early this morning.

Butella is thought by the police to be a bad man. He is the man who accidentally shot Walter Keyes at the saloon. He is also thought to be the man who has been open to suspicion ever since he came to the city. He is thought to be the man who is in the Minneapolis workhouse for petty larceny.

FATAL NAIL WOUND

A Delano Boy Dies of Tetanus at St. Mary's Hospital.

George Wiesz, the 13-year-old son of Charles Wiesz, a farmer at Delano, Minn., died at St. Mary's hospital this morning of tetanus. He was rusty nail in his hand a week ago. The remains will be taken to Delano for interment.

MR. HARRY ACTS AS A HOOLIGAN

SAD EXPERIENCE MAKES HIM BUTT OF RIDICULE.

Chamber of Commerce Man, Hearing of Trouble of His Friend "Tibbles," Seeks to Aid Him and is Unmercifully Jostled for His Pains.

The wildest bit of horseplay seen on 'change for a long time came off this morning when Leslie Hardy appeared on the floor after a visit to Judge Dickinson's courtroom. Mr. Hardy had gone to court to rescue a friend from the clutches of the law. He came back to find himself the center of a huge joke.

Every morning a group of confirmed checker players may be found in the smoking room and the prize player of the lot is a man whose name is not Charlie Tibbles—but is close to it. This morning Tibbles, having gone into the country to investigate the reported prevalence of smut on the wheat, was not in his accustomed place, and Hardy was looking for him.

"Haven't you heard about Charles?" said a wag. "He's in jail."

"What?" exclaimed Hardy.

"Yes, in jail. He was out late last night and got into bad company and he was taken in by the police."

"I'll help him," said Hooligan Hardy, starting out.

"Wait a minute," said W. H. Dickinson, on his way to the pit, who overheard the conversation, "and I'll give you a note to my brother, the judge, and we will see what we can do for poor Charlie." Then he wrote:

"This will introduce Mr. Leslie Hardy of the chamber. Give him ten days."

Into the crowded courtroom walked Hardy and handed the sealed note to Judge Dickinson. The gravity of the court was upset. Just what that judge said to Hardy is uncertain, but a little later Hardy was talking to the judge in the house trying to find his friend, who he supposed might have given a fictitious name and gone out for lack of a friend to furnish bail.

Suddenly a great light seemed to break in on him, and he hung up the receiver, went into a corner and thought hard for a long time. Then he came to the door on 'change without being noticed, but a merry throng was awaiting him. Hardy says the role of Hooligan is a thankless job.

LEWIS' FEARS SEE HAND OF GOD

FEEL VON PLEHVE'S DEATH IS SPECIAL PROVIDENCE.

Hebrews the World Over Have Held Him to Blame for the Kishineff Massacre and the Finns Have Felt His Iron Hand Cruelly.

Jehovah Jireh is still caring for his chosen people in the days that have risen up champions for them against the Philistines. Only in these latter days the divine plan is worked out by two instruments instead of thru miracles.

Ever since the Kishineff horror, von Plehve, the Russian minister of the interior, has been regarded by the Russian Jews as the modern Haman, steward to the king and the oppressor of Israel. For centuries the name of Haman has been associated down by the Hebrews as the synonym for injustice and heartless cruelty. To their way of thinking, von Plehve was about as good a counterpart of the original Haman as history can ever produce. And the sword of the Lord has cut him down in the midst of the day.

There is not unseemly rejoicing in the Russo-Hebraic homes of Minneapolis; the people are too humane and too good to condemn a man to a life of violence and to gloat over the taking of human life. But there is a general feeling among them that it is not for nothing that the name of Haman has been so often mentioned in the past, and that the great plan, so often and somehow her oppressors will be solemnly called to account.

A similar feeling exists among the Finns in this country. The oppression of Finland is not a century old, her condition has excited the keenest sympathy from the civilized world.

It is perfectly natural that the Finns in America and in their native land regard the death of Minister von Plehve with interest and sympathy. It is not for nothing that the name of Haman has been so often mentioned in the past, and that the great plan, so often and somehow her oppressors will be solemnly called to account.

By the way, it might be well to deny the report that von Plehve had Finnish blood in his veins.

TAXES HERE ARE LOWER

COUNTY'S EXPENSES $16,000 LESS THAN LAST YEAR—TAX REDUCTION IS .14 MILLS.

Taxes in Hennepin county for 1905 will be .14 mills lower than in 1904. After two days' work on the estimates for next year, the county commissioners have determined that the cost of running the county for next year will be $16,000 less than last year's $17,891.74 was expended. The tax rate for county purposes, which was 2.75 mills this year, will be reduced to 2.61 mills.

The largest item to be left out of the coming year's estimate is the $10,000 apportioned to the various departments of the county's business has been reduced, while in the matter of heating and lighting the county building the estimate has had to be raised materially on account of the additional space to be opened up in the fourth street entrance and the city jail Central building floor.

Although the estimate is practically decided upon, there are a few minor discrepancies upon which County Auditor Harry Bates has presented several objections and the estimates will be made official tomorrow morning at a meeting of the commissioners called for that purpose.

TWO PLANKS IN HIS PLATFORM

Governor Van Sant Will Urge Favored Measures.

He Will Work This Year for the Passage of the 4 Per Cent Gross Earnings Bill—He Also Favors Extension of Primary Law to Include State Officers.

Governor Van Sant is out of politics as far as being a candidate for office goes, but he has not lost his interest in state affairs, and he will make his influence felt in behalf of two measures he deems of great importance. They are the 4 per cent gross earnings tax bill, and the extension of the primary election law so as to include state officers. Not being a candidate for office himself, he is free to devote his attention to these reforms.

"I shall do what I can to get the voters to pay due attention to the gross earnings bill," said Governor Van Sant this morning. "I regret that the question was left out of the platform on which I made my fight two years ago. It was not given as much attention as it should have had, owing to the anti-berger controversy, and so failed to get the necessary votes."

He is also in favor of extending the primary election law to include state officers. Not being a candidate myself, I am free to urge this improvement. I know there are differences of opinion as to the merits of the law, and it might be improved in some particulars, but it is good in principle, and it is the best system yet devised for doing away with the influence of ward heelers and caucus bosses.

The governor is inclined to think that some amendment should be devised to do away with the influence of ward heelers and caucus bosses. MILLERS PLEASED OVER PROSPECTS

TRUNK LINES REPRESENTED AT CONFERENCE.

Charles C. Bovey Returns from New York Meeting—Railroads Investigating Discriminatory Rates on Wheat as Against Flour—Relief Is Expected in a Short Time.

Charles C. Bovey returned this morning from New York after having pleased over the results of the meeting in that city at which the Minneapolis and Charles Bepko, president of the question of discriminatory rates on wheat as against flour. With Mr. Bovey were Messrs. J. C. Andrews of Minneapolis and Ryan of Buffalo, representing the Pillsbury-Washburn company, Henry L. Little being unable to attend; L. T. Jamme, secretary, and Charles Bepko, president of the Minneapolis National Federation and President Rothwell of the Bay State Millers' association of Boston.

Every trunk line was represented, the meeting being held at the rooms of the trunk lines' association in the Central building, 400 Broadway street. After an informal luncheon the railroad men gave ear to the millers who presented the case in substantially the same form as before. The interstate commerce commission some two months ago.

Something will now be done to remedy the evil that has so long worked against the Minneapolis millers. The trunk lines managers have interested themselves so seriously in the question that they have already set about preparing statistics for their own guidance showing comparative tonnage and relative net earnings from wheat and flour.
