Northwest Situation No Better and Rain Would Make It Worse.

Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, Aug. 3.—One cent more was added to wheat prices in the first hour of trading today, Minneapolis September going to 97c, and 10c for local new, with the price changes extended from the curb market of ten minutes before the opening, thru the first half-hour of the session, September making quick up and down moves between 95c and 97c. An accumulation of small lots of long wheat was sold on the dip, and the market appeared to be holding steady. The weather in the northwest was the great uncertainty. As it stood, it was not bad weather on the whole, and in places it would be just what was needed. But temperatures were falling, skies cloudy, and at Fergus Falls, Fargo and other points there was very slight precipitation. At no time could it be said to be really rain-fall, but conditions bordered so closely upon that nervousness prevailed, for any rain of importance at this time would be bad. With conditions so uncertain, some big traders who have been holding off for reaction came in as buyers and all offerings were readily absorbed. The later weather report strengthened sentiment, the forecast being for showers tonight and in Minnesota and Iowa, and showers tonight and fair Thursday in the Dakotas.
