

THE UNIVERSITY BARRIERS UP FOR THE PROFESSIONAL

NEW "BIG NINE" RULE TO BE RIGIDLY ENFORCED.

Was Adopted at Late Meeting of Conference and Gives Organization Ample Power to Prevent Semi-Professionals from Participating in College Sports.

The rule against professionalism in intercollegiate athletics, especially in football, will be strictly enforced with unusual severity henceforth.

The rule reads as follows: "No student shall be ineligible to represent his college in athletic contests who engages in such contests as a representative of any athletic organization not connected with his college, whether in term time or vacation, except by special written permission previously obtained of the proper athletic authorities."

"Occasional games during vacation on teams which have no permanent organization are not prohibited, provided written permission has been obtained and further provided that such permission be granted for one team only during any single vacation, and it is expressly understood that no permission will be given to play on a professional or semiprofessional team."

"And in the administration of the rule it is expressly understood that no member of which receives remuneration for his services and proof of this fact shall not devolve on the person giving the permission but he may accept common honor as the basis for action."

Journal Newsboys Band Seneraded John G. Lund.

John G. Lund was serenaded last evening at his residence, 2304 Emerson avenue, by the Journal Newsboys band.

Nearly a thousand people were present. A part of the evening was spent on the lawn, which was illuminated by electric lights. The interior of the house was decorated with lanterns, and Frappe and cigars were in turn passed around.

GERMANY WOULD LOUST MISSIONARY

Church Emissary Appeals to American State Department for Protection.

San Francisco, Sept. 16.—A palmy little isle that lifts its head above the azure water of the South Seas may prove the subject of international complications if the appeal for protection sent to the state department by an American missionary, to the state department at Washington, can move the federal officials to action.

Captain O. Anderson of the missionary schooner Vine, which arrived here yesterday from the Caroline islands, was the bearer of a letter written by Schmelling to Secretary of State Hay, in which the missionary states his case and asks for the protection of the American government.

For many years Schmelling has been virtually a king in the coconut groves of the little island. He has pursued his missionary work among the natives with such good results that he now owns the entire island, with its palms and pearls and corals.

And now the Germans want the island along with the rest of the Caroline group, and Schmelling has been ordered to go. Schmelling states that he will only leave when compelled to do so and threatens to resist with armed force any efforts to remove him.

"Schmelling is a missionary who has lived on Ruk for more than ten years. He boarded a vessel when we called at the island, and gave me the letter that I now have, and which I shall send on to Washington. According to Schmelling's story he owns the island, having purchased it from the natives. The German traders have been trying to force him to leave, and finally the German government ordered him to go. He remained on the island, however, and states that he will remain there until he gets word from Washington."

The schooner Vine is sixty-seven days from Ponce, and since leaving here many months ago has visited the islands of the Caroline, Marshall and Gilbert groups. Twice during the voyage the vessel was ashore on the coral reefs, but both times she escaped with little damage.

The Vine was chartered by the American Board of Foreign Missions and on board were three missionaries, who have been in the South Sea islands for the past seven years. They were the Rev. Mahalia and wife, who are Hawaiians, and Miss Jennie Elm.

Charles Bahker, the second mate of the schooner, died on the voyage and was buried in the Gilbert Islands. The Vine brings the news of a strike among the native copra pickers of the Marshall Islands. One hundred natives refused to work unless paid four marks a day, and at the time of the departure of the schooner the German traders were trying to starve them into submission.

Several American war correspondents in Tokio, who have nothing much else to do, are said to be learning Japanese. It is thought that they intend to try to get to the front in disguise.

CITY NEWS

ORPHEUM TO OPEN OCT. 24

SUPERINTENDENT F. B. HENDERSON ARRIVE TO PUT THE FINISHING TOUCHES ON THE MINNEAPOLIS HOME OF POLITE VAUDEVILLE.

The splendid new Orpheum theater on Seventh street will open Monday night, Oct. 24, unless something unforeseen happens. F. B. Henderson, superintendent of construction for the Orpheum circuit, arrived today to direct the completion and equipment of the playhouse.

The Orpheum opening, he says, will be a society event. At Denver, where the circuit recently opened a new theater, and in New Orleans the society set stamped the venture with approval with a spontaneous turnout the first night in evening dress. It is expected that Minneapolis will follow the fashion.

Mr. Henderson, in consultation with Walter L. Badger, the real estate man selected the site of the new theater and watched its beginnings until the foundation was laid. He naturally takes great interest in the Minneapolis house and is anxious for the backing of the best class of amusement lovers. He said this morning "We have become taxpayers in Minneapolis. We have first put our money in here before taking any out. Like every merchant in other lines we 'devour the goods' and give value received for which we expect to get compensation. We shall put it up to the good people of Minneapolis and we believe they will put the stamp of approval on the first night's performance."

"The Orpheum Circuit is catering to the people who love good, pure amusement and on board were three missionaries, who have been in the South Sea islands for the past seven years. They were the Rev. Mahalia and wife, who are Hawaiians, and Miss Jennie Elm."

Charles Bahker, the second mate of the schooner, died on the voyage and was buried in the Gilbert Islands. The Vine brings the news of a strike among the native copra pickers of the Marshall Islands. One hundred natives refused to work unless paid four marks a day, and at the time of the departure of the schooner the German traders were trying to starve them into submission.

Several American war correspondents in Tokio, who have nothing much else to do, are said to be learning Japanese. It is thought that they intend to try to get to the front in disguise.

POLITICAL NOTES

The F. L. Schoonmaker meeting scheduled for Saturday evening at the Drake hotel, will be out of the city at that time. The Palo Alto club has endorsed Loren Fletcher for congress. In all other nomination contests the club is inactive. A bet of $250 to $175 that D. P. Jones would be nominated for mayor was taken by some Williams men this noon. The citizens of the ninth ward want a member of the council to be elected there. They are several parks within the ward's borders, and no one to look after their interests. They have selected Frank L. Palmer as their choice, and are asking their friends to help. A republican will take office at the residence of W. H. Lashbrook, 3114 Morgan avenue N. Saturday evening. A dozen or more candidates are to speak.

COULDN'T DIGEST DIAMOND

Philadelphia Canary Swallowed a Solitaire and Died. Philadelphia Inquirer. For pecking a valuable diamond from an earring belonging to Mrs. Frank Paul, of 2841 Arch street, a pet canary bird paid the penalty. Mrs. Paul had placed the bird cage on a sitting room table, and was encouraging the canary to warble for some visitors, when the little creature ate the unusual treat. The earring was lying on the table alongside of the cage and within reach of the canary. The bird examined the jewel for some time, and finally, rivving at the conclusion that it was a worm of some rare species pecked at it and swallowed the stone in a gulp. The loss of the diamond in this manner caused a sensation in the Paul household, and every one planned out some scheme after another for recovery of the jewel. The bird was not in the least embarrassed by the rich diet it adopted, but while the hostess grieved it sang merry songs of joy in all bird languages. Finally Mrs. Paul decided to send for a physician. She did not wish to lose her pet, and still less her diamond, so she intended to ask the doctor to perform a surgical operation on the bird. While Mr. Paul was on his way for the physician the canary died suddenly from acute indigestion.

Political Speeches by Telephone. The latest arrangement of political speakers is to have the auditorium in which they speak connected by telephones and megaphones with other buildings, such as hospitals, etc., so that those detained from the meeting may get the benefit of their words. The idea shows the tendency of the age to make one man capable of a hundred men's work.

Green Island grain belt beer is used with great success in this connection for it gives a man command of all his energies, makes him fresh and active—fit for work. It is the ideal home tonic and should be in every family in America.

LIFELIKE IN ICE

TOMB FIVE YEARS

Fisherman's Body Perfectly Preserved in Bering Sea Glacier.

San Francisco, Sept. 16.—Had Ole Sjostron's tomb of ice on an Arctic island in the Bering sea remained undisturbed a hundred thousand years, at the end of that ponderous stretch of time the face and form of Ole would have looked as natural and lifelike as at the moment of the fisherman's death. Five years ago this young Norwegian, Sjostron, disappeared from Baranoff station. Nobody knew what became of him, and finally people ceased to wonder. A few weeks ago the body was found completely imbedded in the ice and so thoroughly preserved that not even the slightest indication of change had set in.

The barkentine City of Papeete arrived from Baranoff yesterday, and the news of this remarkable discovery was brought by her first mate, Knute Peterson.

"Five years in the ice," said Peterson, "had not made a bit of difference in his appearance. When they found him he looked as the asleep, but sure enough he was cold in death—even more so than the ordinary dead man. They suppose that he lay down on the glacier while intoxicated and fell asleep, and that after he had frozen to death the ice formed over him."

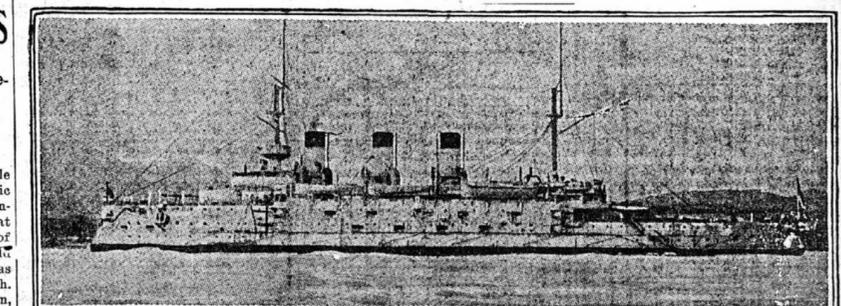

Strange as this story may seem, the incident is not strange to those who know the Arctic ice fields. Bodies of the mammoth, the Elephas primigenius of an ancient epoch, have been found similarly imbedded in the ice and so well refrigerated that after a lapse of time which is regarded as not less than twenty thousand years—possibly a very modest estimate—even the flesh of the animal was all there.

The sailor's information about the finding of Sjostron's body is meager, but it is presumable that instead of being caught and imprisoned in the glacial ice the fisherman died on the soft soil of the tundra and that his body became covered up and frozen with it.

Alexander Torson, formerly third mate of the City of Papeete, disappeared at Baranoff early this year, and his old associates think that he like Sjostron, met death on a glacier and that his body is held unchanged and unchanging in the ice, probably to astonish discoverers in some far later century.

In Peru is found a singular plant, capable of quelling hunger or thirst for several days. It is named crythroxylon cocoa. The plant appears to narcotize the nerves of the stomach and suspend the digestive functions without affording nutriment.

"BRAIN FAG" A MYTH

Booklovers' Magazine. The so-called "brain fag" is a silly myth. The brain does not tire; intellectual work does not hurt under normal conditions. It is eye strain that causes all the brain fag which the newspapers have been exploiting of late. Spencer learned this lesson and escaped the tragedy of Nietzsche and Carlyle by dictating his writings, getting others to do his research work for him, and by being willing to go without vast realms of accurate knowledge. Parkman was driven to similar expedients. But all the rest groined and suffered even while they wrote little notes and postal cards instead of letters to their best friends. The result in suffering was inconceivably and horrible. There are biographies of these people which do not allude to it; physicians and medical editors have been known who smiled ironically at the "exaggeration" of "vivid imaginations"; and there are numberless fools who think they are excused from all sympathy with a Carlyle or a Nietzsche. They do not know that the misery of the pain of one attack of the nausea of sick headache has not been equaled except in some medieval or oriental torture chamber. When for some profound reason the dominant and oldest instinct of the organism—that for food and nutrition—is violently reversed, it should be plain even to the stupidest mind that the deepest wrong exists and that the very springs of life are being drained. Add to this another symptom almost equally terrible—intense pain in the brain, the organ controlling both character and life processes—and what disease could be more desperate? How many of our patients had sick headache it is impossible to tell, owing to the disinclination, especially in letters and biographies, to speak of vomiting. Probably most of them did suffer from it more or less.
