AROUND THE TOWN

Special Meetings Succeed.—Great success is attending the special meetings now in progress at Lake Street M. E. church, under the direction of Rev. C. S. Dunham. He is one of the most prominent evangelists in the denomination and his work here has already proved of great benefit to the Lake Street church. The meetings will be continued thru next week.

There was a slight drizzle at 1 p.m., and at 3 o'clock the air was full of the falling crystals. However, they melted as soon as they touched the ground, and the temperature late in the afternoon was 15 degrees above freezing point. The weather man promises warmer weather tomorrow and a clear day.

NECROLOGICAL

ELIAS FITTERLING, a pioneer resident of Minneapolis, died last evening of paralysis at his home, 2747 Emerson avenue S. Mr. Fitterling was 78 years old and had lived in Minneapolis for nearly fifty years, having purchased a homestead on Nicollet avenue where the New Store now stands. This property he retained until his death.

When a young man, Mr. Fitterling followed the river and later learned the lumber trade. He followed this trade for several years after he came to Minneapolis, and then entered the lumber firm of J. Dean & Co. Since its dissolution he never engaged in active business, but simply managed his own property. He was stricken with the disease four years ago while at Spokane, Wash., and was brought home by his son, the only member of the family to survive him. He weakened gradually until his death. The funeral will be held Thursday from the residence at 2:30 p.m. Los Angeles and Pasadena papers please copy.

JAMES C. ELLIS, who for many years resided at 2742 Grand avenue, died at Santa Cruz, Jan. 1, 1904, at the age of 66 years. While in St. Paul, he was employed by the United States Express company. Four years ago he went to California for his health and was never able to return. He leaves a widow and two sons.

ADOLPH W. BECKSTRAND.—Funeral tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. from the residence, 1813 Seventeenth avenue S., followed by services at Swedish Lutheran church.

MORNING FIRE

Causes Thousand-Dollar Loss to Saloon and Barber Shop.

An early morning fire in the new brick building at 5239 Washington avenue S. caused a loss of $1,000 today. The fire started in George F. Brown's barber shop in the basement and soon spread to the rooms above, damaging the Olympic restaurant and Brown's saloon on the first floor. The loss is equally divided among the three establishments and is covered by insurance.

ANENT LAKE LEVELS

Commercial Club, Too, Will Tackle This Bothersome Problem.

Lake levels and their relations to the best interests of the city were considered today by the civic improvement committee of the Commercial club, which will report back to the public affairs committee.

At the regular meeting of the latter committee yesterday the matter of lake levels was held to be of such interest to the business interests of Minneapolis as to warrant special investigation by the subcommittee. It is believed that some agreement between the park board and the city council would be the best plan.

MILLERS COMPLAIN

Expensive Wheat May Cause a Temporary Shutting Down.

Unless flour business improves, some of the Minneapolis mills may close temporarily. Millers were complaining this morning that Minneapolis wheat prices are high, and out of line with other markets, and that it is impossible to sell flour for export. As this is the season when flour trade is usually heavy, it is unlikely the mills will remain down long, should they close.

500 EARNINGS A DAY

Last Week's Total Made New Record in Road's History.

Soe earnings for the week ending Oct. 21 show the largest total in any like period in the history of the road, or $213,499.00. This compares with $184,718.00 a year ago, a gain of 15.6 per cent. For the period, July to Oct. 21, the earnings total $2,834,322.00, compared with $2,357,958.00 in the corresponding period a year ago, an increase of 11.7 per cent.

GOLDENROD CLUB IS IN SUSPENSE

JURY IN MRS. LARSON'S CASE NOW OUT.

The Club Will Survive the Shock of Having One of Its Members Arrested and Will Hold Its Regular Meeting Tomorrow Without Her—The Closing Testimony.

Ladies of the Golden Rod Club club are now holding their respective breath.

The case of Mrs. Hannah Larson, accused by Mrs. Ella Gerber of stealing $250, has gone to a municipal court jury which retired shortly before noon. Before a large audience, which included representatives of St. Paul and Chicago, the case was reopened this morning by Judge Holt. Mrs. Larson was on the stand in her own behalf.

"I went to the club meeting Oct. 13," said Mrs. Larson, "and took part in all the games. When I went in I left my wraps on the second floor and after taking 10 cents for dues, I left my purse with my clothing. After the games, I went to the second floor for a moment and when I came back down stairs they were hunting for Mrs. Gerber's purse. We were all searched and I was the second one to be searched."

When they searched my purse they found $21.75 in it. Mrs. Gerber looked at the money and said: 'That is not my money. I had two $10 bills. My money was one ten and two fives. After Mr. Gerber came he said his wife had one ten and two fives, and described my money.'

The money I had was given to me at noon the day of the club meeting. My husband gave me $20 and told me that he would order two tons of coal that afternoon. I told him to wait till the next morning as I was going to the club. The money in my purse was my own, and not a penny of it belonged to Mrs. Gerber."

On cross-examination Mr. Finney questioned Mrs. Larson as to the location of the room in Mr. Brown's residence to which she had gone. She seemed confused and was unable to describe the room satisfactorily. On other points she flatly contradicted the testimony of other club members.

Yesterday afternoon J. A. Gerber, husband of the complaining witness, testified that he earns $15 a week and positively identified the money found in Mrs. Larson's purse as that he had given her.

On the other hand Mr. Larson testified that he had given his wife $20—one ten and two five-dollar bills—before she left home to go to the club meeting. Mrs. Larson said she had given him $20, and he said she had given him $20.

Whether the jury convicts Mrs. Larson or not, the Golden Rod Club will not be broken up. The members are opposed to the accused, and say she will be dropped from membership. The club will meet tomorrow afternoon at the residence of Mrs. A. Anderson, 2313 Twelfth avenue S.

FOUND NO COLONISTS

REPUBLICAN SCARE ABOUT "PACKED" POLL LISTS WAS GROUNDLESS.

It is estimated that between 4,000 and 4,500 voters registered at the polls yesterday, the greater part of them by ballot, and no irregularities were reported.

As stated in Tuesday's Journal, the registration the first half of the day was very light. In the afternoon and evening the registration was more active, with the officials at the various polling places.

The downtown polling places were closed at 5 o'clock, as even by Republicans for the alleged attempt that was to be made to "pack" the poll lists, but no irregularities were attempted. The registration proved a quiet affair.

The registration officers return the poll lists to the city clerk before 10 a.m. the day following the registration. This rule was strictly observed today, scarcely a hundred returns being in by noon, and a number of these were left untabulated by the registration officers.

The registration officers to have been heaviest in the downtown precincts. Generally speaking, from twenty-five to forty-five voters on the average, were registered at each polling place, and with few exceptions, no more women were registered. Unless the unregistered vote turns out in good numbers next Saturday for registration, the vote in Minneapolis the coming election will be little if any larger than it was two years ago.

ORGANS GIVEN AWAY

Many St. Paul Dunn Papers Sent Here to Nonsubscribers.

Final efforts to advance the interests of R. C. Dunn, republican candidate for governor, and to secure his nomination, are being made by the Pioneer Press. For several days a copy of the Pioneer Press has been delivered regularly to many residences of Minneapolis business men who have subscribed. Finally one gentleman made a careful investigation and learned enough to satisfy him that corporate interests at St. Paul were paying for the circulation up to Nov. 9 of hundreds of copies of the Pioneer Press in Minneapolis to advance the interests of R. C. Dunn. The Press is avowedly the Dunn organ, and the columns of the campaign matter published daily about Dunn, is doing its best to turn the tide of public sentiment a little toward the former state auditor.

POLITICAL MEETINGS

Republican meetings are scheduled for this morning as follows:

At 500 Third avenue NE, under the auspices of the Roosevelt, Dunn and Lundquist clubs. H. E. and candidates to speak.

At Western and Humboldt avenues, in the fourth and fifth stories of the building. This auspices. Professor Peter Hendrickson of North Dakota to speak, assisted by local candidates.

At Holman's hall, 2224 Central avenue. Judge William Gardner, I. S. Eastman and candidates to speak.

At O'Brien's hall at Hopkins and Odd Fellows' hall at St. Louis Park, R. B. Brower, state senator from St. Cloud, to be leading speaker at each of these meetings.

ATTACKED BY CIRCULAR

A deep antipathy entertained for a Los Angeles clergyman by J. M. Marks of 1718 Portland avenue, has caused the latter to issue a unique set of circulars addressed to the mayor and aldermen of Minneapolis and of other cities. There are four circulars in the series, the first explaining that:

"The enclosed circulars are for the purpose—as will be seen—of informing all the people that old Satan has been cast out of heaven to earth and has established headquarters in the city of Los Angeles. Cal. I. J. M. Marks say that he must take his place in hell, where he belongs, or else he must get me there."

Other circulars explain that, having been cast out of his natural abiding place, the old serpent is hiding himself in the person of the clergyman.

BURGLARS' LOOT IS IDENTIFIED

ARTICLES STOLEN FROM PILLSBURY RESIDENCE RECOGNIZED.

Recovery of Property May Not Lead to Detection of Burglars, Who, Chicago Police Think, Are Probably Still in Minneapolis and Are Lying Low.

Altho C. S. Pillsbury has not yet personally identified the loot found by the Chicago police in a raid on a burglar's "plant," the police of Minneapolis are positive that they are the ones stolen by the "lightning" workers that entered his residence a month ago.

Two detectives were sent to Chicago last night with a minute description of each article and when the identification is established Mr. Pillsbury will be called to Chicago to make it legal. The men in whose possession the stolen property was found are out on bail, and it is not likely that the Minneapolis officers will get a chance to identify them.

The identification was made in the first place by the six plumbers stripped from hats by the burglars. These plumbers were among the wares offered for sale by the suspects. A peculiar hand-carved charm, representing a mummy in an Egyptian casket, was also among the articles found. Such a charm, thought to be the only one in the world, was taken from the Pillsbury residence. These two things alone are sufficient to identify the loot as the property belongs in Minneapolis.

But to get the burglars is another thing. Even if the men who had the jewels are found, they may not be the burglars. The Chicago police think the burglars are still in Minneapolis and have an underground system of getting the goods to Chicago for sale. In most cases the crook and the agent are in different cities and it is possible that when the excitement dies down more "touches" will be made.

The police here have done everything in their power to get the loot back and Jack Garrity, a crook of international reputation, is now doing time in the workhouse. If he was the leader, the gang has probably gone to some other city.

OLD LAW HITS LAKE QUESTION

PROPERTY OWNERS' CONSENT NEEDED TO CHANGE LEVEL.

An Act of 1897 Which So Provides Was Passed to Assist an Up-Country Village, but It Seems to Apply to the Present Minneapolis Controversy.

When the city council undertook to supersede the park board in controlling lake water levels, it was not aware that it was violating an old law which appears to have overlooked an important provision in the act authorizing incorporated cities to make whatever arrangements they may deem necessary to raise and preserve lacustrine stages of water. This act is Chapter 187 of the General Laws of 1897.

Section 2 of this law reads as follows: "None of the waters of any said lake shall be raised or the waters of any stream be diverted from its natural course under the authority conferred hereby, until the consent in writing of all the property owners whose property will be damaged or injured by the said raising or diverting, and said lake and stream consent together with a release of such or any damages occasioned by the same in the office of the recorder of said incorporated city or village, or until said incorporated city or village shall have acquired by condemnation proceedings as hereinafter provided, the right to flow or otherwise injure any land of any of the owners which may be injured thereby and whose voluntary consent cannot be obtained or procured."

It is well known that the city council did not obtain the consent of the owners of land about Lake Harriet nor around Lake Calhoun when it established the level of these lakes, and no attempt is being made to secure the consent of the owners of real estate at Lake of the Isles, nor to offer them any compensation.

An attorney says that the action of the council is invalid and that the park commissioners need give no consideration to the action of the city council or any of its servants.

When the law was passed, the author had no intention of depriving park boards of any authority, nor had any member of the legislature any idea that the law was to be construed as it has been by the aldermen. As a matter of fact it was passed for the sole benefit of a little town in the northern part of the state which became involved in a dispute with a corporation over the stage of water in a lake. It was intended to apply to a special case and no one thought for a moment to abridge the authority of any constituted park board nor did anyone think that the law would be called into use again after its first and only purpose had been accomplished.

ADVANCE FIRE RATES

Underwriters Consider St. Paul and Duluth Fire Protection Insufficient.

Advances in fire insurance rates slated for St. Paul by the Western Fire Underwriters' association have just gone into effect. While the Minneapolis advance was only 1 per cent, that set for St. Paul is 15 per cent.

Of little town in the northern part of the state which became involved in a dispute with a corporation over the stage of water in a lake. It was intended to apply to a special case and no one thought for a moment to abridge the authority of any constituted park board nor did anyone think that the law would be called into use again after its first and only purpose had been accomplished.

When the fire board makes certain changes and additions to the force the first 5 per cent will be removed. Duluth is groaning under a 20 per cent advance which it urges is unwarranted. In Minneapolis the fire force was considered sufficient and the extra 5 per cent was omitted.

RUNS AWAY AGAIN

Young Robert Amos Wright Makes His Second Disappearance.

The police have been notified that Robert Amos Wright, 12 years old, has run away from 3117 Third street N. He wore a grey checked suit, Norfolk jacket, knickerbockers and cap.

The boy is the son of A. E. Wright, a traveling man, and disappeared in the same way last August. After several weeks he was found near Barnesville. An older boy is said to have accompanied him this time. Information should be sent to the superintendent of police.

DISCLOSE GRAFT ALONG NEW LINES

TESTIMONY NOT TO BE CONFINED TO WOMEN.

Graft Collections from Wineroom Keepers, Fake Auction Sharks and Flat Joint Operators to Be Sworn to at Fourth Trial of Former Mayor Ames.

For the first time a jury selected to try former Mayor A. J. Ames will listen to evidence concerning the collection of graft from sources other than the women of the town. This fact developed yesterday afternoon during Judge Kerr's examination of the state witness, Irwin A. Gardner, and was the sensation of the day.

This entirely new line of evidence was established when Judge D. P. Simpson overruled Mr. Cary's objections to the witness' testimony concerning the collection of other grafts. The ruling will enable the state to show collections of graft for protection from keepers of winerooms, gamblers, fake auction shops, flat joints and fake shows. It practically means that the jury will be made cognizant of the whole system of graft introduced and carried along by the Ames administration.

The Bench Concur.

This departure was only made after due consideration and consultation. It was decided by some of the judges and the state attorneys that the collection of graft was so general and so widespread that the admission of certain evidence had grown up and that in showing the general scheme of the defendant's alleged graft, it was immaterial whether the graft was collected from women of the town or from gamblers or any other lawbreakers, so long as the collection was connected with the defendant, and was a part of his general levy of tribute.

Acting upon this theory, Judge Kerr made offers to show by Gardner that he collected protection money from D. Ravitch and at least four other fake auction shops, and the offer was admitted. There has always been discontent on the part of defendant's counsel.

The witness testified that Ravitch came to him and asked if there was not some way in which he could secure protection for his place. Gardner told him there was, and that by paying $25 a week he would be unmolested.

"Did he pay you the money?" asked Judge Kerr.

"He did."

"And was he protected?"

"He was."

"Will you please explain what you mean by fake auction shops? What went on there?"

Auction Methods Disclosed.

After considerable haggling by the attorneys as to the admissibility of this testimony, the witness was allowed to explain. He said the ordinary procedure was to get a "caper" to "boost" the game and to keep raising the bid on some valuable article until the "live man" would go no further, and he was allowed to carry off the article at an absurd price.

"If he made a holler," explained Gardner, "and could not be kept away from the police station, he was then referred to pay the quarterly fee."

Thomas Watson, the man who kept a saloon at 247 Washington avenue S. during the Ames administration, was mentioned, and testified to collecting protection money from him. It is rumored that Watson paid money directly to the then mayor, but no hint of this was given yesterday.

Wide-Open Trial.

Following the new theory of trying the case disclosed in yesterday's examination of the witness, the state society made few objections to the questions asked of his witnesses. It is a wide-open trial now in every particular and everything will be shown to the jury.

Questions relative to alleged conversations between Brown and Cowles and between Brown and some other persons charged with the collection of graft from Schiek's restaurant were asked and negative answers given by Brown this morning, thus laying a foundation for the introduction of proof of these alleged conversations by the defendant's witnesses.

Judge Kerr has some more new evidence which will show the scope of the graft system. He wants to get this in and in order to make it clear sailing he is letting the defense lay foundations for whatever it wants to prove.

Brown One to Carry.

Thomas R. Brown appeared this morning in the case of the return from the station of Judge Kerr the witness made a sketch of Dr. Ames' office to show the exact location of tables, desks, partitions, chairs and other furniture.

The witness told the same old story of seeing Gardner pay the $600 graft money to Dr. Ames—and his other oft-repeated statements by the notorious "lightning" workers.

Under a perjury oath he refused to change his assertions and landed one body blow on the defense. He was asked questions rapidly, and was about to close with the query:

"Did you receive orders from the mayor to give that piece of paper to the Haden woman as a means of identifying Gardner?"

"No, not directly," was the answer. Counsel paused, and then, appreciating the meaning of the statement, said:

"What do you mean by that word 'directly'?"

The witness recalled his testimony in regard to the doctor's return from West Baden, referring to the fact that Hill and King had told him about Gardner's going to Sadie Bird for money and that the mayor was to be paid at that time were to tell Hill and King to mind their d-d business. As I was in Dr. Ames' employ, these instructions were enough to inform me as to what I was expected to do in such cases."

Women Repeat Their Stories.

The first witness this morning was Patrolman John Knight, who testified to his share in rounding up the "street-walkers" under Gardner's instructions, acting for the mayor.

Joseph Rees, proprietor of an Ames auction store, told of paying money for protection. Bessie Lee, Grace Vernon, Frankie Buell and the rest of the regular women were sworn and told their stories as they have at three other trials.

The trial is progressing with unwonted rapidity. Long hours are the rule, and unless some unforeseen obstacle is encountered, it will be finished in record-breaking time.

LEGAL OPINION WANTED

MINNEAPOLIS MILL COMPANY AND CITY MAY GO TO COURT OVER A DISPUTED POINT.

In order to secure judicial interpretation of the contract between the city and the Minneapolis Mill company relative to the lease of four millpools at the West Side pumping station, the city has refused to pay the quarterly installment of $1,000. The action was decided on by the council committee on waterworks yesterday afternoon, and it is assumed that the council will stand by the committee.

In that event it will be for the mill company to show that the contract is valid. There has always been discontent on the part of the city authorities over the arrangement with the mill company. When the West Side station was in daily operation the annual charge of $4,000 per year was cheerfully paid, but when the North Side station was completed and the lower pumps were used very little, the amount was considered excessive, particularly as it was assumed that the mill company had the use of the four mill pools which were leased as well as the two powers which the city owns outright. Every request for reduction has been refused. It is argued that the lease is valid on the ground that the city council has no authority to enter into a perpetual contract of that kind.

OFFICER SEEMS ASSURED

Humane Society Effort for Protection of Girls Seems Successful.

Ways and means of securing an additional officer for the Humane society to look after the interests of young girls on the streets at night were considered at a meeting in the offices of the Humane society this afternoon.

Among those present were Mayor J. C. Haynes, D. Percy Jones, president of the city council, the members of the bench, members of the grand jury, city officials and many prominent business men and leading citizens.

This is the second meeting. The officers of the Humane Society are confident that means for employing the officer will be secured.

TRY MODERN FORESTRY

T. B. WALKER AND SONS TO ADOPT NEW PLAN IN CUTTING TIMBER FOR WESTERN MILLS.

Thomas B. Walker of Minneapolis, the millionaire lumberman, who with his sons, owns some 375,000 acres of timber lands in Shasta, Siskiyou and Modoc counties, California, will adopt modern forestry methods in the cutting of the timber for the mills, and will by this means have a timber supply for sixty years.

At the outset, no trees under thirty inches in diameter are to be cut. That will take about one-third of the forests, and leave still a heavy wooded district with an opportunity for the smaller trees more speedily to attain their growth. After the ground is once covered, it will be gone over year after year under the same system, thus supplying timber for over half a century to come.

A new sawmill is to be established by Mr. Walker, and a logging railroad will connect it with the Southern Pacific line at Redding.

FAST SLEUTHING

Hawkshaw Trained Bicycle Thief, Catching Him in Jig Time.

A practical detective and a good bicycle rider is Bicycle Inspector Loftis. Someone entered the warehouse of the J. I. Case Implement building Monday night, and stole three new wheels, valued at $50 each. Loftis was put on the case and learned that one of the wheels had been sold by a man whose description he secured. Taking two unclaimed wheels from the Central station and calling in Albert Johnson, an assistant, he started on the chase.

After an hour's rapid patrolling of North Minneapolis they saw their man and followed him to his room on Plymouth avenue, where they arrested him. The two missing wheels were found in officials and many prominent business men and leading citizens.

This is the second meeting. The officers of the Humane Society are confident that means for employing the officer will be secured.
