Mrs. C. A. Copelin entertained this afternoon at her home on the East Side for Mrs. Henry Higgins. Twelve women had been invited to meet at a thimble bee and the affair was one of the many pretty informal evenings which are being given for Mrs. Higgins prior to her leaving the city. Mrs. C. H. Westler of Sixth street SE entertained at cards in her honor Thursday afternoon, her guests being twelve of the women friends of Mrs. Higgins. Mrs. D. H. Derrick had guests at cards Wednesday to meet Mrs. Higgins. Cards were played from six tables and the rooms were bright with carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Seeley of Seventh street SE will be hosts next Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Higgins. Mrs. Higgins will leave for her future home in Mexico about Nov. 15.

Misses Pansy and Myrtle Mitchell entertained very delightfully on Halloween for a group of their young friends at their home, 225 Central avenue. Suggestive of the day the decorations were carried out with great pumpkins hollowed out and fixed with brightly burning candles. The ghostly heads were arranged among great bunches of foliage in the hallways were clusters of the foliage with small skulls lit up, and over the refreshment table towered a magnificent product of the pumpkin field of the day decorated like stars. Music and games were features of the evening and a delicious supper, with the regulation delicacies, appropriate for the evening, was served. The young men found the games of the young women they were to escort concealed in nutshells suspended in rows over the entrance from the hallway to the parlor. Mrs. E. Donaldson and Master Roy Donaldson of St. Paul added to the pleasures of the evening with a program of vocal selections. The guests of the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Smith, Mrs. M. H. Spohn, Mr. and Mrs. H. Walters, Misses M. Seeba, A. Bunnell, H. Keller, F. V. A. Page, and M. Gillespie, Messrs. S. L. Williams, H. Frost and C. Seeba.

Mr. and Mrs. George Horton of Polk street NE celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary Saturday evening at their home. The affair was given for them as a surprise by a host of their neighbors and friends and preparations had been made for the festivities when Mr. and Mrs. Horton had gone out for a short time. Mrs. G. N. Jones presented Mr. and Mrs. Horton with a table laden with cut glass china and silver on behalf of the assembled guests and recited an original poem. Miss Bessie Horton assisted by members of the family served delicious refreshments later in the evening.

The Monday club enjoyed the first dahabing party Monday evening, in the hall on Fourth street SE and Fourteenth avenue. There were about sixty guests and the spirit of halloween was carried out in the quaintly designed pen and ink programs.

A pretty birthday party was given Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. De Baum, at their home, 145 Malcolm street SE, Prospect Park, in honor of the twenty-first birthday anniversary of their daughter Carrie. The rooms were decorated with autumnal decorations and special numbers were given by some of the talented guests and games were also played, followed by refreshments. The guests were Mrs. Jerome Spivak, Misses Margarette Ehle, Robins Gray, Agnes McCall, Eleanor Ohm, May Larson, Mable and Annie Anderson, Mabel Campbell, Coia Sorensen, Anna and Clara Spivak, Jessie Hertenberg and Olga Hagstrom, Messrs. John Rundgren, Frank Bennett, Fred Sawyer, Harry Rose, James Mardock.

PIONEER BELL IS OUT OF TUNE

MILESTONE IN CHURCH HISTORY BECOMES A VALUED RELIC.

Committee Appointed by Immanuel Norwegian Lutheran Church for the Purchase of a New Church Bell—Early Days in St. Anthony.

The women of Holy Trinity church will entertain at a supper Tuesday evening, Nov. 15, to be served in the guildhouse of the church by a wheat flour company. A committee—Misses T. H. Newbert, Charles Bigelow, Brown, Hawkins and Stewart—is making all the arrangements for the spread, and the visitors at supper are assured of a delicious supper with plenty of delicacies and as many serves as they wish. The menu will be composed of oyster soup, cream chicken, shredded toast, green pea potato croquettes, cheese balls, Adrian triscuits, ice cream, coffee, chocolate butter brittles.

Last Tuesday the women of the Ladies' Aid society of the church held a successful quilt sale, selling all the quilts which have been made at the all-day meetings this fall, and taking orders for many more. During the afternoon hours a group of women presided over a daintily appointed tea table and served the guests who had come to inspect their work.

The A. R. Palmer W. C. T. U. will hold a mass meeting on election day at 9:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Bessie Ferguson, 925 Twelfth street NE. All women who have registered are specially invited to come and to vote. Coffee and doughnuts will be served the afternoon by the hostess.

The Foresters of all local courts and their friends are anticipating the entertainment which has been arranged by the women to be given in Odd Fellows hall, Fourth street and Central avenue, Thursday evening, Nov. 24. It is to be a card party, and six handsome prizes, with a special prize, will be given away. The admission is very small. Coffee and doughnuts will be served. Mrs. De Ware and J. C. Burke are the committee and are arranging for the affair.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society held its November meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. S. Lane, 625 Eighth street SE, taking as subject for study, "Women's Foreign Missionary Society in South China." Mrs. M. Manuel was the leader.

The young women of the Queen Esther society of Trinity Methodist church gave a pretty Halloween party Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Kinmore, Taylor street NE. The girls were dressed as ghosts, and a program of old-fashioned Halloween games made the evening delightful.

Members of the Blue Ribbon Social club, which was recently organized by the Northeast Minneapolis young men, gave a dancing party Saturday evening at Odd Fellows hall, Central avenue.

Minneapolis Rebekah lodge gave the second series of dancing parties Monday evening at the Odd Fellows hall, Central avenue. The parties by the lodge will be given every Monday evening.

Council No. 77, Modern Samaritans, gave a dancing party Thursday evening at K. P. hall, Fifth street and Central avenue.

The members of the Epworth league of Trinity Methodist church gave a social in the church parlors, Taylor street and Twenty-sixth avenue NE, Monday evening.

The Woman's union of the First Congregational church will meet at a thimble bee at the residence of Mrs. Cyrus Northrop, 519 Tenth street SE, Nov. 9, at 2:30 o'clock. A talk on art will be given.

This evening a rally will be held by the young people of the Trinity Methodist Sunday school, on Taylor street and Twenty-fifth avenue NE. The pupils have arranged a clever program, and a social time will follow.

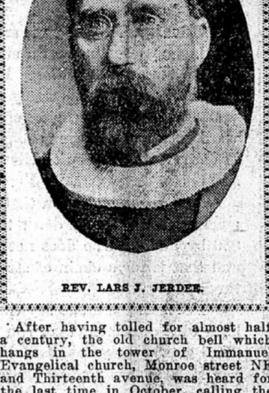

In Search of Knowledge.—Among the young people who arrived this week from out of the city to enter the different departments of the Minneapolis Business college are Misses Agnes Haggare, Excelsior; Agnes Schmidt, Osseo, Minn.; Mella Andrews, Bay City, Wis.; and Carroll Randall, Lisbon, N. D.; Edward Tenness, Bird Island, Minn.; James Rooney, Sauk Center, Minn.; Walter Talber, Long Lake, Minn.; Peter Otto, Bird Island, Minn.; and John P. Halstad, Carlington, N. D.

John Rundgren, Frank Bennett, Fred Sawyer, Harry Rose, James Mardock.

Mrs. S. C. Noble will give a football party Saturday evening, Nov. 12, at University hall, for the young people who are here for the Madison business game. The decorations will be carried out in the colors of the two universities and the program will introduce something in the way of football favors.

REV. LARS J. JERDEE.

After having tolled for almost half a century, the old church bell which hangs in the tower of Immanuel Evangelical church, Monroe street NE and Thirteenth avenue, was heard for the last time in October, calling the congregation to worship, with a song of farewell. Thereby hangs a piece of interesting history relative to pioneer days. Both the church and the bell are the oldest on the East Side. During nearly fifty years of steady service the bell has pealed forth its messages of joy and glad tidings to the Minneapolis pioneer settlement. But fifty years have passed since the bell, its messages cannot sound any more; the crisp metal has become cracked and timeworn, and after several unsuccessful attempts to drill it—and by that process to prolong its usefulness—the leaders of the church announced at their last meeting that the bell would be a place of honor with such relics of olden times as are already in the possession of the church. A committee of three has been appointed—Rev. Lars J. Jerdee, Ole Lee and J. G. Iverson—and they are now taking the necessary steps to secure a new bell for the church. The money is being raised by subscription.

The bell was cast in 1851 at West Troy, N. Y. Joseph Swick of 18 Sixth street NE, was sexton of the church in 1855-56; for seven years thereafter he rang the bell in the little church tower. Mr. Swick remembers old man Williams as his predecessor and his statement that he saw the church in the capacity of sexton for several years corroborates those of some of the oldest members of the congregation.

As old as the bell is the church building—a true landmark in the history of the city of Minneapolis. The church was the first built here by Congregationalists, and it was the first complete church. After the Congregational people built another church, it became the first church of the Lutheran denomination, as that congregation had no sanctuary of its own time except improvised meeting places. The First Congregational community was organized in the city Nov. 16, 1851; a frame structure was put up on Fourth street E and Central avenue, which the church was in progress of construction, services were held in the basement, which had been fitted up for that purpose. February 15, 1854, the church proper was completed and was dedicated by Rev. Charles Secombe and Rev. Richard Hall. For the following twenty years the Congregationalists used it as their house of worship.

In 1873 the building was sold to a small congregation of people—Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran Congregation. Their pastor was Rev. H. G. Stahl, who is now professor of theology at Luther seminary, Hamline. The congregation fitted up the church with altar, pulpit and baptismal font and dedicated the building on March 22, 1874. Rev. E. J. Muns of Goodhue county occupying the pulpit at that time. Out of Our Savior's Lutheran congregation grew another Lutheran community. The latter remained on the east side of the river and was called the Church Immanuel Evangelical. Rev. C. C. Ottesen took charge of the church and remained its pastor until 1889, when Rev. Lars J. Jerdee from Polk county was called. He has been minister of the church for sixteen years. Mr. Jerdee was born in Norway in 1855, and came to this country in 1881. When 17 years old he entered Lutheran college and later finished a course at Luther seminary, Madison, Wis. He was ordained in 1885 and took up clerical work in Polk county, organizing twelve congregations, much of the clerical work at that time being of a missionary character. In 1891 Mr. Jerdee was made one of the board of directors of home missions in the Minnesota district of the Norwegian synod, and he is also chairman of the board of English missions. In 1888 the church was removed to its present site on Monroe street NE. It was enlarged, a tower of greater proportions was built, the building was brick veneered, and as it stands now, with commodious church property all around it, is certainly proof of the prosperity of a parish of over 600 members. In fact, the growth of the congregation is such that the advisability of enlarging or rebuilding has been informally discussed at meetings.

Glen Car Juniors Meet.—A meeting will be held this evening by the Glen Car Junior League in Glen Car chapel. The boys, who recently formed the league, are showing great interest in the work they have before them and are now outlining a number of various plans for the winter.
