HOUSE MEMBERS ARE EXCLUSIVE

ADOPT RULES TO BAR PUBLIC AND PRESS.

They Admit that the Press Gallery is a Failure, but Decline to Allow Floor Privileges to the Newspaper Men—Rule Barring Out Public Ostensibly Aimed at Lobbyists.

The house spent about two hours this morning discussing the report of the committee on rules, which was made against the rule excluding all persons from the floor except members and distinguished guests. After considerable badinage and witty debate, the committee was upheld in its rule which does not permit the speaker to entertain a motion for suspension, and, therefore, shuts out all attempts to railroad its visitors. They must sit in the gallery. An amendment was lost, 48 to 40.

GAMBLE SPEAKS FOR KINKAD BILL

BELIEVES IT MEANS GREAT AND PERMANENT DEVELOPMENT.

Great Sioux Reservation Will Be Filed Upon in 640-Acre Tracts and the Two Rich Sections of the State United by Lines of Railroads—Present Methods Given Fair Trial.

Special to The Journal. Yankton, S. D., Jan. 5.—In South Dakota the interest in the present session of congress centers about the proposed increase in home steads in the western part of the state to 640 acres. It is to South Dakota by far the most important piece of legislation since her admission as a state. In an interview, Senator Gamble said:

"The great Sioux reservation was opened to settlement on Feb. 10, 1890. It embraced 8,500,000 acres. At that date, final proofs covered 2,000,000 acres. The balance of these lands, within what was formerly this reservation. In other words, after the lapse of practically twenty years, the vast majority of these lands have been reduced to private ownership under existing laws.

"To restate the condition of the operation of existing laws, as affecting this reservation, the present method of settlement, by private ownership or have been filed upon, although they have been open to settlement for the period of twenty years, but by reason of the fact that the more desirable lands have been taken.

"It is not a fair trial had looking to the settlement, occupation and development of this vast area under the present law? It cannot be said that it has met with a high degree of success.

"Elsewhere, lands have wonderfully appreciated in value in every way. There has been a large influx of population and a material development and permanent development of that part of the state. Under such conditions, we would naturally desire to see the land more sought for, and especially so for the additional reason that at the time this reservation was opened to settlement, the land on the east side of the river had been taken.

"In addition to the great Sioux Reservation, there is a tract of land on the east side of the Hills treaty of April 11, 1857, substantially 7,830,000 acres. Also these lands have been opened to settlement for twenty-eight years, a very limited amount has been taken. Out of this section there was created by executive order a tract of land for the purpose of a reservation, but the land was not taken, and the reservation was not established. It is very limited in comparison with the area of the reservation. The two reservations originally comprised practically 16,330,000 acres.

"It is a matter of the highest concern to the state to have these lands occupied and this vast region developed. The legislation proposed, I believe, will bring about the desired result.

"In the settlement of the lands east of the river, as well as elsewhere, not only was the land taken, but the land was taken in force, to take a homestead, but a pre-emption and timber claim. This gave him an opportunity to acquire land from the government, but he was not allowed a pre-emption and timber claim is no longer in force.

"The privileges proposed to be given under this law, under the conditions existing, to my mind are far less generous than under the former law. The bill proposes to give the secretary of the interior shall withdraw all lands which, in his opinion, may be reasonably practicable for origin by the government, or by private enterprise. It has no application to forest reserves, to existing Indian reservations, or lands within the bill.

"The settler is permitted to take 640 acres under the proposed law. He cannot commute his land for a smaller tract. It is given upon the land and place permanent improvements thereon of the value of not less than $125 an acre. The settler is given the right to take the land, but he is not given the right to take additional land contiguous to his homestead, and he is not given the right to take additional land contiguous to his homestead.

"The bill has been drawn with great care, and its purpose is to give homesteaders for actual home builders, and by providing for the large area in the homestead to encourage settlement and development of the land. The purpose is to reduce this extensive area to actual settlement, and make possible its development under the most favorable conditions imposed. Its objects are to provide as far as possible the acquiring of large holdings by settlement, and to encourage the settlement of the land under such conditions that he can hope for success and make his settlement permanent and secure. By every safeguard land monopoly will be avoided as far as legislation may do so.

"I have confidence in the operation of the proposed measure, and believe it means great and permanent development of that part of the state. Although there has been great production of cattle in that part of the state, I believe, under the changed conditions, the production of livestock will be immeasurably increased. With the settlement and development which this law will bring about, the production of livestock will be increased to a great extent. It is now proposed to give the individual an opportunity to enter the land under such conditions that he can hope for success and make his settlement permanent and secure. By every safeguard land monopoly will be avoided as far as legislation may do so.

"The Kinkaid law, after which this measure is patterned, although not in operation long, seems to have worked satisfactorily, and is approved by the farming and commercial interests of the state in which it is operative. I am informed that the interests oppose it, and seek its modification.

"The settlement and development of that particular section of the state was not only due to its population and wealth, but will encourage and hasten the opening of the surplus and unsettled lands not used by the Indians in the same locality. This in itself would add immensely to the wealth and resources of our people.

"MADISON, S. D.—Dan McKinnon has sold his stock of dry goods to Walter Murray of this city. The K. P. Lodge gave its annual ball on Monday evening. It attracted a large number of guests. A supper was served at the Lake Park Hotel. The next meeting will be held in Sioux Falls the first week in January, 1905.

SENATORS WANT REVISION REPORT

WILSON SAYS LITTLE CAN BE DONE TILL IT'S RECEIVED.

The Upper House Takes Steps to Release Reporters from Their Cuckoo Clock Apartment, Known as the Press Gallery—Acoustics of the Chamber Subjected to Biting Criticism.

Until a report is received from the commission revising the statutes, the senate's work will be delayed. On the floor this morning Senator Wilson of Hennepin said:

"It is impossible for us understandingly to introduce and consider any bills until we know just what is in the statutes as revised by the special commission having the matter in hand."

On his suggestion a committee was appointed consisting of Senators Wilson, Thompson and Horton, to get the desired report before the legislature at the earliest possible date.

To Release Reporters. Senator Wilson introduced a resolution designed to permit the press reporters to leave their brass-railed cage in the gallery over the lieutenant governor's rostrum, and to be furnished with tables on the floor of the senate, as in the old capital. Senator Putnam gave notice of a resolution to the effect that the resolution went over.

Senator Albert Schaller, taking a shot at the miserable acoustics of the new senate chamber, suggested that "the senators with seats in the rear be permitted to exchange seats with reporters in the press gallery."

Lieutenant Governor Ray W. Jones announced the appointment of the following boys: George Brandt, Howard Speth, Harold P. Osborn, John G. Schwartz, Henry Hornigable, J. C. Young and Roy Lawson.

Senator Moses E. Clapp entered the chamber and was immediately called to the front by Lieutenant Governor Jones, and introduced.

Senator Clapp spoke briefly, congratulating the senators on its magnificent new quarters and on the harmonious opening of the session.

The senate then adjourned till 8 p.m. Monday.
