CURE FOR CANCER ALMOST AT HAND

Disease Is Proven Parasitic and Serum Is Found to Cure Infected Animals.

New York Sun Special Service. Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 12.—The scientists who, since 1899, have been studying cancer at the Gratzwick pathological laboratory of the University of Buffalo, under the patronage of the state of New York, are preparing to report to the profession facts which indicate that they are nearing the solution of a great problem. The Buffalo laboratory has proven cancer to be a parasitic disease, infectious in type; that it has been transplanted and reproduced in perfectly healthy animals; that the reproduction has been true cancer in human beings, and that the disease in animals has been cured by the administration of a serum prepared in the Buffalo laboratory.

Must Test With Humans. Experimentally considered, the questions of the cause of cancer and its absolute curability are settled facts. What remains now is the application of the results of animal experimentation to the cure of the disease as it exists in the human being.

Much work remains to be done before Dr. Roswell Park, director of the laboratory, will be prepared to make the final announcement of the discovery of a serum suitable for use in the alleviation and cure of cancer in human beings. That this announcement will be forthcoming in due time is almost an assured fact because of the discoveries which have been made by Dr. H. R. Taylor, pathologist, and Dr. G. H. A. Clowes, chemist of the laboratory.

Official Story of Experiments.

The official announcement says: Doctors Gaylord and Clowes, assisted by Mr. Baeslack of the cancer laboratory of the state department of health, recently have performed a series of experiments on mice infected with cancer, which have led to the discovery of an antitoxic serum which visibly affects the growth of cancer in mice, and in a number of cases has been sufficiently active to cause the total disappearance of tumors of considerable size.

The occurrence which led to the discovery of the serum in question was the spontaneous recovery of several mice which had been inoculated. Although cancer generally is considered incurable, as these observers pointed out, there are cases of spontaneous cure of cancer in man reported in literature.

The emphasis of the possibility of the animal overcoming the cancer led the experimenters to investigate the conditions under which this took place, and, having for some time in mind the possibility of the serum treatment for human beings, they conducted a series of experiments.

Antitoxic Quality.

These have proved beyond question that the blood of mice which have recovered from cancer possesses an antitoxic quality, and, when injected into mice suffering with cancer, stops the growth. The field which is opened by these primary experiments apparently is a difficult one, but they should prove in principle that not only is cancer curable, but extend the hope that some means may be found to develop a reliable immune serum which may be applied to human beings.

The changes which are brought about in the tumors in the mice are similar to those which already have been found in man. The fact that cancer patients occasionally have been known to recover spontaneously shows there apparently is no discrepancy between the conditions found in man and those observed in mice.

Opposed to Harvard Theory.

Additional interest is given to the Buffalo experiments because of the conclusions reached recently by the cancer commission of Harvard medical college, when that body gave up all further consideration of the subject, and announced that cancer was neither contagious nor hereditary, that the only cure for this disease was early operation at the hands of the surgeon, and that no discovery had been made which offers any hope for cure of cancer.

NO ROYAL VISIT FOR CANADA.

London, Jan. 13.—The report from Montreal that King Edward and Queen Alexandra will visit Canada this year is declared to be unfounded.

LIVESTOCK ILLS TO BE ERADICATED

Secretary Wilson Asks Funds to Stamp Out Sheep and Cattle Scourge.

By W. W. Jermans.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Secretary Wilson has sent an urgent request to congress for the appropriation of $150,000 for the further prosecution of the work of the department of stamping out scabies in sheep and mangle in cattle. It is expected that the money will be supplied in the general deficiency bill, and the larger part of it will be expended in the grazing sections of the Dakotas and Montana. In his communication the secretary says in part: It has been necessary for the protection of the interstate and foreign trade in sheep and cattle to establish an inspection force larger than was contemplated at the time the estimates for the current year were made. The diseases mentioned have been found to exist and to have spread over a great part of the territory of the United States west of the Missouri river, and it is necessary to inspect all of the territory in the effort to stamp out the disease; also to supervise the treatment of animals which has been adopted for the eradication of these diseases.

The exportation of sheep affected with scabies has had a very bad influence upon the export trade in these animals, and it is very desirable for the preservation of the trade that only healthy sheep and those which have not been exposed to contagion should be permitted exportation.

Cattle Scourge Increases.

The disease of cattle known as mangle, which is similar to the scabies of sheep, has been increasing in frequency for a number of years and has led to restrictions placed upon the interstate trade by a number of states of the union, and has also threatened to infect the foreign trade. In fact, one consignment of cattle from an American port has already been found badly diseased when landed in Liverpool. It was therefore deemed necessary to undertake the control of this disease, and inspectors have been placed in the field to inspect all cattle from the infected districts and co-operate with the state authorities for the suppression of the disease.

The average expenses for the control of these two diseases for the months from June to October have exceeded by $14,784 the expenses of January, and it appears impossible to effectively prevent the spread of these diseases and protect our foreign trade with a less expenditure than is now being made.

The scabies of sheep has been almost eradicated in a number of states that were badly affected, but it is necessary to keep up a supervision over these states in order to prevent the introduction and spread of the disease again before similar success has followed the work in adjoining states. The work with cattle mangle was systematically undertaken only with the current fiscal year, and should be continued until the disease is eradicated. I consider it of the utmost importance to the cattle and sheep industry of the United States and to the maintenance of the export trade in live cattle and sheep that these diseases should be completely suppressed, and this can be done with thorough work in the course of a few years.

Stockmen Have Helped.

Officials of the bureau of animal industry say that the stockmen of the three states mentioned have worked actively with the field force of the bureau in the effort to stamp out the diseases. Some of the big cattle companies have provided their own dipping vats, while in other cases the transportation companies and stockyard corporations have provided facilities for dipping cattle intended for shipment. All that the department's agents do is to furnish the formula for the preparation in which the cattle and sheep are dipped, and one of them is always present to inspect cattle when they are gathered for shipment, and to superintend the dipping. It will be seen from this that the cattleman bears a large proportion of the expense of eradicating these diseases. Nearly all the $150,000 will be expended in salaries and traveling expenses of the field force, and it is hoped that enough men will be provided with the sum named to insure prompt inspection of cattle intended for shipment.

TOBACCO TRUST IN FIGHT OVER DUKE

Counsel for Family Charges Plot to "Rob and Perhaps Kill" Foe of Trust.

New York, Jan. 13.—Brodie L. Duke, half-brother of the president of the American Tobacco company, whose marriage was nullified in his commitment to a sanatorium, was brought into the supreme court today on a writ of habeas corpus, and after a hearing was sent to the Long Island Home until Thursday, when a commission will inquire into Mr. Duke's sanity. The writ of habeas corpus was obtained by W. C. Branham of Durham, N. C., who has acted as private secretary for Mr. Duke. Counsel for Mr. Branham argued for an immediate examination of Mr. Duke. This was objected to by Delancey Nicoll, who said he represented members of Mr. Duke's family, and who declared that he desired to secure witnesses for himself and that the persons whom he represented "wanted to rescue this man from the clutches of one of the worst associations of criminals which existed for the purpose of robbing this man and perhaps killing him."

Justice Gaynor ordered Duke to be committed to a sanatorium until Jan. 19.

It is now known that the action brought by W. C. Branham is in accordance with instructions from Mr. Duke himself, who regards Branham as his closest friend, and had intrusted to him knowledge of a danger which Mr. Duke believes has threatened for the past three years. At the formation of the tobacco trust, Brodie L. Duke refused to join his relatives in the consolidation. He retained his interest in several independent companies, in which he is still interested. They are the most active competitors of the trust. It is an open secret that because of his opposition, Brodie L. Duke is estranged from his family. The tobacco trust has taken active measures to absorb all tobacco products, but on every hand it met with interference from Brodie L. Duke. It has been Mr. Duke's ambition to create a productive industry of sufficient magnitude and power to fight the trust. It has long been rumored that there exists in Texas, lands, which, if properly cultivated, would produce to-

TOBACCO TRUST IN FIGHT OVER DUKE

Utah Witness for Smoot Says No Male Polygamists Get Any Sympathy.

Washington, Jan. 13.—J. W. N. Whitcomb, an attorney of Provo, Utah, testified today in the Smoot investigation.

"I think the decided sentiment of the Mormon people in Utah is hostile to polygamy," said Mr. Whitcomb. He said a great deal had been said of an understanding that there should be no prosecutions for polygamy, but he did not believe it existed. Continuing, he said: "But I believe the people generally do not want to stir this thing up and start it smelling again—it has not a good odor. Women went into polygamy—a delusion, probably—because they thought plural marriage a religious duty. The church prescribes that if a plural wife gets a divorce, she cannot be married to another husband, and the people realize that if she is cut off by prosecutions from her only protector, she and her children are in a precarious condition. The sympathy of Gentiles and young Mormons toward polygamy is all for the women. I never heard of any sympathy for a male polygamist, and don't believe there ever has been such sympathy for one, unless perhaps he should happen to be married to three or four virgins."

"What is the sentiment in regard to the polygamous families?" asked the chairman.

"That it is an awful condition. One that we wish we were out of, and we don't know how to get out of," said Mr. Whitcomb.

SACKING OF MISSION DENIED

Brussels, Jan. 13.—The authorities of the Congo Independent state deny the report circulated Wednesday by the Taglische Rundschau of Berlin of the massacre of whites and Catholic missionaries in the upper reaches of the Congo river.
