

YOU CAN INTEREST HIM.

Any Man Over Fifty. You can interest any man over fifty years of age in anything that will make him feel better, because while he may not as yet have any positive organic disease, he no longer feels the buoyancy and vigor of twenty-five nor the freedom from aches and pains he enjoyed in earlier years, and he very naturally examines with interest any proposition looking to the improvement and preservation of his health.

He will notice among other things that the stomach of fifty is a very different one from the stomach he possessed at twenty-five. That greatest care must be exercised as to what is eaten and how much of it, and even with the best care there will be increasing digestive weakness with advancing years. A proposition to perfect or improve the digestion and assimilation of food is one which interests not only every man of fifty but every man, woman and child of any age, because the whole secret of good health, good blood, strong nerves, is to have a stomach which will promptly and thoroughly digest wholesome food, because blood, nerves, brain tissue and every other constituent of the body are entirely the product of digestion, and with no medicine, no food can possibly create pure blood or restore shaky nerves, when a weak stomach is replenishing the daily wear and tear of the body from a mass of fermenting half-digested food.

No, the stomach itself wants help, and in no round-about way, either; it wants direct, unmistakable assistance, such as is given by one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

These tablets cure stomach trouble because they use the stomach a chance to rest and recuperate; one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain digestive elements sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food such as bread, meat, eggs, etc.

The plan of dieting is simply another name for starvation, and the use of prepared foods and new-fangled breakfast foods simply makes matters worse, as any dyspeptic who has tried them knows. As Dr. Bennett says, the only reason I can imagine why Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not universally used by everybody who is troubled in any way with poor digestion is because many people seem to think that because a medicine is advertised or is sold in drug stores or is protected by a trade mark, it must be a humbug. The fact is a matter of truth, any druggist who is observant knows that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured more people of indigestion, heart burn, heart trouble, nervous prostration, run-down condition generally than all the patent medicines and doctors' prescriptions for stomach trouble combined.

A $500,000 FIRE AT OMAHA, NEB.

A Bad Blaze in the Wholesale District Saturday Night and Sunday.

Omaha, Jan. 30.—A fire in the wholesale district was the most destructive in the history of Omaha. The total loss is estimated at $500,000, at the most conservative estimate. Engines, hose wagons and other equipment came from South Omaha and Council Bluffs. All Saturday night and all day Sunday a number of streams were kept pouring on the smouldering ruins. A half block was burned over but the immense buildings contained great jobbing stocks which is responsible for the enormous loss. The buildings, valued at $200,000, were owned respectively by the Mercer and Millard estates. No definite figures have yet been obtained on insurance, but the stocks of goods were generally covered by insurance up to the 90 per cent limit. A revised list of the principal losses follows: S. D. Mercer, on building, $125,000; Millard estate, on building (estimated) $30,000; F. P. Kinkaid shoe company, on stock, $125,000; M. E. Smith and company, on stock, $75,000; J. R. Snyder and company, on stock, $20,000; Porter, Traverson, Hoobler company, on stock, $40,000; Voegele and Dinning company, on stock, $30,000.

HEAD OF MEAT STRIKE PROTESTS HIS HONESTY

New York Sun Special Service. Chicago, Jan. 30.—Reports circulated in the packing centers throughout the country that Michael Donnelly, president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen, had grown rich as a result of the recent strike, brought out a hot reply today from the leader of the butchers. In the statement which he issued, Donnelly says he is ready to prove that a certain packing company attempted to bribe him to accept a large sum of money and a monthly salary, and that the offer was indignantly spurned.

FIVE MILES WITH A BROKEN SKULL.

HAD TO HIDE IT

A mother wrote us recently that she had to keep Scott's Emulsion under lock and key—her children used to drink it whenever her back was turned. Strange that children should like something that is so good for them. It's usually the other way. Scott's Emulsion makes children comfortable, makes them fat and rosy-cheeked. Perhaps that's why they like it so much—they know it makes them feel good.

17-YEAR-OLD GIRL SHOT WM. BURKE

The Man Had Threatened Her with a Revolver and She Opened Fire.

Special to The Journal. Hartsville, Wyo., Jan. 30.—William Burke, former proprietor of the Fletcher hotel, was shot and fatally wounded Saturday night, by Rosa Phillips, a 17-year-old waitress employed in the hotel. The girl had threatened, Will Brown and Frank Bowers are under arrest. Burke, who had been drinking, drove Brown and Bowers from the hotel. The girl snatched a revolver from the street, and she shot Burke through the shoulder, the ball entering the right lung. Burke's wounds were inflicted from a black and tan. Bowers, it is alleged, then drew a revolver, and opened fire on Burke while he lay helpless, but none of the bullets took effect. Burke attempted to kill his wife recently, and she had left him and gone to a hotel at Hartsville, which he formerly kept. It was while he was searching for his wife that he shot her. Burke's wife's lover, Rosa Phillips came here a year ago from Mitchell, Neb.

70,000 CHILDREN HUNGRY IN SCHOOL

Now New York May Give the Tots Their Breakfasts So They May Learn.

Estimate of ill-fed children. One hundred thousand are always out of work in this city. Seventy thousand of them are married men. Seventy thousand families lack sufficient food. Sixty thousand families are disposed in one year. Each family has an average of one child. European cities have fed their school children for many years.

New York Sun Special Service.

New York, Jan. 30.—(The children are too hungry to learn.) In this sentence is summed up the case of many thousands of school children in New York. The breakfast and lunch, which are paid for by tickets which are bought in strips like elevated railroad tickets and cost 6 or 7 cents apiece. There is a board to determine what parents shall receive tickets for. In New York I would have that board consist of some of the school authorities. Every school would have its breakfast of a warm cereal with cream and whole-some bread. At lunch there would be a plate of soup, a meat, a vegetable or two and occasionally a sweetmeat. Each school would have its own kitchen force and there would be no expense for dining-room service, because the children would go to the refectory, help themselves to their portions and take the food to the tables themselves.

Figures show that there are always about 100,000 men out of employment in New York city. Of these, 70,000 are married men and have families. While the father is out of work the family has to pinch and the children get too little to eat. Each of these families has an average of one child in school. When I was making up my figures I consulted the relief committee of the state board of charities and they supported my estimate. The number of families disposed of alone in the year 1903 was 60,000—anywhere there is disposition there is certain to be starvation and the most acute poverty. Many children get nothing to eat day after day but bread and coffee. I have often been in the tenements in the morning before the children were up and seen the mother take the loaf and cut it into chunks. When the children were dressed each got a chunk and they huddled around the stove, where the mother made enough coffee so that each could have about half a cup, perhaps. The school authorities in charge of the special classes for backward pupils bear witness that they get most of their recruits from the chronically ill-fed children. It cannot be blamed against the child if hungry and when he fails to prosper in his lessons.

DEFENDS MIXED WHEAT DRAWBACK

Secretary Shaw Writes to North Dakota Legislature on Flour Exports.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Secretary Shaw has stated his views on the flour drawback question in a letter to the president of the senate of North Dakota. The state assembly recently passed a resolution expressing the opinion that granting a drawback on flour manufactured in part from Canadian wheat and in part from home-grown wheat would practically nullify the 25 cents per bushel duty on wheat, ordered copy of the resolution forwarded to the secretary of the treasury and the members of congress from that state. Secretary Shaw has replied as follows: Section 15 of the Dingley tariff act relates to manufactures in bond. Material used in bonded factories pays no duty whatever, and the question of drawback does not apply. Section 30 of the Dingley tariff act unequivocally permits a drawback on the exportation of articles produced wholly from imported material. This, of course, applies to flours as well as to other manufactures.

Ambiguity of Matter. Thus far there is no conflict of opinion. The only ambiguity is in reference to a drawback on the exportation of articles produced in part from imported and in part from domestic material when the amount of imported material does not so appear to the eye in the completed article that the quantity or measure thereof can be ascertained. It is conceded that the amount of imported wheat used in the manufacture of a barrel of flour does not appear to the eye. Attorney General Griggs, in an analogous case, held that if the amount of imported material was ascertainable in any other way than by the exercise of the sense of sight, the drawback could be allowed. In his opinion the requirement was met if the amount of imported material used was made to appear to the knowledge and understanding of the person charged with the responsibility of deciding. Opinion Was Overruled. This opinion overruled a contrary opinion of Attorney General Olney, and is as binding upon the secretary of the treasury as the Olney opinion had never been rendered. It does not leave the secretary of the treasury in the position of having two opinions with a discretion as to which one he shall follow. But, antagonistic opinions having been rendered, and there being some opposition to the request, I have taken occasion again to submit the question to the attorney general. I doubt not your body will approve this course. The treasury department, in the execution of the laws, is controlled by the opinion of the attorney general, and his opinion is the department's court of last resort. Having explained what has been done I would be authorized to dismiss the subject, but I notice in the resolution the expressed opinion that "the granting of the application will practically nullify paragraph 234 of the Dingley law." Evidently Mr. Dingley was not of this opinion, for the two provisions are in the same bill. But if you are correct, and if section 30 nullifies any portion of the act of which it is a part, then the remedy is with the congress and not with the administrative branch of the government. Secretary Shaw then quotes McKinley in support of his position and interprets the Dingley law to the same end. PYTHIANS TO EXPELL SALOONKEEPER MEMBERS. New York Sun Special Service. Chicago, Jan. 30.—The grand officers of the Knights of Pythias have issued an order that all saloonkeepers, bartenders and gamblers who have become members of the order since the lodge law of 1894 was passed must give up their membership or be forced from the lodge. It is said that many have slipped in since 1894 by putting themselves under different titles on their application blanks. Saloonkeepers would represent themselves as "hotel men," bartenders as "clerks" and gamblers as "brokers."
