By W. W. Jermane. Washington, Jan. 31.-The state department and Consul General Goodnow are waiting for the president to indicate the course of procedure which he desires the inquiry into the Curtis charges against Goodnow's official conduct at Shanghai to take. Mr. Good-now hoped to see the president yesterday, with Assistant Secretary of State Pierce, but the president was absent from the city.

Today is cabinet day, and so the conference will perhaps go over until tomorrow, altho there is just a possibility that it may take place this af-

Meanwhile, I am informed on authority that is usually reliable, that the president will not require any extended verbal hearings. The Curtis charges are in writing, and Goodnow, it is said will be given an opportunity to make a written reply, which will include whatever he may have in the way of whatever he may have in the way of byidence. Goodnow will personally confuct his case, drawing up all the papers. He may possibly be given an opportunity to make a verbal statement, as that privilege was given Cur tis at the time the charges were filed This, however, is for the president to determine. Up to this time the case has been in charge of Assistant Secretary Pierce.

LONG MERGER FIGHT BEFORE HIGH COURT

Special to The Journal. New York, Jan. 31.—The granting of a writ of certiorari by the supreme court to bring the Northern Securities case before it for review does not assure victory to either side. It is, in effect, equivalent to allowing an appeal and holding the case in statu quo until it is decided. Of itself it decides nothing and it will be more satisfactory to have the tribunal of last resort pass upon important question that has been ed. It will then be taken as con-raised. It will then be taken as conclusive for all similar cases.

Feb. 20 has been set for hearing the arguments and there is an evident pur-pose of disposing of the matter so as to have the disposition of it final and conclusive. It will be the last step in the protracted proceedings and will be a decisive one. There is no ground for assuming that it will be favorable to Harriman merely because a writ is granted on his application.

BANK SUSPENSIONS IN 1904 NUMBERED 96

New York, Jan. 31.—Bradstreets' Mercantile agency makes a report as to bank failures in 1904, in part as follows:

Financial suspensions were numerous in 1904; more so than in any year for six years. They did not equal in importance, however, those of 1903. There vere ninety-six suspensions of national state, savings, and private banks, and loan and trust companies. As against a combined total of ninety such sus-pensions in 1903, twenty-nine in 1902, and fifty-six in 1901.

The total liabilities of failing banks in 1904 were $22,339,366, a decrease of 34 per cent from 1903, but an increase of four to one over the liabilities of the suspending banks of 1902.
