THE TALE OF A FENCE-JUMPING MOTOR CAR. How Willard J. Hield Became Convicted of the Strenuous Need of Excelsior for Trolley Service—A Story of Cold and Snow and a Broken Bubble.

Willard J. Hield, general manager of the Twin City Rapid Transit company, has become an ardent advocate of interior connections and now believes that every portion of Lake Minnetonka should be connected with his home and office by a set of cross streets.

Mr. Hield, being notified that certain sections of the company's domain were about to be taken from it by the action of the Excelsior village council, made all haste to the village and in the evening appeared before that august and sedate body to spar for time.

It was a dark night and the snow was falling, as was the mercury. A freak of the wind had placed a big snowdrift in the roadway.

It was then about 2:30 a.m., with a strong wind blowing out of the north-east. The snow continued to fall.

As soon as he reached his office a few hours later, he announced that he had reached the street and had taken his place in all departments of the company.

AN OAK STREET CAR HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Another terrible grade crossing accident was only missed by a hair's breadth on Saturday at Oak street. The motorcars set the airbrake frantically to avoid collision with a train, and Miss Smith, daughter of C. H. Smith of the Smith Heating company, 217 Oak street, was thrown violently.

When the Oak and Harriet car leaving the end of the line at 5:15 p.m. reversed the Oak street crossing, the gates were being lowered. In spite of this, the conductor insistently signaled the motorman to go ahead, and persisted in trying to cross in spite of the fact that the gates were down.

HELD TO THE FEDERAL G. J.

TRIBUNE "PERSONAL" ADS EVIDENCE AGAINST TWO PRISONERS—OLLY D. BURTON ARRESTED AGAIN.

With the evidence of their Tribune "personal" ads starting them in the face, the prisoners arrested by the United States marshal yesterday on a charge of using the mails for immoral purposes, were held to the federal grand jury.

Leo Williams was rather confident of escaping at first, but the evidence was overwhelming. He declared that he was ready to prove that his medicines were harmless, but this evidence was ruled out on the ground that one of his letters stated distinctly that they were supposed to do and intent was shown.

Both Williams and Mrs. Rogers claimed to have had some experience in the physician's art. Williams said that he had worked for several specialists, but did not mention in what capacity.

COURT NEWS

BRIDGING THE TRACKS. QUESTION AS TO DUTY OF RAILROAD WHEN ITS TRACKS ANTE-DATE THE STREET IS AT ISSUE.

Can a city compel a railroad company to build a bridge over a street when the company's tracks were laid before the street was opened?

This important question will be answered at the Great Northern bridge proceeding of the city of Minneapolis against the Great Northern, to be tried next week in the district court.

Proceedings were begun some time ago to compel the Great Northern to bridge University avenue near Twenty-ninth avenue N.E.

The question is of importance to all railroads and to all cities and towns in the state," said Rome G. Brown, the Great Northern attorney.
