ONE MINUTE TALKS
Newspaper advertising pays if you go about it right. There are a few essential points that are important in deciding upon how to go about it right.

First—Never advertise an article the people don't want.
Second—Never advertise an article that doesn't work in selling goods year after year.

If you are in business and don't advertise, you are in danger. This is a warning to you in your mistake in time and advert it.

A poor publisher, the proprietor of a struggling magazine, sent a half-inch advertisement to a New York paper. The paper made it a half page. The bill was bigger than the publisher's entire possessions. He thought he was ruined.

It was the turning point. The magazine sold. It was good and people liked it. Other half-page ads followed. Respect, Fortune, fame, honor. Advertising is just as potent a lever now as it was then.

The Journal invites you to make use of its want columns, which offer a most effective, inexpensive medium to get your wants filled. There is no want that Journal wants cannot supply. Clearing-house night's pages will be a great "clearing-house of wants," and if you have anything to sell, want to buy anything, want to engage help or want work, just call up Main 9, either line, and a Journal want ad man will call upon you promptly.

OLD RESENTMENT HAS WORN AWAY

VETERANS TALK OF RETURNING CAPTURED BATTLE FLAGS.
While Moves of the Kind Have Been Vetted in the Past, Minneapolis Soldiers of the Civil War Now Say That if Southern Veterans Want Flags, They Should Have Them.

Time has evidently mellowed the feelings engendered by the four years' strife of the civil war. In the past, efforts for the return of Confederate battle flags captured by Minnesota troops upon southern battlefields have been frowned upon.

The feeling which prompted the old soldiers to demand that the flags be kept in the north have grown softer, until many of them are not only willing but anxious to have the flags returned to the states from which they came.

The captured flags kept in the state capitol at St. Paul are claimed as the property of the veterans of the Fourth Minnesota, the only Minnesota regiment that brought home flags of the Confederacy. Resolutions have been introduced in the legislature for the return of the flags, but the opinion has always been so strong that the resolution was lost.

"I am in favor of returning the flags," said S. H. Towler, chairman of the board of trustees of the Soldiers' Home. "The time has long since passed when we should attempt to keep them if they are wanted in the south. They look upon these flags with reverence—flags they defended with all their might, and it seems best to me to give them back."

"Yes, I think the old flags should be returned," said Major R. R. Henderson. "All the old ill-feelings and animosities between the blue and the gray have passed away and I should not want to do a single thing to hurt the feelings of those who fought for the south. They want their flags. I don't blame them for wanting them and I think they should have them."

"If they want their battle flags, they deserve to have them," said George W. Morey, sergeant major of the Sixth Illinois cavalry. "They rallied around those rent and riddled flags forty odd years ago with courage and persistence that won the respect of every Federal soldier and I think the best element of the veterans today have nothing but good will for the white-haired men of the gray army. The day when the movement was made by Grover Cleveland to return them, it was not the returning of the flags that was resisted by the old soldiers, but they wanted them back by a man who had been a soldier himself and not one who had sent a substitute."

LIBRARY IS BEAUTIFIED
UPPER READING AND REFERENCE ROOM RENOVATED—HANDSOME PICTURES FOR ART READING ROOM.
A very pleasant change has taken place in the upper reading room and reference room of the public library. The dingy, faded walls have been replaced by a new coat of calcimine of delicate tone, which lights up well at night.

The bulletin of new books added in 1904 has come from the printers this week. Besides the list of additions, it contains a reading list on Japan and a list of the current periodicals taken by the library, and their distribution in the various reading rooms.

The library has now four reading-rooms in the central building, and the reference room in the public library, before being printed. In general, the trade journals and newspapers are in the lower reading room, the literary, educational and scholarly journals in the reference reading room, the art magazines in the art bookroom and those of lighter vein in the open shelf-room.

Some very handsome pictures have been hung upon the walls of the art bookroom this week. One very notable one is a chromo-lithograph of San Marco, made in Venice. It was mounted from plates which belong with the collection of work on San Marco purchased twelve years ago by Herbert Putnam.

DAVID TICE IS CALLED HOME

A LEADER IN NORTHWESTERN METHODISM SUCCEUMS
Active and Religious Career of the Veteran Pastor Is Closed—Called "the Church Builder," Because of His Helpful Activity for Young and Struggling Societies.

REV. DAVID TICE, Veteran Methodist Leader, Who Died Last Night.

Rev. David Tice, a leader in northwestern Methodism and founder of the Western Avenue M. E. church and the Fowler M. E. church, died last night at 6 o'clock at his residence, 1210 First avenue N. Death resulted indirectly from a fall received two years ago. Internal complications followed and an operation performed a few months ago proved unsuccessful.

The funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Fowler church. The remains will lie in state for an hour so that all friends of the pioneer of Methodism in Minnesota may once again gaze upon his face. Dr. A. P. Cool, pastor of the church, will have charge of the services. Bishop I. W. Joyce, Dr. William Fielder and other ministers will make short addresses.

Rev. David Tice was born Nov. 12, 1829, at Castroville, Canada West, the youngest of fourteen children born to John and Elizabeth Tice. At the age of thirteen he left home to seek an education, but his father offered him the home farm if he would stay. A talent for business early showed itself and before long he had accumulated an amassed property worth $40,000, all of which was swept away in the financial crash of 1857.

It was in 1850 that Mr. Tice was converted to the Christian faith, and he immediately thereafter felt a call to preach. He began studying and preaching at once, and was never thereafter without a church to which he was serving as pastor or building, or both.

Impaired health sent him to Minnesota in 1859, and he first served the Stockton circuit. From there on, except at two periods, when his health again broke down, he was constantly a pastor. He became known as "the church builder." Besides repairing and improving many churches, he was instrumental in building Methodist churches at Rushford, Marion, Austin, St. Cloud, Mankato, Lake City, St. Louis Park and Minneapolis. In Minneapolis he founded the Western avenue church, and helped to start Fowler church. It was while Dr. Tice was in charge of the Western avenue church, that he met former Senator Dr. M. Sabin, who then was the financial genius of that part of the state.

Mr. Tice, at Mr. Sabin's suggestion, went to the land he had purchased, and there he and subsequent independent transactions Mr. Tice accounted himself worth easily $150,000. His life was insured at one time for $70,000. But the hard times of 1893 found him encumbered and he turned over everything to his creditors, reserving nothing.

Mr. Tice is survived by his wife, who was Melissa Howell, of Jerseyville, C. W. They have also two children living, W. Howell Tice and Mrs. H. A. Workman of Howard Lake. They are the parents of Howard, David Tice, Jr. and David Tice and Frank T. Workman.

WATER BOARD'S PLAN APPROVED

INTEREST ON BONDS TO BE PAID FROM WATER FUNDS.
Sodini Found to Be Connected with Latest Application for Columbia License—Clarke Ordinance Amended for the Benefit of Law Abiding Saloonkeepers—Ordinance for Fiscal Reform.

If the state legislature grants the $1,000,000 bond issue for the installation of a filtering plant for Minneapolis, the interest will be paid out of the annual water fund.

This plan was outlined by the members of the water board in The Journal yesterday, and Alderman Holmes' resolution making it effective was passed at the council meeting last night with but two dissenting votes. Alderman Duryea and Castner opposed it, declaring that it was simply throwing dust in the eyes of taxpayers, making them think the cost of the filter is being reduced.

"The people will pay for the bonds anyway, and to could be fairer to let the interest be direct taxation," said Alderman Duryea. The plan, however, looked good to the twenty other aldermen present.

The ordinance granting the Great Northern permission to build a spur track for switching in the alley between Washington avenue N and Third street and from Fourth avenue to Tenth avenue was passed last night. The track was demanded by the business men of North Minneapolis.

Sodini in It After All.
Emma D. McCarthy's application for a license to conduct a theater in the old Columbia theater building at 208 Washington avenue S was read and a new phase was put on the situation by the statement that the applicant is a sister-in-law of J. C. Sodini, the former proprietor of the notorious place. The real connection between Mrs. McCarthy and Sodini, however, was explained by Frank Nance, her attorney, who says that Mrs. Sodini is suing for divorce and that her desire to conduct this theater so that she may get her alimony. The matter was referred back to the license committee for further investigation.

In response to City Attorney Healey's request that all obsolete ordinances be repealed, Alderman Rand asked the council to repeal an ordinance passed in June, 1888, regulating the traffic on the suspension bridge. The city attorney is working on a codification of the ordinances and wants all useless laws out of the way.

Alderman Hertig introduced an ordinance intended to bring the present system of paying out money up to date. It requires that bills must be certified in the manner required by the county commissioners. The payrolls and budget must be signed and approved by the heads of the departments. Actual signatures must be used and rubber stamps are tabooed.

Clarke Ordinance Amended.
Upon the recommendation of the license committee the Clarke ordinance was amended so as to make it easier for the saloonkeeper who voluntarily surrenders his license. Formerly he was required to give thirty days' notice, and to show certificates from the clerks of district and municipal courts that no prosecution had been pending for that period. The amendment provides that if the saloonkeeper can show the required certificates he may surrender his license and get his refund immediately.

ECZEMOZONE
An Error Corrected.
We wish to call the attention of our readers to the annual statement of the Continental Casualty Company of Chicago, which is to be found in another column in an article published in The Journal on Feb. 2, a mistake was made in stating that the Continental was not licensed and fully authorized to do business in this state. The Continental has been licensed to do business in nearly every state and territory for years, and a comparison of its Annual Statement for 1904 with those of other companies will show that the Continental has the most successful business in its line of any company in the U. S. last year.
