FLAMBEAU CLUB IN WASHINGTON

Members Are Annoyed Because Roosevelt Club Has Precedence in Parade.

By W. W. Jermans.

Washington, March 3.—The Minneapolis Flambeau club was scheduled to arrive in Washington yesterday afternoon but did not get here until 10 o'clock last night. Travel on all eastern roads is very slow on account of the heavy inaugural crowds, and trains into Washington are many hours behind time. The Flambeau crowd is comfortably housed in a big house on G street and will be here six days.

Members of the club are somewhat annoyed because the Minneapolis Roosevelt club is given a place in the parade ahead of them, and the club officers are laboring with the inaugural committee to see if a change cannot be made. The Flambeau uniforms are attracting a good deal of attention on the streets today.

The Minneapolis Roosevelt club is due to arrive over the Chesapeake & Ohio road from Cincinnati at 4 o'clock this afternoon, but advises state that the train will be late and they may not get here until midnight. This is the penalty of a late start. This club is assigned a fine position in the civic section of tomorrow's parade.

The inaugural crowds will be the largest in the country's history, it is believed. The eastern states, particularly New York, are sending an unusually large number of people. The middle west and far west states are not doing so well as in former years, which is surprising in view of Roosevelt's popularity in those sections. There is hardly anybody here from Illinois, Michigan or Wisconsin, for instance, except the regulation number of visitors.

Hotels Are Greedy.

The hotel people are pushing on the screws in a way that is binding to the average visitor. J. T. Perkins, statistician for the Pillsbury-Washburn company, has been ill at the Raleigh hotel here for several weeks, but is now recovered. Yesterday he was put out of the room he had been occupying at $5 a day and was told it had been rented for inauguration time at $25 a day. Another Minneapolis man had a room at the New Willard hotel until yesterday at $5 a day, and wanted to stay in it until after Monday. He was told he must pay $20 a day and take the room for seven days at that figure, which he declined to do, as he will go away at the end of the third day of the seven.

Timecard of Events.

The timecard for the inaugural events as closely as can be scheduled, follows:

10 a.m.—President leaves White House for the capitol, with his personal escort.

10:30 to 12 noon—President remains in his room adjoining the senate chamber and passes on measures passed at the last hour and awaiting his action.

12 noon—President takes seat in senate chamber in front of the vice president's desk.

12:15 p.m.—President pro tempore of the senate administers the oath to Mr. Fairbanks as vice president.

12:30 p.m.—New senators sworn in.

1 p.m.—President Roosevelt takes the oath on stand at east front of capitol.

1:15 p.m.—President reads his inaugural address.

The Great Parade.

1:30 to 1:30 p.m.—President Roosevelt concludes his inaugural address and starts for White House, and parade, in which approximately 30,000 men, according to the committee's estimate, will be in line, begins to march. Parade halts at head of Pennsylvania avenue to allow president to take luncheon and reach reviewing stand.

2 p.m.—President at luncheon.

2:45 p.m.—President enters reviewing stand and begins review of the parade.

5:30 p.m.—Parade ends.

7:30 p.m.—Inaugural ball committees assemble. Fireworks begin.

8 p.m.—Pension building opened for inaugural ball.

8:45 p.m.—Fireworks conclude.

9 p.m.—Grand march at the ball.

12 midnight—Ball ends.

Monday night, grand inaugural concert.

Solid Mass of Color.

Everywhere decorations abound. Pennsylvania avenue, the broadest thoroughfare in the city, along which the thousands of troops and civic organizations will march tomorrow, is a solid mass of color.

The great feature of the grand pageant is at the plaza formed by Pennsylvania avenue between the White House grounds, the treasury building and the state, war and navy building on the south side and Lafayette park, and the two blocks of buildings flanking it on the north side. There the whole space is virtually enclosed by handsomely equipped reviewing stands and the plaza is transformed into a "court of history."

In the center of the south side of the plaza directly north of the White House is the president's reviewing stand, with accommodations for 1,200 people invited to witness the spectacle with the president. Directly opposite it is another stand on which the grand marshal and members of the republican national committee will review the parade and on whose succession of tiers of seats 6,200 people may watch the paraders pass. In all, concentrated on these stands overlooking this arena, perhaps 15,000 people will be gathered.

The police arrangements are perfected. Every available officer and private of the regular force will be on duty and 450 special policemen have been employed. Detectives and police officers to a considerable number have been brought here from outside cities to aid in the maintenance of order and in the detection of crooks.

OWNS TO MURDER FOR WHICH BROTHER DIED

Washington, March 3.—"My God, that's my brother. He never killed that woman. I am the murderer. I should have been hanged instead of Eugene!" cried Adolph J. Bloch today in a frenzy of remorse, interrupting a companion at the steel mill in Canonsburg, who was reading to him an account of the hanging of Eugene Bloch at Allentown on Tuesday. He is in the Washington county jail awaiting a hearing on the charge of the murder to which he has confessed, and for which his brother has been executed.

Bloch reads newspapers but little and says he knew nothing of the trial, conviction and execution of his brother until today. He says his brother knew him to be guilty and suffered death rather than betray him.

The records of the day—deaths, births, marriages, hotel arrivals, railroad timetables, real-estate transfers, building permits and other information of interest—will be found, together with want advertisements, on page 20 of this issue.
