WHY MEN DON'T MARRY
FINANCIAL BURDEN OF PRES-ENT ECONOMIC CONDITIONS
AND SELFISHNESS ARE FAC-TORES.

Chicago, March 11.—"It is the woman who goes to the governor and asks for the enforcement of the civil-service law, and it is to women we owe the credit for reclaiming children from the mines and glass factories. They have broadened their field of work to such an extent that their marriageable age today are not as their grandmothers were. They are more in public life, and conditions under which our grandfathers married are much to be deplored from those met with by the young people of today."

This recognition of woman's advancement in the world of work, when Dr. Emil G. Hirsch lectured on "Bachelors" at Temple Israel. He said many were never married because they were looking for a woman who would be found themselves early in life with burdens which made it impossible to provide for another, and the scientist or artist sometimes does not because he is "wedded to his profession."

"In the time of our parents and grandparents the women were content to stay at home," said Dr. Hirsch. "There were no clubs then, no take the man and woman from home. Today, however, things are different. A woman finds herself in need of the intellectual and many of the social conditions that broaden her field of knowledge. The man has been lost in the battle for dollars to provide for the woman of his choice."

WHAT THE MARKET AFFORDS

Codfish balls, two for 5 cents.
Norwegian fish balls in bouillon, 25 cents a can.
Smoked haddock, smoked, 12 1/2 to 15 cents a pound.
Mackerel, small, 12 1/2 to 15 cents a piece.
Smoked halibut, 20 cents a pound.
Salt and smoked fish form an important part of the menu during Lent, and their cooking receives special attention. Smoked halibut and salmon cod, more per pound, are appropriate, herring, and herring, but as they are thick, solid fish, with no waste, they go farther. Both may be cooked by the same methods, the best of which are boiling or frying. To fry, cut in thin slices and warm up slowly in a little olive oil; serve with a maitre d'hotel sauce. For boiling, cut in thin slices and put in cold water, then pour boiling water over them and let stand for twenty minutes. Drain the slices, dry and rub with butter, and serve with any fish sauce liked.

An important item in the attractiveness and palatability of fish is the sauce and garnish. Lemon strips and parsley are appropriate. Appropriate sauces are sauce tartare, maitre d'hotel and anchovy, with bearnaise in addition for smelts. For boiled fish one may choose between shrimp, lobster, oyster, hollandaise, bechamel, lemonade, caper and drawn butter sauce, the shrimp and lobster being especially appropriate for fish with white sauce. For broiled fish, drawn-butter sauce is suitable for baked fish. The directions for these will be found in any good cook book and none is difficult of preparation, but all require care.

WORD RULED BY COOK, NOT MOTHER

Mrs. Jones of Kalamazoo Says the Kitchen Is the Foundation Stone of Greatness.

New York Sun Special Service, Chicago, March 11.—"The hand that wields the cooking spoon is the hand that rules the world—far more effectively than the hand that rocks the cradle," said Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones of Kalamazoo, Mich., "for the hand of the cook holds the key to the health of the future homemakers and lawmakers of our land, who are to compose the great sinews of the nation. Our great leaders in statesmanship, morals and industry owe far more of their success to proper nourishment during their youth than they do to their college studies or to their fathers' mature advice."

"A modern knowledge of bread-making on the part of their cooks might have made the difference between a good and a bad citizen. A sound mind is impossible in an unsound body. A practical knowledge of applied chemistry is far more enlightening to the nation than all the theoretical and polite sciences composing the curricula of our universities."

Mrs. Jones was lecturing on "Domestic Science in the Home," before the Arche club.

The lecturer urged the teaching of good conversation to girls as being as efficacious in securing good husbands in many instances as a boasted knowledge of cooking. "Good cooking brings contentment into the home, but pleasant conversation will bring happiness," she declared.

OLD HARNESS ALMOST KEPT NEW ONE OFF

New York Sun Special Service, Brooklyn, March 11.—A wedding was nearly postponed here yesterday thru what at one time appeared the inability of the bride to be secured her divorce decree in time. A final decree of divorce was signed late yesterday afternoon by Judge Dickcey, of the supreme court, in favor of May Vivian Watkins against Lucius Matthew Watkins. As the divorce had made all arrangements to be married last night her attorney sent to the county clerk's office for a certified copy of the decree.

Constitution resigned when it was found it had not been filed. After a frantic search the court officer was found with a bundle of papers, among which was the decree, bound in another direction. He was at once rushed to the county clerk's office and the day was saved.

GOLD FINDS GROW RICHER

Montana Miners Take Options on Pepsin, Wis., Lands.
PEPIN, WIS.—Gold continues to be found in the vicinity of this place. George Wolfred, a farmer living one mile from Pepin, last fall started a shaft on his field. After digging twelve feet, cold weather set in and he suspended work for the winter. He took some of the material to Dr. Lehman of Pepin, Wis., who analyzed it. The result was something over $6 to the ton. Two weeks ago he commenced to dig on the same shaft. He went down twenty-five feet, the last six feet being in a yellow, reddish rock, filled with dull yellow specks. Believing it to be gold, he sent a piece of the rock to Fred Volgel, an assayer of Fountain City, who found it contained $355 to the ton in free gold.

The Eli Minders gold and silver mine, near the Chippewa river, is running with a large force of men. The assays run very high in gold and silver. This company is taking options on all lands adjoining its property. The area of the mine is about 100 acres. The Chippewa river on the east and to Bogus creek on the west, being six miles wide. It extends north along the iron vein, which is traced thru to the northern part of Minnesota.

CHILD-WIFE SCHOOL PLANNED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, March 11.—A school, or at least a special room, for child-wives may be established by the Chicago board of education as a result of investigations completed today by the compulsory education department.

The search for wives of compulsory school age was made by Superintendent Bodine and has been more fruitful than even the school officials expected. More than a score of wives under the age of fourteen years were found in one Italian tenement district. The investigation also is said to have proved the existence of a traffic in child-wives between this country and Europe.

A majority of the school trustees hold that unmarried school girls should not be put in the same classes with the so-called child-wives.
