DEERING EDIFICE CONTRACT IS LET

C. F. HAGLIN WILL PUT UP FINE OFFICE BUILDING.

New Structure to Be a Decided Acquisition for the City—Ten Stories High and of Pleasing Appearance—The Cost Will Be About $600,000.

The contract for the Deering building, at Fourth street and Second avenue S, has been let to C. F. Haglin of Minneapolis, who has been working on the site today. The building will be ten stories high, will have facing brick on three sides and will cost about $600,000.

M. E. Holton of Chicago, Mr. Deering's personal representative, and Walter A. Eggleston of the David C. Bell Investment company, the Minneapolis agents, have been waiting Mr. Deering's approval of the increased cost and height of the building, and of the contract, several days. Immediately on its receipt workmen began clearing up the site for excavation.

The approval of the enlarged plans, after sketches by Long & Long, architects, means much for Minneapolis. It insures one of the finest office buildings that can be built. The exterior will be of Tiffany cream satin finish brick of Norman shape and this brick will be used on the Fourth street, Second avenue and alley sides. No capitalist erecting such a building has heretofore paid so much attention to the satisfaction of the eye.

Mr. Deering has also approved the expensive plan of fitting the building with plate glass, except on the alley side. This side will be fitted with a fireproof wire glass, that is absolutely transparent—an innovation in Minneapolis.

To insure good light and air for the tenants Mr. Deering has decided to put the building lines on the alley side five feet inside his property. This will add five feet to the sixteen-foot alley and the space will be used for a walk leading from the entrance to the building thru the alley to the Third avenue entrance of the court, city hall and courthouse.

When S. T. McKnight builds a six-story building on his property across the alley he will allow three feet for similar purposes, thus making a twenty-four-foot alley between the buildings, equivalent to a street.

The structure will be on Second avenue and will be decorated with two elaborate bronze lamps. Other fittings in the building will correspond. Five passenger elevators will be installed.

The structure will have a frontage of 152 feet on Second avenue and a depth of 132 feet on Fourth street. The material in the present buildings on the site will be used in the construction will be rushed to completion.

EASY TO ABATE SMOKE NUISANCE

INSPECTOR ALLEN FINDS NEW DEVICE EFFECTIVE.

Rearrangement of the Furnace Firebox Results in the Consumption of the Smoke and a Saving of Fuel—Engineers and Health Commissioner Watch a Test of the Equipment.

As a result of experiments conducted by several practical engineers of Minneapolis a device for the abatement of large furnaces has been perfected that promises to make the abatement of the smoke nuisance a comparatively easy matter.

A demonstration showing two large boilers equipped with the new device in full operation was given Saturday night in the Glass Block engineering room under the direction of J. W. Allen, the smoke inspector. The demonstration was attended by nearly a hundred practical engineers and firemen and all pronounced it a success.

Not only was the smoke entirely consumed, but the boilers gave nearly double the power under the same heat of the new system. Where 300 horse power was obtained under the old arrangement, they can now be crowded closer to the 500 mark. One of the Glass Block boilers has been run under this system for a week and during that time 25 per cent less fuel has been used for the amount of power gained.

The demonstration was conducted by the health department simply to show that it is possible to burn even the poorest grade of soft coal and have no smoke.

The rearrangement is a practical and simple arrangement of the firebox. Under the old system the boiler was directly above the furnace and the smoke carried the small particles of carbon against it. According to the engineers it is impossible to heat a boiler filled with water above 350 degrees. As it rises a temperature of about one thousand degrees to consume the carbon or smoke the desired results could not be obtained. The gas was cooled and the smoke passed up the chimney unburned.

The new arrangement consists of an arched wall of fire brick between the firebox and the boiler. These bricks can be heated to incandescence and the smoke strikes the heated surface, it will not be cooled. Two air pipes run between the boiler and arched wall, and deliver the second supply of oxygen to the furnace. The air passes over the hot bricks, it is heated to about 1,000 degrees, and any small particles of carbon that may have been carried up the chimney of the box are immediately consumed.

The problem of the engineers heretofore was to get the second supply of oxygen. A device was devised, but the oxygen was not heated and the result was a cooling of the smoke. Under this system the flames never touch the boiler, but the heat after it is generated is brought back and distributed thru the flues of the boiler.

Stoking under this system, say the firemen, is much easier than under the old, and at the same time there is a minimum of unconsumed matter.

Dr. P. M. Hall, health commissioner, watched the test of the new device Saturday, while the two boilers were going at full blast. The other boilers which have not been equipped with the new device, are still burning hard coal and only a small amount of smoke was coming out of the chimney. With all the fireboxes rearranged he says there will be no more smoke in the south end of the city.

He has not tried the device long enough to pronounce it perfect, but hopes to be able to do so. It will be a burning without making smoke, and if one fireman can do it with the new system, others can learn to do it.

To improve a boiler in this way will not be costly and the work can be done between closing time Saturday and Monday morning. If reusable bricks are used in the arch, the work will last for nearly ten years without repair.

Patent papers have been taken out by the engineers who perfected the new plan, and no attempt will be made by them to do a general business until the smoke nuisance in Minneapolis is abated.

While he was away Pfeiffer shot at the fishermen and shot several of them, without cause, and to have acted strangely.

DR. J. W. HILL AGAIN ACCUSED

SILAS SWALLOW AFTER FORMER MINNEAPOLITAN.

Transfer of Dr. Hill, Once Pastor of the Fowler M. E. Church, from Harrisburg, Pa., to Brooklyn, Arouses His Old Enemy—Minneapolis Friends Say Attack Is Unwarranted.

Much ado is being made in Brooklyn, over the Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill, formerly pastor of the Fowler M. E. church, in Minneapolis, who has been called from Harrisburg, Pa., to the position of pastor of the M. E. church in Brooklyn. His old enemy, the Rev. Dr. Silas Swallow, late candidate of the prohibition party for president of the United States, has published in his paper, the Pennsylvania Methodist, a scathing attack on Dr. Hill, and sent it broadcast thru the east. The article seems to have been written by Dr. Hill, "fraud," "fake," and "falsehood."

Dr. Swallow accuses Dr. Hill of deception in connection with the sale of university lots in Ogden, Utah; makes the allegation that Dr. Hill was in Minneapolis when he was in Harrisburg, Pa., and that he was deceived on a fake history of Methodism; that Bishop Fowler was asked by several men in Minneapolis to remove Dr. Hill because of his alleged use of liquor; that Dr. Hill was guilty of falsehood concerning his call to a church; that Dr. Hill refused to repay some money borrowed from a poor widow in Ogden, Utah; that Dr. Hill was one of several men whose language tended to excite a mob to violence on the occasion of McKinley's death; that Dr. Hill once traveled thru the west under an assumed name, impersonating a judge.

These charges are reported to be supported by affidavits and depositions, among them those of George E. Dickson, a prominent business man of Minneapolis, and J. W. Earl of this city. Mr. Earl said today that he never made any affidavits or charges against Dr. Hill, and as far as he knows Dr. Hill is worthy of all confidence.

Minneapolis friends of Dr. Hill declare that if the charges are no more than rumors, which they are, they are unwarranted. They say that Dr. Hill has been in Minneapolis no more than once since he left the city, and that he was a member of the church from next to nothing to a prosperous congregation. For the benefit of the church he prepared a "History of Twin City Methodism," which brought in considerable revenue and some trouble, principally from dissatisfied advertisers.

Dr. Hill was quite unconventional in manner and dress, and his enemies among the conservative in that way. There were many rumors in the air and the congregation decided to investigate, the leader in the movement being J. W. Kerriek, a member of the board of trustees of the church. Dr. Hill was brought before the board, and the whole congregation and Dr. Hill simply swept the boards of his enemies, say those who were present.

J. H. Kerkel became a steadfast friend of Dr. Hill and accompanied him Bradshaw to Bellefont, Pa., in 1902 to attend the Central Pennsylvania conference. Dr. Hill was in a trial precipitated by Dr. Swallow.

Friends of Dr. Hill in this city say that the charges are nothing more than rumors, and that Dr. Hill is a man of high character and high ability. They say that Dr. Hill is a man of high character and high ability.

DANGER NOT EXPECTED FROM THE ICE FIELD

Power and dam companies along the river are breathing easier for there is every indication that the ice will go out peacefully.

Officials of the St. Anthony Power company said today that the ice was melting on the surface, and wearing away underneath. A few days of warm, pleasant weather, and all danger will be over. They have been waiting for the ice to break up and start them moving. Last year great quantities of solid ice went over the dam, and the river was blocked by the heavy mass, and the back water, did damage.

CAUGHT WINDOW SMASHER

Detectives Do Quick Work in Arresting Frank Blount.

Frank Blount, 18 Eighth street N, was arrested last night fifteen minutes after he had smashed a window in the Fuller laundry, 607 Hennepin avenue, and stolen a quantity of clothing. He was caught by a burglar who had been still bleeding from a cut received from the broken glass and the stolen clothing was found concealed in the room. He is thought to be a burglar, and is being held to answer for the breaking of the window and the theft of the clothing.

Blount is said to have taken advantage of the passing of a streetcar to smash the window. The noise made by the car completely drowned that of the breaking glass. He stepped inside the window and took the clothing. A pedestrian saw him and notified the police. Four detectives went from police headquarters, followed Blount to his room and arrested him.

Blount waived examination when arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of burglary, and was held to the grand jury in $500 bail.

EXPECTS A CLASH

Helena Man Thinks Sheep and Cattle Men Will Have Trouble.

Peter Larson of Helena, Mont., who is in St. Paul, says that the Montana sheep men and cattle men are in a hot attempt of Boston capitalists to get a corner on the market and were successful. Wool is now selling at 20 cents a pound and will probably reach a higher figure.

Mr. Larson predicts a clash in the near future between the sheep men and the cattle men, due to the encroachment on the range on the part of the sheep raisers.

PRISONERS' NARROW ESCAPE.

Mike Sauerwein and four other prisoners accused of looting summer cottages at White Bear, nearly lost their lives by fire in the White Bear lock-up Saturday night. BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR BOAT OWNERS

NAVIGATION ON THE LAKES TO OPEN SOON.

Firms Owning Vessels Expect to Recoup Losses of Last Season—Minneapolis Fleet to Be Among the First Reported Cleared—Boats at Buffalo and at Head of the Lakes.

Advices received on change indicate that navigation on the Great Lakes will open early, and that an enormous amount of tonnage will be ready for the boats when they start.

A Duluth man in Minneapolis today says the prospect is highly favorable for a prosperous year, and vesselmen expect to recoup for the losses attendant upon the great labor tieup of last season.

The Minneapolis fleet, the big Peavey boats, are ready, and will be among the first reported cleared. The Hefelingers at Buffalo and will probably come up with coal. The Wells and the G. W. Peavey and F. H. Peavey are at the head of the lakes, and will probably clear with coal, also there is little doing yet in charts.

A wire from Duluth this morning says that if the present weather holds, the first cleared boats will start on the night of April 1 or 2, and navigation will be open by April 10 in any case.

This will be an unusually early start, for in times past the Duluth-Superior harbor and the Straits of Mackinaw have not been entirely free of ice to May 1. It will not make a new record, however, for in 1901 there was an extraordinary early spring and one of the Peavey fleet got out of Two Harbors on March 31.

There is much freight to go down the river. It is estimated that from 30,000,000 to 35,000,000 tons of ore will move and much flour and other tonnage.

MILWAUKEE USES PHONES

WILL TRY EXPERIMENT IN THREE TOWNS WHERE TELEGRAPH SERVICE HAS BEEN DROPPED.

Telephones are to take the places of telegraph operators in the Milwaukee town stations at Milwaukee, Hammond and Zumbro Falls.

Some time ago the business men of these three towns petitioned the state railroad commission to compel the Milwaukee company to re-establish operators, saying they could get no information from the local agents as to movements of trains, whether late or on time.

The commission has secured a promise from the railroad that at each one of these three stations a telephone service will be established with the nearest station where an operator is located. This plan is to be tried to see what satisfaction it gives. In the meantime the railroad is to be kept posted by the petitioners if they desire further proceedings.

NEEDS OF TEACHERS

Prof. W. F. Webster Participates in Discussion at Ministers' Meeting.

Professor W. F. Webster, principal of the East high school read paper two weeks ago before the Presbyterian ministers' meeting. The paper was discussed this morning, Professor Webster being present to elucidate further his subject, "Some Moral Phases of the School Question."

The importance of the training of the moral sense of the child in school principles of psychology and pedagogy was emphasized by Mr. Webster and Dr. D. L. Kiehl, who took the ground that this was not now done to any considerable extent. Several others, while agreeing with the necessity for this, thought the Sunday schools were about on a par with day schools in respect to this training.

The necessity for accurate instructions on the evil effects of bad habits was given stress, as exaggeration leads to distrust of the whole teaching.

At the meeting of the Baptist ministers Dr. E. P. Hammond talked of his evangelistic work among children and Rev. C. J. Triggerson made a statement of the accepted scientific doctrine of evolution.

Dr. George L. Merrill read the first chapter of a biblical introduction for Sunday-school teachers to the Congregational ministers. At the meeting of the Methodist preachers, Dr. S. Montgomery made a farewell address.

BOG IS EXPENSIVE

New Armory's Cost Increased $5,000 Because of It.

Work was begun today on the excavation for the new armory at Lyndale avenue and Kenwood parkway. The building will have to rest on piles because of the boggy nature of the ground. Because of this the date of completion will be delayed and the cost will be increased about $5,000.

The contract for the building was awarded to the William Porten company at $113,000; the plumbing to the Allan Black company at $2,897; the heating and ventilating to the Hais firm at $2,888; and the wiring to the W. I. Gray company at $2,857. The ironwork goes to the American Bridge company, and the window shades to the J. H. Montgomery company. The cost of the ground and the new sewer was $16,240.
