THE AUDITORIUM ORGAN

Of Gaston Dethier, who dedicated the great ball organ at the Auditorium last night, one might speak in extravagant fashion and still be within the bounds of truth. His work was that of a master and fully worthy of the great Guillaume, whose pupil he is. His technique is flawless, his taste wholly admirable, and his use of the different registers and solo stops of the organ superb. One of the chief charms of his playing was his dexterity with the pedal notes. This was especially true in his second number, where he played a running staccato pedal accompaniment to an exquisite melody. This accompaniment was all played with the left foot, and with a delicacy of touch and a precision that was marvellous.
 M. Dethier played three of his own compositions, "Variations on a Carol," a "Nocturne," and a "Scherzo." Each was thoroughly enjoyable, and all displayed originality and facility in musical form and treatment, but could scarcely be called works of genius. The first was chiefly interesting because of the great variety of technical treatment accorded the theme.
 The Philharmonic club assisted in the concert, and never sang better. Mr. Oberholfer directed as usual, and W. S. Marshall played the organ accompaniments. A small orchestra also participated. The organist took his tempo by proxy, and with a success that was surprising. The Parker "Mottet" was finely sung and the semichorus sang a capella, was especially good. Mrs. W. Gordon Brackett took the famous solo, "Oh, for the Wings of a Dove," in the Mendelssohn "Hear My Prayer." Her voice was sweet, clear and grateful, but scarcely strong enough for so large a hall. In "The Heavens Are Telling," Mrs. Brackett was assisted by Messrs. C. Ellis Fisher and Alvin Williams, in the trio parts. These were well sung, also never with sufficient power.

There was a brilliant and at times enthusiastic audience present which almost filled the spacious hall. Both Mr. Dethier and Mr. Oberholfer and Mrs. Brackett were obliged to respond to spirited encouragements.
 While the organ itself is perfect, there was a feeling last night that its situation in the recess at the side of the stage was possibly unfortunate, the critics differ on this point.

THE DELINEATOR

"The Most Necessary of All Magazines Published for Women"

Get the June Issue—Out To-Day

IN THIS ISSUE is presented as a fitting companion feature to Mrs. Berkeley-Loyd's "Fashions in New York" no less an authority than Edouard La Fontaine, who will furnish us with the text and illustrations each month for our Paris Letter.
 M. La Fontaine is without peer on the European continent as a dress critic and a writer on all topics pertaining to fashions. Besides this, he is an artist of great individuality, as is shown by his sketches which are reproduced in his Paris Letter. They have a style and an atmosphere about them distinctly Parisian. Known personally to all the famous dress creators in the various fashion centres of Europe, he has free access to their establishments and "private views" of their latest productions long before they are seen in public. Under the arrangement just concluded, M. La Fontaine will contribute to THE DELINEATOR exclusively in America.

ANNA BURNHAM WESTERMANN, whose charming drawings have appeared for some time in THE DELINEATOR, illustrating the styles described in the "Fashions in New York," is well known as a creator of figures of living grace, which without lessening in any way their value as fashion drawings, lifts them far beyond the plane of the usual fashion plate. Mrs. Westermann's women are sweet and womanly and, better than all for your purpose, they know how to wear their dresses. They are always well groomed, and their appearance each month in THE DELINEATOR will surely be welcomed by all of its readers. Hereafter Mrs. Westermann's fashion drawings will appear only in THE DELINEATOR.

BEAUTIFUL FASHION ILLUSTRATIONS IN COLORS

ROMANCES OF SUMMER RESORTS," by Weymer Jay Mills, begins in this number. No series of tales published for some time promises so much of general interest as these charmingly reminiscent tales. Their delightful telling and the quaint old pictures which accompany them assure enjoyment to every reader.

A TRAVEL SKETCH that is brimful of interest is F. Berkeley Smith's description of "A CORNER IN NORMANDY." It is interesting as a story and gives you more than a passing glance at one of the most curious nooks in the old world.

THE third installment of Albert Bigelow Paine's "THE LUCKY-PIECE," and another of the "SON RILEY RABBIT" tales by Grace MacGowan Cooke, together with the many regular departments, make this issue a remarkable one. "THE PRACTICAL SIDE OF A WEDDING," in the Home Department, discusses the problem of bringing the wedding festivities within a reasonable expenditure.
