Swift, head of the patent department of the company, asking for restitution of $25,000. It is charged that Swift, who has been with the company twenty-five years, and his brother Willis Swift, co-opted to rob the company by the fraudulent purchase of patents. Willis Swift, it is alleged, came to Minneapolis, under the name of C. Chatfield, and thru an attorney fixed a deal whereby he, as Chatfield, sold to his brother, R. B. DIED AS HE SLEPT

Husband Has Horrid Awakening in Mendota Depot. In the almost deserted railroad station at Mendota last night, Mrs. Ben Mezerdem, a Salvation Army lass, was sitting beside her husband waiting to change cars. The hours were long and Mezerdem fell asleep. When he awoke at midnight the body of his wife was cold in death. The utmost mystery surrounds the death. Coroner F. W. Kramer will hold an autopsy. It was said at first that the couple were from the Minneapolis branch of the Salvation Army, but inquiry at all headquarters showed that no such couple had ever been known here. It was stated that Mrs. Mezerdem's parents live at Sioux City, Iowa, and that the couple were about to pay a visit to them. They had been married nine weeks.

MERRY PARTY ON 'STUMPING' TOUR

BUT THREE LEGS IN THE WHOLE BUNCH.

Men from the Four Corners of the Country Meet Here to Be Fitted with Artificial Limbs and Become Fast Friends—They Enjoy a Journal "Seeing Minneapolis" Trip Together. The Journal touring car which left the building at 1 p. m. today on its regular trip carried the unique party of the season. The group of men there were only three enough legs out of a possible twelve. The driver of the car was in possession of one full set, E. H. Erickson, proprietor of the Erickson Artificial Limb company and chaparron, possessed one-third of the remainder. Two of his guests divided the other two between them. The cripples had assembled in Minneapolis from all parts of the country to get as near to nature as they could in replacing their missing legs. Moved by the fact that they decided to make the first try of their new legs to gether. Common timidity suggested that a Journal "Seeing Minneapolis" car would be the best means of locomotion after all for the first trip, and so a car was chartered. The party was made up as follows: J. D. Gingsberg, Monday, leg, railway accident; J. C. Bergeron, Houghton, Mich., no legs, railway accident; Lewis Allen, Clinton, Iowa, one leg, railway accident; Julius Melgord, Everett, Wash., one leg, railway accident. Mr. Erickson takes such pride in the product of his factory that he also wears an artificial leg instead of the one nature designed for him. It was finally decided to take Mrs. Allen along with her husband, and she looked and felt as if she were a part of the party of humanity bowled over the broad avenues. It is expected that the group will start some kind of a distance contest for amusement tomorrow. Odds are given on the two men who have been deprived of both legs. We Clean, Press Clothes, $1 Month. Pick up, deliver your laundry, same box. Collars or cuffs 1c, shirts 10c, (underwear a specialty). Hoffman's, 51 and 53 S. Fourth street.

PIONEERS GATHER

Annual Meeting of Organization Held at Capitol. The annual meeting of the Minnesota Territorial Pioneers' association was held in the legislative halls of the new capitol today. There were fully 150 venerable men who assembled in the house chamber, while in the senate an even larger number of women convened as the Territorial Pioneer Women's club. Mrs. Eli Southworth of Shakopee, as president, called the Women's club to order and delivered an address. She congratulated the organization on its flourishing condition and expressed pleasure in being able to report that no deaths had occurred during the past year. Mrs. H. H. Hazzard of St. Paul rendered a report as secretary, showing a membership of 240. This afternoon the Women's club elected the following officers: President, Mrs. A. L. Bolton, St. Paul; vice president, Mrs. James Garvey, Minneapolis; secretary, Mrs. J. Golpin of Minneapolis; treasurer, Miss A. Stratton of Minneapolis. The Territorial Pioneers spent the morning inspecting the new capitol. Luncheon was taken by all at the capitol cafe, and at 2 o'clock the session was called to order in the house chamber. Addresses were made by General James Baker of Minnesota, Congressman F. C. Stevens of St. Paul, Judge J. B. Gillilan of Minneapolis and others.

AMENDMENT LOST

Claim That Stipulated Premium Law Is Voided by Error. Another mistake has been found in the enrollment of a bill passed by the last legislature—the stipulated premium insurance law, relating to the Northwestern National Life Insurance company of Minneapolis. The mistake is the omission of an amendment attached to the house. Fred V. Brown, attorney for the company, believes the mistake invalidates the entire measure. One of its provisions requires the company to dispose of the new auditorium within ten years. This afternoon the committee on the bill reported that the mistake invalidates the law or not," said Commissioner O'Brien today, "but if it does, with its present management the company is all right under the old law till another legislative session."

ARE NOT NEEDED

Retailers' Association Is Opposed to the Kiosk Plan. Thomas Voegeli, A. D. Thompson and George Londen have been named by the Minneapolis Retailers' association to represent the retail merchants in a fight against the placing of kiosks in the streets. Resolutions adopted by the association declare that these kiosks will come in competition with legitimate merchants who are paying large rentals; that the accommodations and conveniences promised from the kiosks are already furnished, free, by the merchants and that such institutions would be a detriment to the legitimate merchandizing interests. The association is on that account unalterably opposed to the passage of the Peterson ordinance granting the privilege for kiosks.

Coal Man Charged by Peavey Company with Embezzlement Is Arraigned.

E. O. Fellows, manager of the Fellows Coal company, was arraigned in police court today charged with embezzling $5,000 from the Peavey Elevator company, for which he acted as agent. He was held in $5,000 bail. The complaint was made by C. W. Lane, auditor of the Peavey company. Mr. Fellows had a sales office at 409 Hennepin avenue, but also sold coal in large lots to the Peavey company. He offered no explanation of the charge, but denied that he left the city to avoid arrest. He says he went under his own name while away and told new acquaintances that he was from Minneapolis. He denied having addressed a group of prisoners in the jail at El Paso, where he was arrested last Saturday night. Fellows arrived in Minneapolis last evening in charge of C. W. Vaughn of the National Surety company. He was met by Emmett Goff and John Larson of the municipal court staff and taken to central station. 10,292 Customers Say Best Laundry. SHOW WESTERN WONDERS

"WONDERLAND" FOR 1905 CARDS BIG LOT OF INFORMATION ATTRACTIVELY PRESENTED.

Another volume has been added to the rich "Wonderland" series issued by the Northern Pacific railroad, a literature not only attractive to the eye, but of historic value. The 1905 "Wonderland," just issued, is a collection of decorative illustrations, containing a large number of chapters and new features. By a system of inserts the book is made to contain magnificent half-tone illustrations on pages in width, the notable ones being panoramas of Duluth, of Isle Royale and of Yellowstone park. The first new feature in the book is a description of the new Minnesota state capitol, with photographs of interior and exterior, and of the first and second capitol buildings of the state. Then there is a chapter on "The Shores of Kitchigami," or Lake Superior, with illustrations of Duluth harbor and of scenery along the north shore of Lake Superior. The wonderful nature sculpture in Pyramid park, formerly the "bad lands" region of North Dakota, is illustrated in a chapter on another chapter. Olin D. Wheeler, the indefatigable editor of Wonderland, contributes a chapter of unwritten Montana history, and a chapter on the new republic of the new territory in the republican national convention of 1844, Baltimore. A thrilling frontier story is entitled "The Sepulchre of Lame Deer," one of the chiefs who took part in the Custer massacre and was pursued and killed in a fight with General Miles. He is supposed to have been laid away in a natural cave overlooking the Rosebud valley, which was sealed up since he was pointed out by the daughter of the old chief. The usual chapter on Yellowstone park is featured by splendid photographs of the general features of the park. It is called in another chapter beautiful Lake Kachess, nestling high among the crags of the Cascades. The Lewis and Clark expedition is featured in a chapter described at length. Other picturesque points along the Northern Pacific line are shown in striking half-tone illustrations. The book as a whole is a work of art, and to the notable series of this railroad's publications. It is sent to any address on receipt of 6 cents for postage.

STATE COLLECTS TAXES IN FULL

JUDGE ELLIOTT RULES ON IMPORT-ANT NEW POINT.

Omission of Delinquent Taxes from the Lists for Any Year Does Not Affect the State's Lien, and Owner Must Pay the Full Amount That Is Delinquent. If a county auditor neglects to add the amount of delinquent taxes in the delinquent lists of the succeeding year, can he add this amount to the amount due in delinquent lists of the next succeeding year? Judge G. B. Elliott, in a decision filed today, holds that he can and that the property-owner must pay. The point has never been decided in the local courts before and the decision is a most important one to the state and to taxpayers, as it affects a large amount of property and will mean the collection of large sums. George F. Dean brought suit to compel County Auditor Hugh R. Scott to issue a tax statement for lot 4, block 65, town of Minneapolis, without the delinquent taxes of the years 1894, 1895 and 1896. The property had been sold for taxes in 1896, but the sale was set aside in 1897 and the back taxes paid by the holder of the tax title had not put these refunded taxes on the lists of the succeeding year. He did put the same on the lists of the succeeding year, but the owner, George F. Dean et al, objected, claiming that the failure to put them on the succeeding year on the part of the auditor was a violation of the law. Judge Elliott made a careful study of the case and has written an able decision and memorandum. In the memorandum the court says: State's Lien Remains. The lien of the state remains notwithstanding the failure to enforce it in particular proceedings. Section 1610 certainly directs the auditor to include the refunded taxes in the delinquent lists for the following year, but it does not deprive the state of the right to the taxes. In my judgment the provision is directory, having for its object the protection of the revenue of the state, and systematic administration of the laws. Tax laws are often construed with great strictness in the foundation of the provisions in the statute where the observance or nonobservance of some statutory provision is sought to prevent the owner of the land from recovering the same. This provision was not placed in the statutes for the protection of the citizen or for the purpose of preventing the sacrifice of his property, and its disregard can in no way injuriously affect his rights. The provision was designed for the guidance and direction of public officers in the matter of proceedings for enforcing the collection of taxes justly due on the land. The taxes upon this lot for many years have been unpaid. The owners can obtain a refund of the taxes from the taxation thru the failure of the county auditor to assert the claim of the state until the statute of limitation has run. As stated by Mr. Justice Brown in relation to another case, the owner has to do is to step up and perform his duty toward the public and pay his taxes into the treasury.

COLLEGES LACK MILITARY SPIRIT

Inspection by Army Officers Fails for Want of Standard of Efficiency.

By W. W. Jermaine. Washington, May 11.—The war department is beginning to receive the reports of its officers detailed to make inspections of those colleges where army officers are acting as instructors in the military department. The reports show that there is a lack of uniformity in the method of observation and an absence of any standard by which to judge the degree of efficiency. It is possible that next year the inspection system may be so changed as to have one officer inspect all the colleges of each class from which the department will make its selection of the six "leading" colleges. The designation of any college as one of the "leading" colleges carries with it the privilege of having the honor graduate each year nominated by the president for examination for a commission as second lieutenant in the regular army. These reports show little, if any, improvement in the condition of the colleges during the past year, and in some cases there has been a decided falling off in the interest of the college authorities in the military department. In at least one case the recommendation was made that the military instructor be withdrawn, on the ground that the college had not the required number of pupils in the military department, and practically no support was given the officer detailed as instructor. The colleges in the northwestern states—Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa and Wisconsin—will be inspected the latter part of this month.

A student of procuring was filed in the case of the state vs. McCauley, for obtaining money under false pretense, and another judge will be called. On the civil calendar the case attracting the most attention is that of Hughes county vs. Claire E. Gesancon, who was suspended from the office of clerk of courts for neglect of duty and drunkenness. Rev. Bishop Morrison of Duluth, acting for Bishop Hare, last evening notified Gesancon that if she did not resign at Trinity Episcopal church, her suspension would be confirmed twenty-two days.

TOOK REFUGE IN SILENCE

MRS. GOULSTONE REFUSES TO ANSWER SOME INCRIMINATING QUESTIONS IN THE HERMAN SUIT.

Mrs. Mildred Goulstone, under a severe cross-examination today in the Goulstone-Herman alienation-of-affections suit, on trial before Judge H. D. Dickinson, several times took refuge in her constitutional right of refusing to give incriminating answers. She would not swear that she had not had lovers, referred to by Mr. Welch for the defense, as "Billy," and "Fritzie," and "Gardie," and she refused to testify that she did not keep an immoral resort on Nicollet avenue. She did deny that she smoked cigars. Her counsel tried to save her from this embarrassing cross-examination, but failed, after much legal sparring. The defendant's lawyer this morning obtained by consent of the succeeding year, can he add this amount to the amount due in delinquent lists of the next succeeding year? Judge G. B. Elliott, in a decision filed today, holds that he can and that the property-owner must pay.
