ORE MOVEMENT IS LIGHT AS YET

BOATS ARE BUNCHED AT THE LAKE ENDS.

New Shipping Docks are Not Ready and May Not be Used for Some Weeks—Walking Delegates of the Western Federation are Organizing the Miners.

Special to The Journal. Duluth, Minn., May 12.—There is some delay in the shipment of iron ore because the shipping is bunched at both ends of the lakes, and the new shipping docks at Duluth and Two Harbors, that were to have been ready by the opening of navigation, are not yet done and may not be for some weeks to come. Still some of the roads are bringing down to the lake as much ore as they can handle, amounting to from 80,000 to 40,000 tons a day. The new North-Western ore dock at Ashland, work on which has been under way all winter, is to be ready in a few weeks. It is to be one of the largest docks of the upper lakes, being in size with those enormous structures at Duluth and Superior. It will be the North-Western system far better loading facilities, and should increase the lead that road has in Gogebic business.

Efforts are being made for the development of the far western end of the Gogebic range, running from the Penokee gap to Mellen, and even further westerly. This was explored about twenty years ago, but has been neglected ever since and is not mining any ore. According to the geological experts, this part of the range is inclined to granitic and magnetic schists, and in these, neither on the Gogebic nor the Mesaba, have ore of value been found in minable quantity so far. The outcropping of the iron ore formation of the Gogebic is as plain and sure along this part as anywhere else, and there is certainly ore at surface, which many practical men think continues in depth. These western ores are siliceous, but in most cases they are found to be reasonably high in iron.

Charles Minger of Duluth has been appointed manager of the Brotherton and Sunday Lake mines in the eastern Gogebic, which have been bought by the Lackawanna Steel company, Joseph Selwood retiring. President Clarke of the Steel company has been elected president of the two mining companies. The two mines will make a larger production than for some years, probably 450,000 tons between them. Mr. Minger is manager of the mines of Pickands, Mather &

Co. on all ranges, with headquarters at Duluth. Second Largest Producers. Pickands, Mather & Co. this year will produce more than twice as much ore as they have ever gotten out in the past, and will doubtless mine 2,500,000 tons. This will make them the second largest miners in the lake region.

These ores are for their own use and rate, and for the Lackawanna Steel company, whose ore agents they are, and with whom the Steel company has a provision for ore protection. The Lackawanna Steel company of its own account does not mine any ore. The various small mines that are being opened in the eastern part of the Mesaba by Pickands, Mather & Co. are in large part held for the Lackawanna company, and their ores will not be sold on the general market except possibly in small portions.

James & Laughlin, big steel makers that are getting mines now, have just taken up the old Father Hennepin on the Wisconsin end of the Gogebic, and are to unwater the old workings, re-open the old shaft and explore for a continuation of the fine ore once mined there. They have also been exploring the old Rolling Mill mine near Negaunee for a year, and have now decided to sink a three-compartment shaft 800 feet. This will cost about $100,000, and is an indication that the drills working there have cut something better than the lean ore that has been mined from this property in the past. The Rolling Mill has been a siliceous bessemer mine that has produced a small tonnage in years when the industry was exceedingly prosperous. About 50,000 tons of this sort of stuff will be mined this year by the new owners from the surface workings. Mining has begun by the Steel corporation at its Cascade mines, where hard ore is taken out by steam shovels. These mines are surface lean bessemer mines, valuable largely for their silica, and a considerable tonnage will be produced this year.

Organizing the Miners. Agents and walking delegates of the Western Federation of Miners have been at work in the Mesaba and other districts of Lake Superior, and are organizing the miners. They have two lodges in the Mesaba, one of 250 members at Chisholm and one of fifty at Buhl, and others are now in process of formation. The agents say they will organize the district and will finally have untold all Lake Superior iron ore districts. What action the mining companies will take cannot be told, they having always been averse to these unions, and having possibly try to fight the organization. All the mines at the western Mesaba town of Chisholm and one of fifty at Buhl, and others are now in process of formation. The agents say they will organize the district and will finally have untold all Lake Superior iron ore districts. What action the mining companies will take cannot be told, they having always been averse to these unions, and having possibly try to fight the organization.

The International Harvester company is working three mines, and this year will produce about 400,000 tons, which is double the tonnage it has ever taken out. Half of this will be from Hawkins at Nashwan, about 125,000 tons; at Agnew at Hibbing and the rest at Illinois in the new Baraboo region.

SIXTH DISTRICT BANKERS Twin City Men Read Papers at Group's Meeting at Long Prairie.

LONG PRAIRIE, MINN.—The sixth district group of bankers, of which William B. Lee of this city is president, is in session here. The convention began last evening with a public reception in the village council, when F. Lane, president of the village council, gave the address of welcome, which was responded to by J. H. Haven of Big Lake. This was followed by the annual address of the president. This morning's session was largely attended, and the following papers were presented: "Bank Conventions, Their Purpose and Influence," by W. S. Harris of the National Bank of Commerce, Minneapolis; "Commerce," by Henry Keller of the Merchants' National Bank, Bank Center; "Taxation," by William Rodman of the First National Bank, Eagle Bend; "Bank Administration," by George E. Hanson of the State bank of Foley; "The Exchange Question from the Country Bankers' Point of View," by W. A. Shaw of the Bank of Clearwater; "The Exchange Question from the City Bankers' Point of View," by Otto Nelson of the First National bank, St. Paul.

The discussion on these papers was vigorous and interesting. This afternoon, the main items of interest were addresses by P. M. Kerr, superintendent of banks, St. Paul, and O. H. Havill, president of the Minnesota Bankers' association.

MUSIC TEACHERS' PROGRAM Committees Appointed for Annual Convention at Winona.

WINONA, MINN.—The local committees have been announced for the State Music Teachers' annual convention to be held in Winona, June 7, 8 and 9. The general committee is headed by Gordon Graham of the railroads have made a rate of a fare and a third. A prospectus just issued outlines the program for the convention as follows: Festival Music—Organ and vocal recitals; programs by state talent; program of works by Minnesota composers. Artists' concert, to be announced later. Educational Features—Bound tables for pianoforte, voice, organ and strings; sessions of public school music section; lecture by a celebrated lecturer, to be announced later. Social and Recreation Features—Reception and afternoon excursions. The census enumerators recommended for the city of Winona are: W. H. Tolson, James Dunne, Chester Holding, L. R. Baker, Martin Bother, A. Felber and John J. Rogalla. The government lighthouse boat Lily tied up at Winona on Thursday on its first trip of the season. Commander Caperton said that there is not a bridge on the Mississippi that complies with the regulations ordered by act of congress in the matter of placing of lights. The enforcement of these regulations has heretofore been lax, but Commander Caperton is seeing that the regulations are strictly complied with. This will necessitate the changing of the lights on all three bridges across the river at this city. The Federation of Women's clubs has arranged for another flower contest for the school children of the city. This will be open to the older pupils, and will differ from the contest a year ago in that it will be in perennial plants, and the prizes will not be awarded until the summer of 1906. The potential plants do not flower freely the first season. Six prizes will be offered for the best displays.

Comptrol Harry C. Hinson has opened an agency recruiting station in this city. Mrs. Jean Hobart of Minneapolis is the guest of the Winona Sunday School Teachers' union and this afternoon made an address concerning graded Sunday school work.
