THERE ARE REASONS WHY

we do such a large prescription business, the main reason is because we have established a confidence with both patrons and physicians. Every physician wants his prescription to have the best and most careful attention and to every patient this means much for a prescription. It must be right to secure the desired result. Our superior service and absolutely pure drugs don't cost any more than you might pay for something inferior.

Our Constant Effort

To please is shown in many ways at our fountain. Everything is scrupulously clean and our attendants are polite at all times.

CLARK BOUGHT 6 PLANTS TO BUILD

Copper King's New York Palace Supplied from His Own Manufactories.

New York Sun Special Service.
New York, May 16.—Senator William A. Clark, the Montana copper king, has established a unique record in the construction of his mansion at Fifth avenue and Seventy-seventh street. Surprise was occasioned a few days ago when he purchased the Henry Bonnard Bronze company for purpose of supplying his new residences with bronze.

Now it has been discovered that this was but one of similar moves made by the senator since ground was broken in 1898. Here is the list of the plants bought by him to defeat the plans of contractors to bleed him:
Granite quarry at North Jay, Me.
Stone finishing plant at Bangor, Me.
Marble quarry at Ravenswood, L. I.
Woodwork factory at Ravenswood, L. I.
Decorative plaster plant at Ravenswood, L. I.
Henry Bonnard bronze foundry, New York city.

Hair Made Gray by Worry.

Lord, Hewlett & Hull, architects, also have established a new hard-work record for the profession. Washington Hill, managing architect at the Clark mansion, has thick curly, brown hair when he worked began; he is now gray. Trouble for Senator Clark and his architects began when the Maine & New Hampshire Granite company gave notice of an advance in the contract price. The firm had agreed to supply white granite for the walls for $200,000. The quarry people suddenly demanded $250,000. Clark, Graves, C. A. Dibble, T. F. Bigelow, St. Paul; C. S. Wallace, E. M. La Penotiere, W. B. MacLean and J. C. Buchanan.

Bought a Quarry.

He did buy it, and then not only rejected the higher price of the New Hampshire company, but abrogated its contract because it had not lived up to it. The senator decided that no contractor should bleed him again. He decided to establish a stone-dressing plant. Then he decided that as a $100,000 worth of bronzes was to be used, the only way to successfully escape the extortion of contractors was to own a bronze foundry. The same argument held good as to the woodwork and decorative plaster, and the senator added these to his list. He bought the Henry Bonnard foundry, which made a bid for general business, while it devoted most of its energy to manufacturing supplies for the Clark mansion. It promises to be the only survivor of the plants bought by the Montana millionaire. It has many contracts and promises to make money for the senator.

Workmen Delay Purposely.

At the decorative marble, woodwork and plaster plants at Ravenswood, L. I., the men understand the situation and work or rather do not work accordingly. Slow progress is being made. Architect Hull is distracted. When asked today for a story in detail he shook his head, referring to his gray hairs and said: "They were brown when we broke ground for the Clark mansion."
It is an open secret that the new house with which the owner hopes to eclipse the Schwab palace, the Carnegie mansion, and all the other show dwellings of the city, will cost the senator nearly $10,000,000. But now for the first time the fact is revealed that the senator's extravagance masks close figuring that would do credit to the economic genius of a Russell Sage.
