DOGS DID BATTLE IN THE SAWDUST ARENA

Cut off from most of their favorite forms of amusement, a crowd of sports, filled with the determination to break some of the rules of conduct mapped out by law and edict, pulled off a good, old-fashioned dog fight Sunday morning while most honest folks were sound asleep.

The principals were a local dog and a stranger who had not been in the city long. Both were game and put up what has since been described as a "bully" fight. The local dog appeared to be gradually winning, although the fight was evened up when the stranger dog was settled between the owners of the dogs as it was feared that unpleasant notoriety might follow should the fight be carried to a finish.

OWNS TO KILL CHARLES DOLMAN

STORY TOLD BY THE CLARK WOMAN IS CORROBORATED.

Miller, Whose Knife Pierced Dolman's Heart, Returns to Fargo and Surrenders—Declares that Dolman Pursued and Struck Him with a Club—Sequel to Night of Debauchery.

Special to The Journal.
Fargo, N. D., May 19.—Late yesterday afternoon Nick Miller, who was considered himself to the police and acknowledged stabbing Charles Dolman to death. After the crime Miller went to Moorhead and later to Glynndon, ten miles east. By that time the excitement of the crime had passed away and he decided to return.
Miller's story largely corroborates that of Carrie Clark, the woman who had spent the night in the hotel room with Dolman. Miller says that Dolman struck at him. Miller ran and was pursued by Dolman, who struck Miller again, breaking the club. Then Miller stabbed Dolman thru the heart. He returned to the Clark woman's room, told her what he had done and fled.
Miller was arrested here last winter on a burglary charge. His claim of self-defense in the murder case seems corroborated to a large degree.

Not Permitted to Plead Guilty.
Harry Shipley, the mail-route clerk, was one of the seven men first indicted by the United States grand jury, and when indicted indicated his intention to enter a plea of guilty. On account of the seriousness of the case, Judge Amundson refused to accept a plea and appointed an attorney with whom Shipley could confer. Shipley was arrested on the charge of riding registered packages between Linton and Moorhead, and confessed when the detectives caused his arrest. He is under 21.
Charles Gunderson was arraigned on the charge of selling liquor at La Moure and Linton without a government license. He pleaded not guilty and demanded a trial.
Olaf Halvorson settled his $10,000 damage suit against the Fargo Plumbing & Heating company out of court. The case was to have been heard in United States court today. Halvorson was employed in making some connections for the company when the accident occurred and he alleged he was internally injured.
A telegram from Hunter announces the drowning of Charles Fisk, a 12-year-old boy, who had gone boating with two companions when he fell into a pool of water about fifteen feet deep. The boy's mother is in the east attending the funeral of a relative.

BAN PLACED ON WHISKERS
Iowa Board of Health Will Request Physicians to Shave Clean.
DES MOINES, IOWA.—The Iowa board of health is about to request all physicians in the state to have their faces clean. Dr. J. H. Kennedy, secretary of the state board, mentions the proposal in a circular letter to the physicians and intimates that a state law may be expected soon which will make it compulsory for every physician to have his whiskers clean.
Dr. Kennedy is discussing the subject says: "Whiskers may be ornamental but they should not be worn by doctors. They carry disease germs."
The state society of practicing physicians in session in Des Moines is aroused by the proposition. A resolution declaring against the whisker cropping law was defeated. The doctors admitted when called upon to discuss the subject that whiskers ought not to be worn by physicians.

CATHOLICS OF NEW ULM BUILD 'WAY OF THE CROSS'

Pilgrimage for the Devoted Winds Its Way Up a Picturesque Bluff to a Grotto and Chapel—Stations Along the Way Marked by Images.

"WAY OF THE CROSS" AT NEW ULM.

Special to The Journal.
New Ulm, Minn., May 19.—New Ulm has the distinction of having the only "Way of the Cross" on the continent. This was constructed last year by the Catholics, and the finishing touches are being given to it this spring.

The "Way of the Cross" under which appellation it has become familiar to the people of this city, begins back of St. Alexander hospital and winds its way gently up the bluff into what is known as the "Grotto," a natural cleft in the rocks on the side of the hill, and from there leads to the top of the bluff, terminating upon the crest of a knoll upon which is a chapel, open at all times to pilgrims constant in their religious obligations.

This Way of the Cross is the same as seen in all Roman Catholic churches representing the seventeen different stations given in the account of the suffering and death of the Savior, illustrating the passage from the court of Pilate to the tomb of Joseph.

Each station is marked by plaster of paris figures, before which the pilgrim pauses on his journey and voices his prayers, until having reached the chapel, he kneels before the cross and seeks forgiveness in continuous supplication.

This feature of the Catholic worship in this city has attracted much attention and people from distant parts of the state have made pilgrimages to it, believing that in traversing the said route they may become freed from ailments of the body or distress of the mind.

So noted has "Way of the Cross" become that many priests of the faith have visited New Ulm and made the pilgrimage to the chapel, carrying away with them the idea and hope that they would be able to establish such a feature in connection with their own parishes.

At Newmarket, Minn., Rev. A. Bergbold has let the contract to A. Puhmann of this city for another "Way of the Cross," and the work is under way. There is a picturesque spot in the possession of the church at Newmarket, where the different stations are to be erected, and the pathway will wind about several small hills, terminating, as here, at the crest of the loftiest hill overlooking the city, upon which there is to be built a chapel.

Along the way on either side flowers and shrubbery will be planted and trees will be so arranged as to make the place as secluded as possible. The emblem of the cross will be always the most conspicuous object in the view of the visitor. It is expected that this is the first of many to be built in the near future, the one at Newmarket being the second one in America.

In Germany there are many of these pilgrimages, and to the devout they are as sacred as the shrine at the church. To the old they are an inspiration and there is not a day passes when, toiling up the slope of the hill, may not be seen one or more feeble men or women, staff in hand, pausing to mutter their prayers as they journey to the top in the evening of their lives.

BEGGARS' PLEAS FACTORY MADE
PROFESSIONALS MAKE STOCK APPEALS TO SYMPATHY.
Associated Charities Working to Eliminate Such Appeals to Charity—Some Found to Be Pure Fakes—Cards and Instructions Bought from Beggars' Supply House in New York.

Business men are co-operating with the Associated Charities by reporting professional beggars. In the past two days several cases have been reported, and cards have been sent in that have been presented by the beggars.
One of the cases was that of a deaf mute, who was able to hear and speak when necessity demanded. His card read:

Not being able to hear, and not having the power of speech, I am dependent upon that charity which those give who desire to cover a multitude of sins.
Another effort was:
The Lord loves a cheerful giver, So does Tommy Hogan. Presenting with his compliments. Please give.
A third goes to Tennessee for his authority:

An extract from a speech made by ex-Governor Bob Taylor of Tennessee:
To extend a helping hand to a poor, helpless cripple in distress, we are sure to be blessed, for the hands that help are better than the lips that pray.
Anything will be thankfully received. Respectfully, W. F. Drew.

PLEASE HELP A CRIPPLE.
I was once happy the same as you, But now I am a cripple with nothing to do.
I'm compelled to ask strangers some assistance to give, So please give me something—live and let live.
I'll pray God to reward you, my friend, who was able to hear and speak when necessity demanded. Please give.
Live And Let Live—Do the Best You Can.

This particular beggar has been operating in the city off and on since 1899. Business men have repeatedly sent him to the Associated Charities, but he has never been allowed any help from that direction or from any charitable organizations in the city.
The cards are furnished by a beggars' supply store in New York. A beggar sends his qualifications and the cards are sold, together with a set of instructions how to make the most of his ailments.

The raid occurred while the street was lighted brilliantly and while scores of persons were passing.
