CHILD MURDERESS
EVEN NOW INSANE

STRONG TESTIMONY FROM EXPERTS AT WHEATON.

Dr. Fleming Declares the Girl Defendant Will Be Totally Demented in Five Years, Perhaps Less—Lawyers Fight Hard at Crucial Stage of Trial.

JUDGE S. A. FLAHERTY,
Who Is Presiding Over the Sensational Murder Trial.

Special to The Journal.
Wheaton, Minn., July 1.—Dr. Fleming of Wheaton, who has studied nervous and brain diseases in city hospitals and elsewhere, was summoned as an expert witness in behalf of Antoinette Seidensticker, the alleged murderer of her former lover, Herman Shipp.

Pointing directly in the defendant's face as she sat across from him at the table, Judge Steidl asked the expert witness if, in his opinion, the child was now insane. There was a pause and the girl leaned forward with a startled look while the color left her cheeks.

Dr. Fleming moved in his chair so as to face the jury and in a restrained voice said it was his opinion that the child was today suffering from mild insanity.

"How long will it be, doctor, before this defendant is totally demented?" he was asked.

"That depends upon her surroundings—five years, perhaps less. She will be demented. That is the end, unless she dies."

The state's attorneys, Steidl, Houston and Rustad, conducted a brilliant cross-examination of the experts on insanity, Drs. Fleming and Sweeney from St. Paul, this being the point on which the case hangs and on which the life of the child defendant depends.

It was brought out that the adolescent insanity, which the defense contends the child has been suffering from, was brought on in its acute form by sudden shocks, then from nervous strains and from surgical operations; that it was marked by hallucinations and that while the person suffering from an acute attack might be insane on one point, other matters might be clear and distinct.

The experts declared that the fact she thought herself pregnant, a consumptive, dishonored and forsaken enough to send any woman insane, much less a child, and was greater in its influence upon her than the tragedy enacted under stress of excitement; that there had been no great shock to the child from the shooting, that she was not capable of distinguishing between right and wrong and that her senses had been benumbed, and that the commission of the act was if anything one of the causes that had contributed to her partial recovery, as that day one of the hallucinations that had shown beyond a doubt she was insane was the idea that she had to shoot Shipp, and was justified in doing it, and that they were going to be buried in the same coffin and grave together.
