

PEACE ENVOYS CAN END THE WAR

Both Czar and Mikado Name Their Representatives, Clothed with Full Power.

Oyster Bay, July 3.—Official announcement was made by President Roosevelt today of the names of the Russian and Japanese envoys to the Washington conference. The character and ability of the men selected by both belligerents is an earnest of the desire of their governments to conclude, if possible, the war in the far east.

The Envoys.
The plenipotentiaries are: Russian—Ambassador Muraviev, formerly minister of justice, and now ambassador to Italy, and Baron Rosen, recently appointed as ambassador to the United States to succeed Count Cassini. Japanese—Baron Komura, minister of foreign affairs, and Kogoro Takahira, minister to the United States.

By direction of the president, Secretary Loeb made the formal announcement in the following statement:

Have Full Power.
"The president announces that the Russian and Japanese governments have notified him that they have appointed the plenipotentiaries to meet at Washington as soon after the first of August as possible.

"The two Russian plenipotentiaries are Ambassador Muraviev, formerly minister of justice, and now ambassador to Rome, and Ambassador Rosen. The Japanese plenipotentiaries are Baron Komura, now minister of foreign affairs, and Minister Takahira.

"It is possible that each side may send one or more additional representatives.

Demands Full Power.
"The plenipotentiaries of both Russia and Japan will be clothed with full power to negotiate and conclude a treaty of peace, subject, of course, to ratification by their respective home governments.

Some delay was occasioned in the selection of the plenipotentiaries by the insistence of Japan that the envoys of both governments be clothed with full power to negotiate and conclude a permanent treaty.

The Japanese government indicated pointedly that the emperor would not permit his envoys to enter upon a tentative conference, unless Japan was to define its terms and let Russia decide whether the conference should proceed with their deliberations.

The Tokyo government insisted that the plenipotentiaries should have conferred on them treaty-making powers, and that the negotiations should be entered upon in a spirit of perfect sincerity.

Backed by President.
Such, too, was the positions taken by President Roosevelt. He maintained that only by clothing the envoys with ample authority could a lasting peace be achieved. He strongly urged the St. Petersburg government to accede to what was regarded as a reasonable proposition.

Successful in his presentation of the matter to the Russian emperor is indicated clearly by the statement which he issued today.

Baron Rosen is already en route to succeed Count Cassini as the Russian ambassador to this country. It is probable that Ambassador Muraviev will start soon for the United States, accompanied by a considerable staff of secretaries, clerks and interpreters.

The Japanese contingent of officials and attaches, headed by Baron Komura, is expected will leave Japan in a time to reach Washington by Aug. 1.

Muraviev's Record.
Muraviev has been in the service of his country for more than thirty years. His first important office was that of president of the criminal session of the senate, which is the highest court in Russia. His next position was that of death of Manassess, he was appointed minister of justice and started the judicial reforms for which he afterwards became famous. His first diplomatic mission of consequence was arbitrator at the Hague conference of the cases between Venezuela and several European powers.

He was afterward made president of the Venezuela tribunal.

Baron Rosen Experienced.
Baron Rosen comes from a very old Russian family of Swedish origin. His ancestors were in the service of the czar plus 300 years ago and settled in Lithuania, where the family estates are located. The Rosens have distinguished themselves as soldiers, diplomats and writers. Baron Rosen is about 54 years old and for twenty-five years has been in the foreign service of his country.

From 1893 to the beginning of the war with Japan he was minister at Tokio. He is a member of the Metropolitan club at Washington. His wife was charge d'affaires at the States-Cleveland's first administration.

Komura as a Diplomat.
Baron Jutaro Komura, Japan's present foreign minister, was educated in this country and was formerly minister at Washington, being succeeded by Takahira. From Washington Komura was sent to St. Petersburg, where during the war between Japan and China Komura held a high place in Japan's foreign ministry. At the close of the war with China he became Japanese minister at Peking. In 1902 he became foreign minister of Japan and displayed great adroitness and ability in gaining time for Japan in which to prepare for the

IN COLONEL'S TOWN Things Happen.
From the home of the famous "Keyhole Keyartah of Cartersville," away down South, comes an enthusiastic letter about Postum.

"I was in very delicate health, suffering from indigestion and a nervous trouble so severe that I could hardly sleep. The doctor ordered me to discontinue the use of the old kind of coffee, which was like poison to me, producing such extreme disturbance that I could not control myself. But such was my love for it that I could not get my own coffee to give it up for some time, and continued to suffer, till my father one day brought home a package of Postum Food Coffee.

"I had the new drink carefully prepared according to directions, and gave it a fair trial. It proved to have a rich flavor and made a healthy, wholesome and delightful drink. The taste of the addition of cream greatly improves it.

"My health began to improve as soon as the drug effect of the old coffee was removed and the Postum Coffee had time to make its influence felt. My nervous troubles were speedily relieved and the sleep which the old coffee drove from my pillow always came to me when I drank Postum. After I had drunk Postum in a very short time I began to sleep better than I had for years before. I have now used Postum Coffee for several years and like it better and find it more beneficial than when I first began. It is an unspeakable joy to be relieved of the old distress and sickness." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

conflict between his country and Russia, which for two years appeared inevitable. Mr. Komura is about 55 years old and was one of the first Japanese to be sent to the United States to be educated as soon after the war from Harvard and holds a degree from that university.

Takahira Well Schooled.
M. Takahira, the associate of Baron Komura, is 52 years old and was educated at the imperial college at Tokio. He speaks English, French and Russian fluently. Upon graduating he entered the foreign service of his country and in 1879 was appointed attaché at the legation in Washington. He was raised to be secretary and served some months as charge d'affaires. In 1883 he became secretary in a foreign ministry at Tokio. Subsequently he became charge d'affaires at Seoul, Korea, and consul general at Shanghai. In 1890 he was made chief of the political bureau of the foreign ministry at Tokio, and a year later was sent as consul-general to New York.

After that he became minister resident at The Hague, to Italy and Austria-Hungary. During the Chinese Japanese war he rendered valuable service to his country, for which he was made assistant minister of foreign affairs which office he held until sent as minister to this country.

SWEDEN CLOSES PORTS Foreign Warships Are Barred from Four Harbors.

New York Sun Special Service.—Stockholm, Sweden, July 3.—The Swedish government has issued a proclamation, to become effective immediately, declaring the harbors of Stockholm, Karlskrona, Gothenburg and Farsund to be war ports and excluding all foreign warships from them.

This is the first significant step taken by the Swedish kingdom in retaliation for Norway's move for disunion. The closing of four of the most important ports of the kingdom has caused intense excitement through Sweden and Norway, as it is believed to be the first move in the policy decided on by the government to take more aggressive steps which, if continued, must result in war between Sweden and Norway.

First Open Show of Arms.
The spirit of hostility between the two countries, linked together for more than twenty years, has been spreading throughout both since Norway proclaimed separation June 7, but there has as yet been no open show of arms by either party. It is believed that the Swedish department sent several of its coast defense ships along the Norwegian coast.

The Swedish government's policy indicating a readiness to meet force is sanctioned by the war party which dominates the policy of the throne; but on the other hand there seems to be a general belief that there will not be an open hostility, and that the present apparent warlike preparations of the Swedish government are solely intended to enforce conditions under which an independent Norwegian government will ultimately be recognized.

There has been no movement by either country to increase its land or naval forces.

Military Strength.
The Swedish army on a peace footing numbers 37,200 men, which may be increased at the option of the throne. The Swedish navy consists of thirteen cruisers, several coast defense gunboats and one submarine.

The Norwegian army, made up of local militia organizations for defense purposes, numbers 30,000 men. Its independent navy, heretofore employed exclusively in coast defense work, includes four ironclads, four monitors, twenty gunboats and several torpedo boats. Such of these vessels as are now in commission are engaged in coast patrol duty, there has been no movement by either marine or the army establishment to increase its force or to equip it for more vigorous service.

What Norway is Doing.
The council of defense in Norway does not fear war, but has put its land forces quietly in condition for active service. It has provided a new national flag and made other changes in laws to cover new conditions.

The establishing of an independent government, generally endorsed by all Norwegians. The provisional government has applied itself more directly to securing recognition from other countries than to preparing for trouble with Sweden.

WHEATON TRIAL IN FINAL STAGE

Acquittal or Disagreement Looked for in the Case of Alleged Child Murderer.

Special to The Journal.
Wheaton, Minn., July 3.—The attorneys are summing up their arguments in the trial of Miss Seidensticker, the girl of 13, who admitted that she shot to death Herman Shipp, who disgraced and forsook her.

It is the consensus that the defense has given the state a hard fight and acquittal on the ground of insanity is confidently expected by large numbers. Others look for a disagreement and very few, it seems, believe the verdict will be guilty of first-degree murder.

Closing Bits of Evidence.
The closing hours of the Seidensticker child-murder case were taken up principally with the testimony of the state's experts. Dr. Fleming, who was first on the stand, was a telling witness for the defense. He had attended the mother of the child and he gave it as his opinion that she was mentally unbalanced, and that she was insane on the day of the homicide, and for several days before and since.

The next expert called was Dr. Ames of this city, a nephew of former Mayor Ames, of Minneapolis. He testified that at the time the bullets were removed from the child's body. He had examined the girl carefully at that time, and on several occasions since, and he believed that she was insane on the day of the homicide, and for several days before and since.

Healy Hard Pressed.
The state called Dr. J. A. Healy, of Wheaton, in rebuttal. The cross-examination was conducted by Mr. Murphy, who tangled the witness badly and made him admit he had said the girl was insane.

"State under what circumstances you came to make these statements," was the first question put to Dr. Healy. He said that he first developed blood poison and die. I wanted to make it as easy for her as possible and I did say I met asked me if she was crazy, and I said she was to get rid of it, it was because they had no business to ask."

"You made these statements simply to save the stain upon the girl, because you thought she might die?" "That was my object."

"Do you recall one day when I was walking down the street with my wife, and you came across the street hurriedly to tell me that this girl would develop a case of acute mania within two hours?" "No."

"You didn't tell me that?" "No, sir, I did not."

Perhaps the most important witness for the state outside of those detailing the crime was Dr. W. J. Jones, the insanity expert from Minneapolis. Dr. Jones answered many hypothetical questions, and his testimony was extremely interesting. He concluded that the girl defendant was sane.

A torpedo-boat destroyer and a gunboat arrived here during the night, bringing Rear Admiral Choukinn, commander of the Black sea fleet. The torpedo-boat destroyer upon her arrival here fired a blank shot across the bow of the British steamer Cranley, which was lying off Potemkin for the purpose of taking off subjects if necessary. The destroyer signaled the Cranley to accompany her inside the harbor. The Cranley complied and was held in the meanwhile keeping her guns trained on the steamer.

Later Russian officials took possession of the Cranley and searched her for revolutionary refugees. The British consul general protested to the governor, saying there was no reason to suppose that any of the crew were revolutionaries. It is presumed she will shortly be released.

Estimates of the number killed during the fire and rioting on last week run as high as 8,000. Far greater numbers were shot down but many of the bodies were incinerated.

The military commandant today appointed the Black sea fleet commander of the Lubna dragons, to the post of governor general of Odessa. Kazakoff, later summoned the editors of the Odessa newspapers and blamed them for their conduct during the troubles. He said that if they published anything contrary to the aims of the government, they would be arrested.

The governor general ordered the editors not to make the slightest reference to the present outbreak nor to the strike.

OPEN AIR SERMON

Methodist Pastor Addresses Audience on Church Lawn.

Rev. Fayette L. Thompson of the Hennepin Avenue M. E. church has preached in the open air on the lawn in front of the church for the first time. He preached in one as big as "all outdoors," for the church was canopied by the blue sky and was bounded by the limits of the carrying power of his voice.

The service began at 7 o'clock and lasted until the beginning of the regular evening service at 8 o'clock. An organ and a cornet and the singing of the congregation furnished the music. The sermon was only twenty minutes long and followed the regular subject of "Christ's Words Out of Doors."

"I was very much pleased with the success of the new endeavor," said Dr. Thompson today, "and the subject was particularly well suited, as it is broad and deep. Chairs were arranged in front of the steps and there were many people standing up. What was noteworthy was that several automobiles were lined up along the street. Of course the streetcars rather interfered, but it was easy to wait until the noise was over."

"The idea of holding out-of-door services is becoming popular in the east, especially in New York and New Jersey. Three large churches unite to hold three large united meetings, one at the custom house, one at the stock exchange and one at the Mount Washington. Tickets of the Sundays during my vacation, the services," will be held every Sunday evening.

The Mystery Solved.

THE REASON FOR THE RUIN OF MUCH COMPLICATED MACHINERY.

Man has often been compared to a complicated piece of mechanism. He is a wonderful piece of machinery, more wonderful than anything he has ever been able to create, and he has created some remarkable things. And yet man, the machine, is different from any other machine, the liver and kidneys are put together and the engine must keep his engine clean and its parts well oiled. So it is with that human engine and boiler. It too must be kept free from the accumulation of waste matter and must be cleaned and oiled in all its parts or else there will be a rupture of some of the delicate adjustments.

If assimilation be not good then the fires do not burn freely, there are ashes and clinkers in the system. In which case the effort to do the work required of the human engine, the heart overworks, the liver and kidneys are put under great strain, the bowels become clogged. Alcoholic drinks and medicines are harmful because they act on the food to render it less digestible. It is easily proved, for a piece of beef soaked in alcohol a few hours becomes hard and tough. Put a medicine by adding it to the clear white of an egg. If it instantly coagulates the proof that it is an alcoholic compound is shown and is transformed into hard albumen and drops to the bottom. The result of taking an alcoholic tonic is that animal food in contact with it remains undigested. The person is then filling his piece of human machinery with waste matter. He clogs the blood and the nerves, and the heart and the kidneys, and the liver and the bowels. He then wonders why the old machine does not work well. He wonders why there is a wearing of parts, why all these parts of his mechanism grind and groan and rub, and why he cannot get all the labor out of them that he expects.

No Mystery Here. Long ago while in the active practice of medicine among the leading families of Western Pennsylvania, Dr. R. V. Pierce came to the conclusion that tonics and blood purifiers that depended to a certain extent on the exhilarating effect of alcohol had an after depressing effect little to be desired—he also found that there were wonderful tissue-building and reconstructive virtues to be found in the shape of certain roots and native medicinal plants—some of them have been known and recognized for centuries by the early American Indians. They were: Golden Seal (Hydrastis Canadensis), Queen's root (Stillingia Sylvania), Stone root (Collinsonia Canadensis), Cherry bark (Prunus Virginiana), Bloodroot (Sanguinaria Canadensis), Mandrake (Podophyllum Peltatum).

By careful study and experiment Dr. Pierce learned how best to extract the medicinal virtues from these plants in just the right proportion to make a life-giving tonic and blood-maker. King's Dispensary which is an acknowledged authority on the scientific value of medicinal plants says of Queen's root: "An alterative unsurpassed by any other of the known alteratives, most successful in skin and scrofulous affections. Beneficial in bronchial affections—permanently cures bronchitis—an important remedy—cures coughs of every standing. Aids in blood-making and nutrition." The same author says of Wild-cherry-bark: "This has a tonic and stimulating influence on the digestive apparatus—gives tone and strength to the system. Useful in fever, cough and all forms of excellent in consumption. Stone root, he says is an alterative and tonic stimulant, valuable in laryngitis. In speaking of Bloodroot he says it stimulates digestive organs as well as does Golden Seal, which cures dyspepsia.
