FIGHT IRRIGATION

New Settlers, Ignorant of Benefits, Prove Obstacles.

The authorities are having a hard time getting the right of way for the irrigation system being introduced in the country around Bismarck, Buford and Trenton, N. D. So says Alex McKenzie of Bismarck, who was in the city today.

"The people who have settled in the country to be irrigated," he says, "have come from places where irrigation was unnecessary, and it is, consequently, taking time to educate them to the need of it in their present location. Three-fourths of the owners of the proposed right of way have given their land, but the others are still holding out. It is planned to take the reluctant ones a trip west to see how the beneficial results of irrigation in various parts of Montana."

BIG RESERVOIRS OF THE RED RIVER ALREADY FILLED.

If July is as Wet as June, These Will Overflow and the Floods Will Do Immense Damage—Thus Far the Situation Is Not Alarming—River Work Stopped.

If the rainfall of July is as great as that in June, the upper Mississippi will see floods which will make the present swollen condition of the river look like a mere trickle. The damage will be the inevitable result.

Through June the great storage reservoirs in the northern part of the state have, for all practical purposes, remained closed. As a result, these reservoirs have caught the great flood of the upper Mississippi valley, and the present high condition of the river is due simply to the water which has drained in below the great dams. If July, however, gets the same downpours that June did, the reservoirs will be unable to hold the floodwaters, which will rush down the stream in an unrestrained deluge.

Last Wednesday the great Winnibishish reservoir reached its storage limit, 42,000,000 cubic feet. So far, it has been partially open, but releasing only an amount of water that has been caught by dams below before getting to the main reservoir. The reservoir is now closed and full. Its capacity is 7,000,000 cubic feet. Leech lake reservoir is not yet up to its limit, 22,000,000 cubic feet, but is rapidly rising and has already reached a point where it holds 18,000,000 cubic feet. Water is being released only for the necessary sluicing of logs.

The Pine River reservoir has reached its limit, 3,000,000 cubic feet. As a rule, the water on the upper side of the Sandy lake dam is 8 to 11 feet higher than that of the river below. But at present, because of the swollen condition of the stream, the water on the upper side of the dam is but two or three-tenths of a foot higher.

At present the Pine River reservoir dam is being built, so instead of its holding back 8,000,000 cubic feet of water—its capacity—it now retains only 2,500,000 cubic feet.

But One Complaint as Yet.

There is vastly more in the big reservoirs now than is usual at this time of year. The water is rising rapidly, and there is no sufficient water in storage to permit the government to guarantee good navigable stage of water in the Mississippi through the remainder of the season.

Altho the Mississippi is very high, the government chief engineer at St. Paul has received but one complaint. That is from the Neil Lumber company of Cass Lake. This company built a sawmill on land on which the government had previously purchased overflow rights. The mill was built too low, and consequently its operation is now much hampered.

The federal engineers in charge of the river work above St. Paul expect the water to rise to fall immediately, unless the heavy rains continue. If the latter, then what will happen is problematical. The high water is putting all river work, both in the division above and below St. Paul, at a standstill. In the district above St. Paul plans called for the expenditure of $150,000 this season, mostly in the building of locks. The probabilities are that the stage of water will prevent the completion of one or more of the locks this year.

Below St. Paul, as far down as La Crosse, numerous levees have been built, and much channel dredging accomplished, the amount allowed for this being $250,000; yet but little of the schedule can be carried out. The present high water has yet done no injury to any of the government river work heretofore accomplished. The present delay is naturally very annoying to the farmers who have working plans all completed for immediate execution.

PULPIT TRIBUTES TO HAY

MINNEAPOLIS PASTORS HONOR THE LIFE AND CHARACTER OF THE DECEASED SECRETARY.

That the present time is a wonderful epoch in the history of America was the message of Rev. Marion D. Shutter of the Church of the Redeemer yesterday. The services were a memorial for Secretary Hay, and the minister declared that there has been no greater period than the administrations of McKinley and Roosevelt. In speaking of Secretary Hay, Rev. Mr. Shutter said:

"It is fitting that we pause upon the threshold of our annual celebration to lay a word of tribute upon the tomb of him who, in the days of the Spanish war, held the confidence of the English government that no European coalition against us was possible; who, when the trouble arose in China, released the imprisoned missionaries, prevented the dismemberment of the old empire, and secured an open door for American trade; who brought about the abrogation of a treaty which hindered the digging of a canal from ocean to ocean, and wrote a new one which has already started the work."

Rev. Theo. Heysham, pastor of Central Baptist church, also paid a tribute to the late secretary of state in his morning sermon. The dead statesman and patriot, John Hay, he said, "saw neither Jew nor Greek, barbarian or Scythian, bond or free, for the nation he loved had been blessed for justice to the Chinaman; to Russia he presented the claims of the Jews. John Hay has passed to his reward with the mark of an American patriot upon him. His memory shall be precious to us, as the Scripture saveth, 'the memory of the just is blessed.'"

WADED TOO FAR

Young Man, Unable to Swim, Drowns While Bathing.

Charles Newman, 18 years old, living at 141 Pleasant avenue, St. Paul, was drowned yesterday while swimming in McCarron's lake, a few miles north of St. Paul.

Newman was with several of his friends, and altho he could not swim, he waded out over his depth and began to sink. He went down before his friends could reach him. The body was recovered later and taken to the morgue. Newman narrowly escaped drowning a week ago, when he was swimming in Bass lake.

Money deposited in The Farmers & Mechanics Savings Bank on July 1, 3 and 5 will draw interest from July 1.

NO NEW TRIAL FOR WILLIAMS.

William Williams, charged with the murder of John Keller, was hanged for a second time by Judge C. E. Lewis of the Ramsey county district court. The motion was based upon affidavits of two jurors, who stated that certain newspaper articles had shown members of the jury who were influenced by the defendant's friends. Other affidavits tended to prove that Williams was insane. An appeal to the supreme court will be taken.

SUPERFLUOUS WET GIVES CONCERN

GRAIN MEN SPEND HOLIDAY READING WEATHER REPORT.

Fall Was Heavy in Southwestern Part of the State, and Rain Area Has Extended to the Red River Valley—Most Points Report Grain Backward.

Altho there was no session today at the Chamber of Commerce, groups of grain men gathered in the corridors of the building and discussed the crop situation, which, over Sunday, turned into a more intricate and more bitter war done in wheat on the curb, and September wheat, having closed on Saturday at 93 3/4 cents, was 96 cents bid, with the seller's elevator men who had calculated upon a holiday today came down to their offices instead to scan the weather maps and see what they could make out of the country reports. Many mail advices and a number of telegraphic reports were in, and nearly all were pessimistic in tone.

The storm moved from the south, north by northwest. Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa and Nebraska had rain, and at Kansas City the downpour amounted to almost 3 inches. Further north the rain was raised everywhere. In Minnesota the heaviest precipitation was at New Ulm, 1.75 inches, St. Cloud getting 1.05, and 8 o'clock the Minneapolis report showed only .50, but almost as much fell after that hour. Worthington had 1.44; Mitchell, S. D., 1.30; Bismarck, 1.44; Rapid City, 1.38; Pierre, 2.95; and Huron 1.28.

Valley Catches It.

To daybreak there had been little rain at the Red River valley, but at 9 a.m. rain began falling at Fergus Falls, and by 6 o'clock the country north and west of Hillsboro was getting general rain. At 8:30 a.m. the reports were starting in. To 10 o'clock Grand Forks had received no rain, but the reports were of cloudy skies and threatening weather. At 10 o'clock the barometer at Minneapolis was 29.5, indicating continued rain.

The Minnesota forecast is for showery and possibly Tuesday, and for North Dakota cloudy and cooler tonight, with showers in the east, and fair and warmer Wednesday. The report starting in today, some to the Red River valley, others along the lines in southern Minnesota, where the rain was heavy. It is a fact that we are not as strong on sanitation as you are, and do use tubs of water to bathe in. A Chinaman can get along with a pint of water in a clean blouse every day. It is not surprising that we are a nation of washermen. It comes to us naturally."

SOO TRAIN WRECKED

Freight Cars Loaded with Grain Are Demolished.

A Soo freight train, east-bound, was wrecked at Almena, eighty miles east of Minneapolis, at 1 p.m. Sunday. Eight cars loaded with grain were partially demolished and the engine was considerably damaged. No one was injured, and the cause has not been ascertained. The accident may have been caused by a broken rail, tho this is not certain. The engine, No. 600, was the largest in the northwest, weighing 325,000 pounds. It was built as an experiment some time since, and those of lighter construction are now preferred.

CHINAMEN ARE NOT EXTRAVAGANT WITH H2O.

Quong Lee, a Commercial Traveler Who Dresses Like a Potentate and Stops at the West, Says It Is No Wonder His Is a Race of Washerwomen.

Quong Lee is the most elaborately dressed commercial traveler covering this territory. He sells Chinese supplies of the pickled and preserved sort to his countrymen between New York and San Francisco, while his latter city is his headquarters. He is a Chinaman who lives in quarters in this country. Quong's clothes are of yellow and purple silk, cut very loose and he looks like an emperor. At the West hotel, where he yesterday thus gaudily caparisoned commercial was the cynosure of all eyes.

"I've become used to attracting a lot of attention," said Quong to The Journal. "but let me tell you," he added humorously, "that the sensation my clothes created in Minneapolis or Chicago, is nothing to the furore they would excite if I didn't show up in Parkington with them. As a matter of fact I should not last long enough to make much progress. My head would be degenerating the end of a pole in very quick time, because this is the second rank, and for a commoner to wear such a garb in the Chinese capital would constitute a case of lese majeste horrible to contemplate.

"While I am a full-blooded Chinaman, I don't wish to be as good an American as anybody. I was born in San Francisco since I was 6 years old, and for eight years was employed as a government interpreter. Being pretty well versed in American ways, and still unable to comprehend some of the peculiarities of American thought, or to comprehend the uncomplimentary American attitude toward the Chinaman, the average American regards the Chinaman as unclean and careless in his personal habits. There could be no greater fallacy. I don't suppose there is a more scrupulously cleanly race of people in the world.

"You never saw a Chinaman with dirty fingernails. I see scores of Americans every day who need manicuring badly. Now the average Chinaman's body is just as clean as his fingernails. It is a fact that we are not as strong on sanitation as you are, and do use tubs of water to bathe in. A Chinaman can get along with a pint of water in a clean blouse every day. It is not surprising that we are a nation of washermen. It comes to us naturally."
