

MALTOSE AND HEALTH.

Physicians Say Its Use in the Human System Is of Great Value.

The great value of Maltose as a nutritive substance cannot be exaggerated. In the living organism it is transformed into assimilable sugar more rapidly than saccharose or cane sugar.

"Maltose" is no meaningless coined word; it stands for its literal translation from the Latin and means exactly what it says—"Malt Life."

The original phrase "For the blood is the life" is the starting point and the winning post of Maltose, which contains a considerable percentage of Maltose, a natural sweetening agent, easily digestible and readily assimilated by the human economy, forming rich, healthy blood.

Now for many years the medical profession have, in the most scientific manner, prepared a large percentage of "Maltose," but which cost from fifty cents to seventy-five cents per pound. "Maltose" contains from eight to ten percent of this wonderful blood-maker and costs but ten cents per package.

The malt extracts are also valuable on account of their containing the great digestive ferment—"Diastase."

In the manufacture of Maltose a malt extract is used, one that has been prepared in all its original purity in our own factory, which has a diastase equivalent of over seventy degrees by the Lintner method of analysis.

This diastase acts upon the wheat and converts part of the already gelatinized starch into "Maltose"—the blood-making and, therefore, life-giving Malt Sugar. Maltose is now 10 cents per package, the same big package you used to buy for 15 cents.

"God made her small in order to do a most choice bit of workmanship."—De Musset.

A notable wedding of July was that of Miss Alice Thaxter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. J. Thaxter, and Byron K. Cowles, Jr., which was celebrated last evening at 8:30 in Fremont avenue Congregational church by Rev. Charles A. Hilton.

Miss Lillian Marsolain presided at the organ, playing during the gathering of the guests. The strains of the Lohengrin chorus announced the entrance of the bride party and the Mendelssohn march was used as the recessional.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her away. Her gown was of white French lawn over silk, trimmed with French embroidery and valenciennes lace. She wore a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, 2949 Fremont avenue N. The house decorations were black-eyed Susans, fern and garden flowers.

HOW TO JUDGE A LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY
STATEMENT NO. 1
A correctly organized and properly managed life-insurance company will be marked by four essential features:
FIRST—The legal reserve old line basis. There should be no element of assessment, or the "preliminary term" variation from the old line system, or any other device for avoiding liability and increasing expenses.
SECOND—Absolute mutuality with proper limitations on the use of proxies. The assets should be owned by the policy holders, not by stock holders.
THIRD—Annual distribution of surplus or dividends, the amount thereof being carried as a definite liability until paid.
FOURTH—Management strictly confined to the company's officers acting in their responsible official capacity. A "side" promoting or investment company sharing in the management or investments of a life-insurance company offers too great opportunities for irresponsibility, to say the least.
