ANOTHER WEEK OF GOOD WEATHER

WHAT THE FARMERS AROUND FARGO ARE PRAYING FOR.

The Wheat Is Nearly All in the Milk Stage—No Particular Damage in Otter Tail County, Minn., Yet—Good Reports from South Dakota—The Harvest Hand Demand Begins.

Special to The Journal. Fargo, N. D., July 27.—With the ideal weather prevailing for the past week crops have advanced rapidly and the wheat is maturing so fast that it is escaping the possible ravages of black rust. Nothing but a bad run of weather can now assist the rust sufficiently to injure the crops seriously. The farmers are noting the weather conditions closely and if it becomes wet and muggy there will be some alarm. The prediction for rain has failed so far. The wheat is now nearly all in the milk stage and another week of good weather will practically insure an abundant yield.

'HEAD AND STEM ARE CLEAN.'

How Wheat in Otter Tail Looks to an Expert.

Special to The Journal. Fergus Falls, Minn., July 27.—George Nicolson returned from a tour of inspection of the grain fields today, and summarizes his observations as follows: The head and stem of the wheat in this vicinity is clean and healthy. The leaf has a burned or scalded appearance, and is drying up from root to head. If the leaf is drawn across white cloth it leaves a trace of red. There is not a particle of black or stem rust to be found on any of the wheat I have examined. Just what the effect the drying up of the leaves will have I cannot say. I believe, however, it will have a tendency to hasten the maturing of the crop and possibly will shrink the berry. If we should have unfavorable weather the next week or two, I think the bare stem will better resist rust than it would with the mass of green leaf. I find that the stem and leaf of the durum wheat which is present in proof, is in the same condition as the blue stem. While no one can yet be certain of the outcome, the present outlook is for a good crop. All we need now is a continuation of just such weather as we are having now.

NO RAIN WANTED

All Lakota Asks Is Warm Weather—Crops Are Fine.

Special to The Journal. Lakota, N. D., July 27.—The farmers are praying for continued warm weather. Crop prospects were never better. No rain is required for at least six weeks, as the ground is thoroughly soaked. So far, there has been no appearance of rust in Nelson county, but reports are current of its appearance east of here. The early sown wheat is coming along nicely and heading out well. One noticeable feature of the stands is that the heads are much fuller than usual, there being eight, ten and even twelve rows of kernels. The grain itself would indicate an unusual crop provided it matures. There is much of the wheat, however, which is from two weeks' heading out. The farmers are doing fairly well. Corn is backward.

A CALL FOR MEN

Urgent Demands from North Dakota for Harvesters. Des Moines Iowa, July 27.—One of the most urgent calls for harvest hands received in this city, has come from North Dakota. A local employment firm was notified that 1,000 men were wanted in that state to harvest the wheat crop. The agency immediately gathered up 200 men for the first train next week. Others will be sent later. The wages offered were from $2 to $3 a day. According to the call, the wheat crop is very large.

A STUDY IN RUSTS

Professor Smith of Aberdeen Tells of the Varieties.

Special to The Journal. Aberdeen, S. D., July 27.—Professor Fred W. Smith, instructor of science in the Northern Normal and Industrial school, has made a microscopical examination of the rust on wheat and has issued the following report: "A microscopical examination of the rust which is now affecting the wheat shows that it is composed of two kinds—the so-called brown rust and the golden rust. Under the microscope the spores of the two species are easily differentiated. The brown spore of the brown rust is elliptical in shape while the golden rust spore is spherical. The black rust stage of the golden rust is much more hunted on the end and its cells have a different arrangement from those of the brown rust. The two species cannot be told apart except by the use of a very powerful microscope. "An examination of several fields shows that there are about equal quantities of the two species growing on the wheat now. The spores of the black rust stage of brown rust are not fully mature. As compared with the amount of black rust of last year, as shown by comparison with the straw saved over, there is not one-hundredth as much on the grain at the present time. The presence of the golden rust on the grain should not be viewed with alarm as it is comparatively harmless."

It Looks Good at Revillo.

Special to The Journal. Revillo, S. D., July 27.—All small grain in this locality looks good, and flax has never been in a better condition. Parties who traveled all over the neighborhood looking especially for black rust, could not find any. There is a little red rust on the leaves, but none on the stem. Harvesting barley commenced yesterday. Wheat cutting is expected to begin in two weeks.

Crop Notes.

Zumbrota, Minn.—The barley harvest is completed and a large share of it is in the stacks. Oats and wheat are ripening very fast and will cut within a week or ten days. No indication of rust, except the usual amount of red rust, has yet been shown. Battle Lake, Minn.—Black rust exists in a small degree in the wheat fields, but the prevailing weather is not favorable to its spread, and no serious consequences are feared. Oats, barley, rye and flax were never better. Humboldt, Iowa.—A three weeks' drought was brought to a close by rain and showers are resulting. The hay crop, which was a large one, was put in excellent condition. There is a big yield, the late ones are showing signs of rust. Corn is making rapid progress. The crop outlook has never been better. Ada, Minn.—Farmers in this section report no black rust on the wheat. Barley is being harvested. Clara City, Minn.—John Freistaben threshed his barley today, and the yield was forty bushels to the acre. Oats and wheat are good. See Stockwell Soon.—That life insurance—The Penn Mutual. Andrus bid. CANADIAN MUNICIPALITIES Session of a Municipal Union at Winnipeg. Special to The Journal. Winnipeg, Man., July 27.—At yesterday's session of the Union of Canadian Municipalities convention there was a large attendance. The features of the session were addresses by Louis Bets, city controller of St. Paul, Minn., and by Major Ellis of Omaha. Mr. Bets spoke in August. The subject on which he has been invited to speak at the ninth annual convention of the League of American Municipalities, to be held at Toronto in August. Mr. Bets declared that Americans were all anxious to grow better acquainted here. He stated that in municipal financing and accounting a vast improvement could be brought about. It was often proclaimed that a municipality was a corporation and that its financial management should be the same as that of any private corporation. This, said Mr. Bets, is an absolutely wrong view. Municipalities should be managed on an entirely different plan. The paramount duty of every municipal officer is to see that every dollar expended, whether raised by bond issue or by taxation, brings an adequate return in the shape of some measure of benefit to the public at large.
