DEATH TO PRIVATE CARS IN INQUIRY

Agitation Against These Freight Lines Is Driving Them Out of Business. Washington, Aug. 12.—Private car lines owned by Swift & Co. and Armour Packing companies will be driven out of business as the result of the agitation against them and the investigation conducted by the interstate commerce commission with a view to prosecuting them for violating the anti-tribute law.

Notice has been served by the commission on all the railroads which have exclusive contracts with the private car lines that the trunk lines will be held responsible by the government for the giving of reasonable rates where goods are transported in the cars of the private lines.

This notice has had a beneficial effect, and three lines, the Michigan Central, the Pere Marquette and the Union Pacific railroads, have declared that they will not renew their contracts with the private car lines, and that they will provide their own cars for the transportation of their own perishable products. The Michigan Central and the Pere Marquette have notified the interstate commerce commission that they will bring a charge from points in Michigan to Boston of between $25 and $30, instead of $55, the rate charged by the Armours.

In the opinion of the commissioners, the fight against the private car lines is won. Immunity from punishment has practically been promised the roads for past violations of law if they live up to the promise made in their replies regarding the establishment of their own lines and the rates.

The investigation now being conducted by the commission will be continued, and proceedings will be entered against the roads if there is a failure to make good the promises which the railroads have made the commission.

DISAPPEARS WHEN TAX MAN COMES

PERSONAL PROPERTY HAS A WAY OF SHRINKING. Small Number of Watches Leads to Belief that City Hall Clock Is Popular—Automobiles Fail to Catch Eyes of the Assessors—Other Small Values Shown by Returns.

Personal property in Minneapolis, for purposes of taxation, is valued at $32,819,147, according to the figures in the office of City Assessor C. J. Minor. The real value is very much greater, as is apparent in studying the summary of the assessment for the present year. The value of all the diamonds and jewelry in the city is given at only $99,890, although one of the large jewelry firms will sell much more than that in one year. In this city of more than 260,000 people there are only 10,122 watches and clocks, although every household has several timepieces. The gold and silver plate in the city is assessed at $74,765, which is ridiculously small. Still there is no way of getting better returns under the present system of taxation.

Mr. Minor reports having found 9,001 horses in Minneapolis, 1942 cows, but only 35 sheep and 30 hogs. Of the thirty items into which taxable property is classified, the principal ones produced the following valuations:

Table with 2 columns: Description and Valuation. Items include Wholesale merchandise, Retail merchandise, Manufactures, Shares of bank stock, Bonds and other securities, Credits other than bankers, Moneys other than bankers, Great wagons and carriages, Automobiles, Sewing machines, Watches and clocks, Diamonds, Jewels, Gold and silver plate.

As usual the fourth leads the other wards by a big majority, its valuation of more than $14,000,000 being 42.5 per cent of the total for the city. This is explained by the fact that the entire assessments of the street railway company, the gas company and the General Electric company are credited to this ward, also the largest retail and wholesale stocks, while many of the big office buildings are located in the ward.

The personal property valuation of the city by wards is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Ward and Valuation. Wards include First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth.

Mr. Minor has added $2,450,000 to the real estate valuations, which makes the total for the city $104,238,673. If this is added to the personal property the assessed valuation of the city becomes $137,045,920.

FEVER VICTIM COULD NOT SPREAD DISEASE

"If a yellow fever sufferer should come to the twin cities and freely mix with the public, there would not be the slightest danger of a single additional case starting as a result," he concluded. So says Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary of the state board of health.

"The only way for the disease to spread," he continued, in explaining the matter, "is through the bite of a southern mosquito which carries the disease. A yellow fever patient could sleep in the same bed with a well person and give the disease to a healthy person. The mosquito is absolutely the only means of spreading the disease; and at that only the female mosquito, and after a certain number of days after the bite of the insect had first bitten some one afflicted with the disease."

"For this reason," he concluded, "there is not the least danger of the disease spreading to the north, or of its being brought to Minnesota in freight shipments or by travelers from the south."

PORTLAND'S FAIR HAS BIG CROWDS

Attendance Passes Million Mark—Officials Expect to Declare Dividend. Special Correspondence. Portland, Aug. 5.—The great feature of the week just passed at the Lewis and Clark exposition was the passing of the million attendance mark on Wednesday. Portland people are jubilant and the exposition officials are more than pleased because they believe it means that the fair will be a financial success. Many people now expect the fair to pay a dividend, a thing unheard of in the history of expositions.

Attendance by Weeks. The record of admissions so far indicates that the Lewis and Clark exposition attendance has grown steadily day by day. The popular prophecy now is that before the close of the fair, Oct. 15, the turnstiles will have registered 2,500,000 admissions.

The attendance, by weeks, up to Aug. 2, has been as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Date and Attendance. Dates include June 27 to 7, 8 to 14, 15 to 21, 22 to 28, 29 to July 5, 6 to 12, 13 to 19, 20 to 26, 27 to Aug. 2.

Honor for Admiral Clark. The Lewis and Clark exposition seeks to honor another Clark, the one who explored the territory of Oregon, but the one who commanded the battleship Oregon on the famous voyage of the great naval battle of Santiago in 1898.

CLOSE DEAL FOR KENWOOD FLATS

EMERY MAPES BUYS THREE BIG APARTMENT BUILDINGS. High-Class Property Facing Loring Park Changes Hands for a Consideration of $96,000—Nature of Surrounding Property a Factor in Values—Has Been Good Investment.

Emery Mapes has bought the Kenwood flats from the C. A. Smith Lumber company for $96,000. The negotiations were made thru the agency of Nickels & Smith. Mr. Mapes obtains in the deal 200 feet of vacant frontage on Lyndale avenue, which he expects to cover in time with a building of bachelor apartments. In line with recent assertions in The Journal that the acquisition of park property had an appreciable effect on real estate values, it may be stated that Mr. Mapes would not have considered the purchase had it not been for the proximity of Loring park, the Parade, also the new Plaza building.

The Kenwood flats are at Hennepin avenue and Kenwood boulevard. Three four-story brick buildings—the Kenwood, Adelphi and Loring—comprising twenty-eight flats, form the group. The buildings were erected nine years ago by the Flour City Realty company. John Holmberg, former sheriff, was the architect and the apartments have proved a good investment and are said to have paid for themselves in the nine years. The tenantry has been high-class and the situation between the parks and adjoining land condemned for park purposes, is ideal. Mr. Mapes' purchase is in the center of a district which is marked with great real-estate and building activity. Adjoining it is the new Plaza hotel and a portion of the new building owned by Walter J. Keith. A block away is the site of the Plaza annex. Two blocks east is the site of the proposed procatheedral. Two blocks in another direction is the $150,000 army barracks under completion. Directly across Lyndale is the Parade, just opened. Farther up the hill are several new houses in the course of building.

DAY BALKED BY ACTION OF COURT

Court Holds that Conviction of Day Was Sufficient Proof to Warrant His Prosecution and that There Was No Malice Shown by His Prosecutors—Demurrer Is Sustained. Excelsior anti-saloon workers have won another victory. Judge D. F. Simpson today sustained a demurrer to the complaint in the malicious prosecution case brought by Edward Day against E. Perkins and twelve other workers of the good citizenship movement. The plaintiff is given ten days in which to amend his complaint. If he does not do this he will have to bring an entirely new action or let the matter drop.

Day was arrested for running a "blind pig" at Excelsior. He was convicted and sentenced to the town workhouse. He was later released by Judge Andrew Holt of the district court on the ground that the justice had exceeded his authority. Day then began the present fight against the prosecution, and the present demurrer charging the Excelsior reformers with malicious prosecution and conspiracy.

The grounds of the demurrer sustained by Judge Simpson were that the complaint did not state a cause of action, since the conviction of Day was sufficient proof of his guilt to warrant the prosecution, and that there was no malice shown by any of the defendants.

GATHER AT LOG CABIN

TERRITORIAL PIONEERS WILL HOLD REUNION DURING STATE FAIR WEEK ON GROUNDS. Sept. 7 was selected for the annual reunion of the Minnesota Territorial Pioneers at a meeting of their association, held at the Windsor hotel, St. Paul, yesterday. The reunion will be held at the log cabin at the state fair grounds. The arrangement for the day were placed in the hands of Messrs. E. J. Berensford, E. W. Babbie and W. N. Webb, and the reunion was left to Messrs. Charles F. Staples, George H. Hazzard and Frank G. O'Brien. The restaurant was turned over to the Women's Relief corps.

The officers of the association are anxious to increase the membership. There are 3,000 members at present, but there must be that many more in the state who are eligible members. An effort will be made to obtain life-sized portraits of the earlier pioneers. Messrs. J. B. Gillilan, W. P. Murray and Frank G. O'Brien were named as a committee to have charge of the work. Among those suggested for the portrait gallery are Franklin Steele, Colonel John H. Ripley, John H. Rice, General H. M. Morison, Governor John S. Pillsbury, early pioneers of Minnesota; Governor Alexander Ramsey, General H. H. Sibley, General George H. Rensselaer, General J. M. Rice, General D. W. Ingersoll, Rev. Edward D. Neill, Rev. Chauncey Hobart and many others of the old-time residents of St. Paul.

Secretary G. H. Hazzard announced that he was endeavoring to obtain as full a record as possible of the lives of the members of the association, and particularly of obituary notices. He asked the relatives of the pioneers to make it their duty to supply the secretary with obituary notices and other matter.

Among the recent gifts to the association is a framed engraving of the old round tower at Fort Snelling presented by C. A. Smith of Minneapolis.

REVENGE, MAY BE, MOTIVE FOR ARSON

THEORY ADVANCED AT HEARING ON UNIVERSITY FIRE. Destruction of the anatomical building at the state university by fire July 25, 1904, may have been a revenge on some one who refused the body of a friend which he wished to rescue from the dissecting table.

So testified Dr. Charles A. Erdman of the university faculty at the hearing on the cause of the fire today conducted by the state fire marshal, Edward Peterson. By his testimony Dr. Erdman said in part: "I absolutely suspect no one single person, but there is this condition attaching about this institution. We receive bodies which sometimes are found here by friends. The friends find that we have no claim on the bodies, because relatives alone can claim a body, and they have expressed to me time and time again various threats of what they would do to the institution to get even and all that. They find that there is no property right in a corpse, and they find that they can't sue the state; so the thing they do in that way is to retain the body and bury it when we are thru with it. I am satisfied there is considerable antipathy in certain quarters, so that I could easily understand that any one would set the fire in revenge."

Thomas W. Hickey, a plumber, testified that but ten minutes before the fire started he was working in the building alone. He said, however, that he had used no light himself, and had not seen or smelled any indications of a fire.

Dr. Erdman testified that there were a number of jars of alcohol in the building, and that there is a "remote possibility" that gas might have accumulated in one of them and caused an explosion and fire following.

MRS. SCHAEFFER HONORED

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL, OF BOSTON, WRITES OF MINNEAPOLIS POLICE MATRON. Miss Alice Stone Blackwell of Boston, pays tribute to Mrs. Sarah Schaeffer in the last number of the Woman's Journal, of which she is one of the editors. Miss Blackwell was in Minneapolis earlier in the summer and was an interested visitor to the city jail.

"Mrs. Sarah Schaeffer, the police matron of Minneapolis, is said to be the only police matron in the country who has full and entire charge of the women's department in the city jail," writes Miss Blackwell. "About a thousand women and girls pass thru her hands every year. She also has charge of all the boys under 17 years old. On being asked if she did not sometimes find it hard to handle the big boys, Mrs. Schaeffer answered, with a smile, that they were not so difficult to deal with as the drunken women, but that she could always manage both by kindness and firmness combined. She never has to call in help. Mrs. Schaeffer is a Missourian by birth, and is the widow of an army officer. When appointed police matron, she was in poor health, fragile and nervous, and her best friends feared that she would not have the physical strength for so arduous a post. But she proved to be just the right woman for the place. Under the congenial and responsible work her health improved, and she is now strong and well. No one can meet her without being impressed by the fact that she is a superior woman. She has had a wide experience of life, and cannot be hoodwinked by any of the arts of the culprits with whom she has to deal. The officers are generally guided by her advice as to the disposition of them, and she rarely makes a mistake. She receives many touching letters of gratitude from women and girls who are now doing well. Minneapolis women are justly proud of their juvenile court, of their clean and well-ventilated cells, and of last, but not least, of their police matron."

MRS. SARAH SCHAEFFER.

When Dr. Jackson's work is manifold, and he is a man of manifold interests, he will always be thought of first in connection with his inspired work of bringing the reindeer to Alaska.

BETTER FACILITIES

New Building Adds Materially to Graham Hall Equipment. The new building in process of construction for Graham Hall will greatly increase the equipment of the school. Fronting on Eighteenth street, it stands but a few rods from the First avenue school, and is a most convenient and advantageous in inclement weather. In every particular the building has been especially adapted to the needs of the school. As regards arrangement, warmth, ventilation, lighting and heating, the usual provisions for a building of this size have been greatly increased.

The entire ground floor, with the exception of the two cloakrooms, is devoted to the gymnasium. This will provide for indoor sports as well as exercise and will be furnished with the appliances most approved for women's gymnastics. The second floor contains the academic, intermediate and primary schoolrooms, with sunny south and west exposures.

The new structure immediately adjoins the building upon the corner of First avenue. This has been remodeled in such a way as to harmonize with the new in design and purpose, and form a schoolbuilding of ideal attractiveness.

GUARD WELFARE OF THE REINDEER

DR. SHELDON JACKSON COMING TO MINNEAPOLIS. Former Rochester Minister Has Done a Great Work for the Government in the Frozen North—How He Took Reindeer Into Alaska and Provided for Their Care.

Sheldon Jackson, LL.D., general agent of the United States government, department should be notified at 3000, a private letter to Mrs. E. F. Pomeroy, 1400 Nicollet avenue, a long-time friend, that he will spend tomorrow in Minneapolis en route to Portland. Dr. Jackson's first mission to Alaska was to Rochester, Minn., and he was instrumental in building a Presbyterian church there and others at different points in the state.

He has been nineteen years in the government employ, and the story of what he has accomplished is fascinating. The splendid success of his plan of bringing reindeer from Siberia to Alaska and importing Laplanders to teach the difficult art of herding them, is of present interest.

From 1,280 reindeer imported from Siberia in 1892 and 1893 there were, on Jan. 1, 1904, 6,505 reindeer in eleven herds at nine different stations, under the ownership of seventy-five persons. As the herds double in three years, there should be now about 30,000. There are fourteen Laplanders who teach the care and use of them, and many Eskimos apprenticed to these men as students of herding for a period of five years. The reindeer are now loaned by the government to different missions, an carefully framed laws govern all owned in Alaska. Up to 1904, $183,000 covered the entire amount expended by the government in the reindeer project.

What they accomplish in relief expeditions, in freighting and in carrying mails is in addition to their value as food. One reindeer winter mail route from Kotzebue to Point Barrow is 630 miles in length, over a country without even a trail, in midnight darkness, above the arctic circle, where the thermometer ranges from 20 to 60 degrees below zero, and violent storms are of frequent occurrence. The $750 allowed by the postoffice department for each round trip, requiring about three months is slight compensation for the hardy Eskimo drivers, who, at the risk of their lives, carry this mail over the northernmost postal route in the world. The reindeer scale high mountain ranges, shoot down precipitous declivities to toboggan points, plow thru valleys of deeply-dense snow, cut a way thru five-foot, drift underbrush, glide over hard-crusting snow, or thru slush two feet deep, often making sixty miles a day under the most appalling conditions.

At one time it is recorded that a party with seventeen reindeer had a continuous march of four days and nights, without rest or food, with the thermometer at 73 below zero, yet twelve of the herd survived.

While Dr. Jackson's original purpose was to assist the natives to a certain method of gaining a livelihood and to advance their civilization, yet they are of equal importance to the white population, as the reindeer is the only draft animal that can secure the overland food on a journey thru arctic regions, and carries passengers, mails and freight with cheapness and speed.

Dr. Jackson is at present striving to increase the number of small industrial schools where the natives are taught in making fish nets, and in adopting improved methods of catching and preparing fish for family use and for sale; in the care and raising of reindeer and in their breaking in and use in transportation, and in the cultivation of hardy vegetables, wherever soil and climate will allow.
