CANE FOR HALE

Comrades of Old Third Minnesota Honor the Postmaster.

About fifty veterans of the Third Minnesota infantry attended the twenty-first reunion of the regimental association, held in Morgan post G. A. hall yesterday afternoon. The gray-haired "Boys of '61" spent the afternoon renewing old acquaintances, listening to speeches on military and changing reminiscences of the trying days of the civil war.

The pleasure of the occasion was tempered by the knowledge that during the past year eight comrades had answered to the last roll call.

General C. W. Andrews of St. Paul was elected president of the association, and Postmaster W. D. Hale, for many years secretary of the association, was lured from the hall on the pretext of important business, and on his return presented with a gold-headed ebony cane by his comrades in token of their appreciation for his good comradeship and his labors in support of the association.

15 MORE GROCERS

FACE THE COURT

RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION CONTINUES CRUSADE.

Dealers Are Not from Any One Section and Cannot Be Classed as Confectionery Merchants—Attorney Hurst Says Association Is Not After Small Dealers.

Members of the Retail Grocers' association are still swinging the Sunday closing ax and fifteen unknown dealers were arraigned in police court today, charged with selling goods on Sunday.

This time the dealers are not from all one section, but are well scattered. They all pleaded not guilty, and their cases were set for Sept. 22. Those arrested are: Bertha Margis, 1425 East Franklin avenue; John Hoff, 1000 Sixth street S.; A. L. Ager, 1528 Fifth street S.; W. O. Williams, First avenue S. and Twenty-sixth street; A. P. Thomas, 427 Central avenue; F. L. Hastie, 2745 Nicollet avenue; William Hatten and A. Hatten, 1903 Central avenue; A. H. Volk, First avenue S. and Twenty-sixth street; J. Sanford, Seventeenth street S. and Franklin; A. R. Ruhke of the Minneapolis Milk company; Charles Friedman, 422 Cedar avenue; John Bakka, 1425 Franklin avenue; Gustav Olson, 1226 Washington avenue S.; W. E. Larson, Fifteenth avenue S. and Franklin.

William Hurst, attorney for the association, denies the statement that the crusade are after the small dealers. He says that many of the men arrested today own large stores and are not classed as confectionery dealers, as they carry little or no candy. The association is out after the men who sell groceries on Sunday, thus taking advantage of the law-abiding grocers who close their places as the statute requires. All the violators will be brought into court as fast as the evidence can be obtained.

"We don't care how much confectionery the dealers sell," said Mr. Hurst, "but they will have to stop selling groceries on Sunday. The law is the law and we are entitled to its protection."

The Small Dealers' Protective league declares it is willing to answer the question of Sunday opening to the public. If sentiment is adverse, its members will close their stores Sundays without a murmur. This is the gist of an address to the citizens of Minneapolis.

In their appeal to the public the small dealers ask if the sale of butter, milk, cream, bread, etc., on Sundays is an advantage to the grocers. It is asserted that many families are unable to obtain sufficient quantities of these supplies to last over Sunday, the day when regular groceries are closed, therefore the small open store is an accommodation.

Many of these stores, the members of the league say, are the only means of support to the women who operate in them and their children. It is asserted that the grocers have formed a "trust" and that they desire to drive the small stores out of business so as to control prices.

MRS. SEBENTHALL'S BODY TAKEN HOME

The body of Mrs. Ida Sebenthall, who was killed in the Wisconsin explosion at the family home in Eau Claire, Wis., was sent from St. Paul last night accompanied by Frank Sebenthall, her husband, who was badly injured in the same accident, and the oldest son, John Sebenthall. In spite of the protests of the physicians attending the injured man he insisted on accompanying his wife's remains to their home.

The funeral will be held at the home and will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow. The casket will be borne to the cemetery by the funeral home.

FORGERIES FREQUENT

Country Banks May Adopt New Rules for Protection.

Bankers are going to insist on the verification of indorsements on checks presented by strangers on account of the epidemic of petty forgeries, chiefly by amateurs. The Minneapolis and St. Paul country banks and a plan suggested by the secretary of the Iowa Bankers' association, F. E. Holton, secretary of the protective committee of the Minnesota Bankers' association, has issued a card asking clients to apprehend R. F. Brown, wanted at Marion, Iowa, and to wire the chief of police at Cedar Rapids.

Brown is said to be a forger and burglar, released from Anamosa prison Aug. 1. His alias is Fred Smith. Brown's age is 26, height 5 feet 10 inches, weight 150 pounds. He has dark hair, gray eyes, dark, oily complexion, is slim of build and avoids direct gaze. He chews tobacco continually. Brown claims steamfitting as his occupation.

Poultry Raisers Interested.

The window exhibit of Pike & Co., dealers in poultry food, incubators, etc., with offices and salesrooms at 513 Second street S., has issued a card asking attention of the poultry-raising fraternity here visiting the state fair.

Each day they exhibit a pair of thoroughbred fowls or various species, being changed every week.

The Pike Co. has added several improvements to the old style incubators, which will be of great interest to poultry raisers, and a warm welcome is extended to the public to call and inspect them.

CHINA SENDS AN INQUIRY

LOCAL MILLING COMPANY GETS A CHANCE AT BIG SLICE OF ORIENTAL TRADE.

Along with other foreign countries now looking this way, old China entered the Minneapolis market this morning, sending inquiry for 100,000 barrels of flour. A local milling firm had an early chance at it. San Francisco sent the message, which called for a price for 10,000 tons, patents in sacks. This would approximate close to 100,000 barrels. To noon the business had not been entered. Other Pacific coast inquiry was also in hand.

Minneapolis, in times past, has done considerable business this way, and when it is a question of high-grade spring wheat flour, local millers are out for the business. It is a long time, however, since Minneapolis has been in position to be aggressive in the oriental market, and even the business may not result from the present inquiry, it is considered significant, especially in view of the fact that 100,000-barrel inquiry coming from England.

The old lines of foreign business relationship, broken into last year by abnormal conditions, are gradually being picked up, and it is likely that the position of relative parity is maintained between raw material in Minneapolis and the finished product in the foreign markets.

PIONEER PASSES AWAY

JABEZ M. ROBINSON, LUMBERMAN OF EARLY DAYS, DIES AT OLD HOME.

Jabez Morey Robinson, one of the pioneer lumbermen of Minneapolis died this morning, aged 79 years, at his residence, 2308 Franklin street S., with which he had lived for the past twenty-six years. He had been ill only a few days. The funeral services will be held Sunday at 2:30 p.m. from the residence. Interment will be at Lakewood.

Mr. Robinson was born at Lubec, Me., in 1826, and came to Minnesota in March, 1856. A year later he married Miss Martha Berry in Minneapolis. Five children were born to them, of whom three are now living: Mrs. Addie R. Morse, the wife of Charles Morse; Irene E. Robinson and Charles H. Robinson, all residing in Minneapolis.

Mr. Robinson first came to Minneapolis as the representative of Isaac Newton, a lumber dealer of Buffalo, N. Y., but after his arrival here he entered the employ of Hurlburt, Day & Co., in the lumber business. After some years with this firm he entered into partnership with William P. Pettit and Edward Clement of Philadelphia, the firm being known as Ankeny, Robinson & Clement, dealers in and manufacturers of lumber. The firm afterward, by the addition of C. H. Pettit, became Ankeny, Robinson & Pettit, and later Pettit, Robinson & Co., operating a sawmill, and also manufacturing flour, at what was known as the Pettit mill. This firm ceased to exist some twelve years ago, altho Mr. Robinson and Mr. Pettit have been since that time closely associated in business, operating extensively in pine and iron lands.

Mr. Robinson was known among the business men of Minneapolis as a man of high character and high integrity. Of rather a retiring disposition, he shunned anything approaching public prominence and attended closely to his business interests. He was a member of the Territorial Pioneer association, and was active in many worthy charitable enterprises.

DISCUSS EMIL OF OVERHEAD WIRES

EXPERTS EMPHASIZE GREAT DANGER TO LIFE.

Council Committee Will Make a Beginning by Introducing an Ordinance Creating an Inspector to See to Proper Insulation—Business Interests Aroused Over Danger to Property.

An ordinance providing for the appointment of an inspector whose duty it will be to look after the insulation of all electric wiring in Minneapolis will be introduced at tonight's meeting of the city council.

This is the result of a lengthy discussion by joint committees of the council upon present conditions concerning electric wires in Minneapolis, and is designed to lessen the danger to the men whose business it is to handle the wires.

W. S. Boyd, chief electrical inspector of the National Association of Fire Underwriters, describes the present conditions as "monstrous," in that the danger of fire from overhead wires had been materially increased by crossing of high tension wires. It was recommended that dangerous and exposed places be protected by white stripes on the poles.

Frank Flanagan of the electrical linemen's union also urged that high tension wires should be marked for the protection of men working on the poles.

The danger of fire from the present overhead system of wiring was dwelt upon by a number of men representing the larger business and insurance interests, including Charles W. Sexton, W. Harris and others. Building Inspector James G. Houghton stated that Minneapolis is far behind other cities in regard to overhead wires, and that the matter, but it had never reported. Not a single wire should be permitted overhead in the downtown district, he said.

A. M. Robertson, general manager of the Minneapolis General Electric company, C. P. Wainman, general manager of the Northwestern Telephone exchange company and A. E. Gregory, superintendent of construction of the Twin City Telephone company, gave their views of the situation and the proposed changes. Mr. Robertson stated that the work of putting the wires under ground could not be completed in less than five years, and the representative of the telephone companies spoke along similar lines.

Mayor Jones and other speakers intimated that a definite plan of action toward securing an underground wiring system for the business district is being formulated. The mayor said he believed Minneapolis to show a higher death rate from defective wiring than any other city in the United States, and the time had come to improve conditions.
