The growth of the St. Anthony Commercial club of East Minneapolis is the most phenomenal that the northwest has ever witnessed. This was proved Tuesday evening at the weekly meeting which was held in the hall of the Commercial Business college.

It was only eleven weeks ago last Tuesday that the first meeting of the Commercial club was held. Since that time the officers and the rank and file of the organization have worked unceasingly to advance the cause of the club, to acquaint the finest men on the East Side with its purposes and the benefits which will accrue from it.

When the gates of membership have closed upon the last of the 300, which will become as renowned as the 400, there will be a great rejoicing. A committee will be appointed to devise some adequate and appropriate way of celebrating the advent of the 300th member.

Her—Yes, I suppose so; but it would be rough on the women.

Hm—Why do you think so?

Her—Because they would all be guarding the jails.

BROOKLYN WANTS "OLD IRONSIDES"

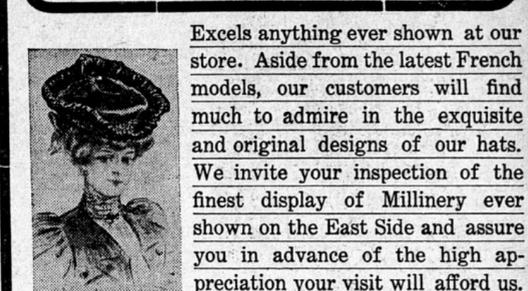

BUT BOSTON HANGS TO THE SHIP WITH A STRONG GRIP.

Little Probability that the United States Frigate Constitution of Early History Will Be Taken Away from the Charlestown Navy Yard.

Unnecessary apprehension regarding disposal of the old United States Frigate Constitution, dearly venerated as "Old Ironsides" of poetic fame, appears to have been aroused through a story that a wealthy Brooklyn, N. Y., merchant had proposed that the public school children of that city purchase the old ship and have it removed to their own navy yard.

"Assuming that there would be no legal obstacle, I should, of course, be confronted by the question of policy. I certainly believe that any disposition made of the historic old vessel should be in my judgment, the best that could be made of her, everything considered."

Locally the Massachusetts Society of the United States Daughters of 1812 has done much in the past toward securing the preservation of the old ship, and has studied elaborate plans for rebuilding her to make her in appearance as she originally was. No single person has worked more actively to this end than Mrs. Nelson Titus, D. R., president of the society, and also prominent as a Daughter of the Revolution. She says of this proposed plan:

"It is not likely that we are going to allow the Constitution to leave Boston without a vigorous protest. We had to work hard some years ago when we had it brought down from the Portsmouth navy yard. If there is going to be a sale, we shall be the purchasers. It is not right to take the old frigate away from Boston, where it was built over one hundred years ago. In fact, I think it would be utterly out of place anywhere else. We shall spare no efforts to keep it here. The idea of removing it to Brooklyn is preposterous." Mrs. Titus recalls to public mind her own and her society's efforts to have the authorities keep the Constitution in good trim. They suggested that the old hull be renovated and remasted and fixed up with sails, ropes and guns, as in the days when it roamed the seas and sent the staunch ships of King George's royal navy out of service. Naval constructors have said that in its present condition, with a hull of decayed wood, it would be dangerous to even move the ship from its dock.

THE UNFAIR SEX. HUNTER SEST. "Is this the postoffice?" "Yes, ma'am. What's the name?" "Is this the part where people get letters?" "Yes, ma'am; please tell me your name."

"Is it necessary to tell my whole name when I want a letter?" "I suppose not. Are you expecting a letter?" "No; I want a 1-cent stamp." "No; window." "Well, you don't need to be so cross about it! I've a good notion to report you."

OF COURSE. CHICAGO TRIBUNE. "Hello!" exclaimed a low, soft voice, thru the telephone. "Is this the cold storage warehouse?" "Yes."

"This is Mrs. Jymes. My husband and I are going abroad for the summer, and we want to store some of our furniture—" "But, pardon me, madame, you don't want to put furniture in cold storage, do you?" "Not all of it, sir, of course. Only the icebox."
