Dr. Humphreys' Seventy-Seven breaks up Grip and COLDS

The easy time to stop a Cold is at the start. Sometimes a Cold flies at the throat; again it seizes the chest or more often it rushes to the head. You know how you are first affected and if next time you will observe closely you will notice before any of these symptoms that feeling of lassitude or weakness, that almost invariably precedes the breaking out of a cold. If you are alert enough to recognize this condition, it is an easy matter to stop the cold with a few doses of Dr. Humphreys' Seventy-Seven on you must keep it handy. Later on it's a sure cure but it's slower. At Druggists, 25c.

Frank J. Enns, son of Postmaster J. E. Enns of Butterfield, Minn., is under arrest in St. Paul, charged with forging postal money orders. It is alleged that young Enns, who is but a few years of age, was in the Portland fair, taking with him money orders from the Butterfield postoffice, which he made out and indorsed in the name of James C. Enns at various points along the line.

CRANBERRIES SOARING

Thanksgiving Dinner Tables Will Be Without Sauce, It Is Feared.

Unless something of a miraculous nature happens to the market, many Thanksgiving dinner tables in Minneapolis will be without that customary delicacy, cranberry sauce. For several years past the holiday condiment has been as high priced as it is this year, and from the reports received from the east the high price will remain firm thru the season.
Ordinarily Minneapolis uses about one hundred cars of cranberries during the season. Each car contains from eighty to one hundred barrels, making the local output nearly 10,000 barrels. The present jobbing price of cranberries is $8 a barrel, or a trifle over a dollar higher than the usual price. If the price holds up as the commission men believe it will, the retailers of Minneapolis will pay over $10,000 more than usual for their season's cranberries.
Advices from New Jersey and Cape Cod, Mass., are to the effect that the cranberry crop is not more than from 50 to 60 per cent of its usual size. The Wisconsin crop is fair, but as it is one of the smaller cranberry producing states its supply will not be enough to affect the market materially.
Late frosts last spring and the ravages of the cranberry worm are blamed for the shortage. The loss will aggregate many thousands of dollars.

'SPENDER' WANTS HIS MONEY BACK

ANDREW JENSEN RIDES SELF OF $150 IN WIFE.

Forgets Wife and Children to Scatter Savings with Lavish Hand and, with Round of Pleasure Ended when "Roll" Is Exhausted, Asks Police Aid to Recover Money.

Andrew Jensen, a North Dakota homesteader, spent $150 in a week. He had not had a drink of liquor for more than four years, during which time he was delving for dear life in the soil of the fickle state, so when he arrived in Minneapolis with a roll he succeeded in spending it in a lavish hand. He hired a piano player by the day at liberal wages, rode in hacks and otherwise comported himself as the "real thing."

In the meantime, his wife was carefully guarding three barefooted tots under 7 years of age and nursing the fourth. All were lodged in a cheap hotel while Andrew was living like a lord. His money soon gave out, his intoxication was dissipated and then, having no other place to go, he returned to the bosom of his family. The meeting was not particularly affectionate.
But Andrew was repentant. He appealed to the superintendent of police to assist him in recovering some of his money. At the city hall this morning he met the proprietors of the three saloons where he had spent most of his funds.
He related that he had recently proved up a claim, seventeen miles west of Minot. After paying the expense of proving up and the railroad fares of the family to Minneapolis he had about $150 left. He did not start this morning he realized what was going on he was penniless.
It had been his intention to locate on some land in the outcrop sections of Minnesota or Wisconsin. He had already secured work and felt that he could take care of his family without assistance. But if he could get some of the money he threw to the saloonkeepers he would appreciate it.
There was nothing for the police to do. Jensen had plainly forced the money on the bartenders. He refused to take change and did not have to be doped or coaxed to part with his coin. Jensen was properly repentant today and promised to care for his family to the best of his ability.

TWO MEN ARE CHARGED WITH RAVERY MURDER

Harry Laramie and James E. Egan, charged with killing Peter E. Ramsey, May 3, 1905, were yesterday indicted for murder in the first degree by the Ramsey county grand jury. It is alleged that the two prisoners broke into the office of the Johnson Lumber company, at 1615 Third street, and were proceeding to rob the safe when Officer Raverty entered to use the telephone. The officer is said to have no more than a faint recollection of what happened. The officers opened fire from behind the high counter on which the telephone rested. Raverty fell, mortally wounded. The two men escaped and were only captured after an exciting chase thru Hastings and Point Douglas.
Following the return of this and other indictments, the jury began the investigation of St. Paul gambling.

COMMISSION INQUIRES INTO CAR SHORTAGE

Members of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission have begun an investigation of the complaints of car shortage, which are coming from every section of the state. "The only remarkable thing about the shortage is that it is coming so early in the season, threatening worse trouble later on. The commission will inquire especially whether the railroads are not favoring Dakota points to the prejudice of Minnesota, and what has happened to the long haul first. It is probable that inquiry will be made into the records at the general offices of the companies, and some of the cars which are being distributed fairly and evenly."

WILL RACE FOR BRONCHOS

Owners Will Match Horses in True Indian Fashion.

A broncho race in genuine Indian style will take place tomorrow afternoon, when half a dozen or more owners of fleet western horses will match their steeds against one another, the winners to take all the other horses, bridles and saddles.
The race will start at 1:30, one mile the other side of Columbia Heights, and the finish will take place at "Gottwald's" place, which is beyond Columbia Heights, on Central avenue. Seven horses have already been entered and other entries will be made before the race. After the race a number of crack bronchos will be on hand at Gottwald's. A genuine old-fashioned barbecue will be a feature of the day's sport. Buses will be in waiting at the end of the Columbia Heights car line from 12 o'clock on.

AFTER TRAIN ROBBERS

$5,000 Reward Is Offered for Their Capture and Conviction.

A reward of $5,000 for the capture and conviction of each of the bandits taking part in the Great Northern train robbery near Seattle on Monday night, has been offered by the Great Northern Railway and the Great Northern Express company. The offer is believed to be the largest ever made for such a crime. The offer will start the sleuths of Washington to working, and that the entire party will soon be rounded up. Acting Superintendent O'Neill of the western division of the railroad wires the general offices yesterday that no definite reports of the bandits had been received to date.

HE HAD NO LICENSE

George Rogge Arrested at His Former Saloon, 505 Washington Avenue N.

George Rogge, who formerly conducted a saloon at 505 Washington avenue N., was arrested and locked up last night charged with conducting a blind pig at his old place.
Rogge had some trouble with a brewing company a short time ago, and his license was taken away. Since then the police say he has been selling liquor without a license and has conducted a rendezvous for young girls. The evidence against the man was obtained by two young girls whom the police employed to get the liquor. Rogge is said to have been up to his business in the shape and had told his friends that it was not necessary to have a license to sell liquor in Minneapolis.

FOUNDATION WORK LET

MAIN BUILDING UNDER WAY AT ONCE—WILL BE 88 BY 322 FEET.

F. G. McMillan of Minneapolis has been given the contract to put in the foundation of the new main building at the university. The contract has been let by the state board of control, the contract price not being announced.
The terms of the contract require the foundation to be completed by Dec. 6. Work began yesterday on the site of the ground for the exsiccation, which will be made at once.
Plans are not completed for the superstructure, but the foundation plans call for a building 322 feet long. It will have the long side fronting on University avenue, the west end being close to Fifteenth avenue. The building will be 56 feet wide in the center, and 88 feet at the ends.

TO SHIP GRAIN HERE

Minneapolis Firm Secures Elevator Rights in New Ashland Line.

The construction of seven grain elevators along the new line of the Great Northern railroad from Sioux City to Ashland, Neb., will begin at once. The McCall-Walsh Elevator company of Minneapolis has secured the right of way from the railroad company and expects to put in large and thoroughly modern ones.
It is expected most of the grain from the new territory will go to Minneapolis. The Great Northern, it is understood here, will charge shipping either to Chicago or Minneapolis, from the Burlington territory, for thereby one of the two companies will obtain the long haul. It is expected that the grain will be divided among the numerous railroads when it goes east from that point.

FIENDS GET LONG TERMS IN PRISON

THREE MEN GIVEN AGGREGATE OF TWENTY-THREE YEARS.

Lemuel Cannon, the Negro Who Impersonated Officer to Accomplish Foul Crime Severely Outcast by Judge Brooks, Who Expresses Regret That Maximum Sentence Is Only Fourteen Years.

Judge F. C. Brooks today gave sentences aggregating twenty-three years in the state penitentiary to three defendants convicted of improperly treating young girls in two cases. The court stated that the law did not allow him properly to punish the offenders, and in the third, that of one Patterson, he said that the defendant's age was so great that he could not give him the maximum penalty. Lemuel Cannon was given fourteen years, William C. Patterson two years and James St. Liff six years.
Lemuel Cannon, colored, Judge Brooks said:
"The jury by their verdict have found you guilty of the crime of debauching a girl under the age of consent, and, peculiarly aggravating circumstances, that you pretended to be a policeman or detective and went through the form of arresting the girl, with her boy escort, in a public park in the city; that after you had taken them from the park you directed the boy to take the girl upon the spot, and, upon the promise of permitting her to go home if she would comply with your desires, accomplished your purpose.
"Any man, white or black, capable of concealing and countenancing such a crime is a disgrace to the community. To permit you to go free would impede the safety of every young girl who might enter a park or go upon the street. A wild beast of the man-eating type set loose in one of our parks would be less dangerous. There does not appear to be any statute of this state to meet any such case as this. Except for your former conviction the maximum penalty would be seven years. With three former convictions of felonies, the maximum penalty is fourteen years."
If you had taken money from this girl under circumstances disclosed you might under the law be confined to state's prison for a period of eighty years. If you should have committed the crime you might be sentenced for a term of ten years. If you should have committed burglary the term of imprisonment might be ten years. And mere larceny, burglary or robbery are in truth trivial offenses as compared with the crime of taking by force a girl from a public park in the night time and compelling her, thru fear of imprisonment, to submit her person to you.
For some inscrutable reason the jury which returned this verdict saw fit to recommend you to the sentence of the court. The court has done its best to make it as clear as possible why such a recommendation was made. It may be that the jury misapprehended the punishment that might be imposed or did not understand that there is no statute of this state which affords an adequate punishment for such a crime. It may be that they had pity for you as indeed the court has, and considered you an unfortunate person, as perhaps you are. But the question which presents itself here is the necessity of protecting society against a man capable of the commission of such a crime. You were not induced to the crime by any sudden impulse or passion, or by any suggestion or advice of another person. You had never, in fact, seen the girls before you took her from the park. You were evidently prepared to debauch this way any girl that you might find in the park, however virtuous she might be. There is evidence tending to show that you had previously acted the part of an officer in like manner, at Minnehaha park and at Elliot park. It may be that this is only one of a series of offenses of which you are guilty. Many, perhaps most, girls and most parents would hesitate to face the publicity that comes from the attempt to prosecute one guilty of such a crime. It is evident that you have now been convicted of four distinct felonies in the courts of this state; and there is little hope for any reformation in your case. It is evident that you are a habitual criminal. In any event, the very fact that you have committed this offense and shown your disposition to commit others of like character is of itself ample warrant for imposing in your case the maximum penalty.

NEED NATIONAL LAW

States Cannot Reach Manufacturers of Impure Foods.

E. K. Slater, state dairy and food commissioner, commenting on the stand taken by Judge C. L. Smith of the Minneapolis municipal court, says that the only way to reach the manufacturers and wholesalers is by national pure food law. The state can only act by keeping a check on the retailers.
"For example," says Mr. Slater, "a manufacturing concern in another state may make impure goods which are disposed of in this state by a retailer. Without a national law it is impossible to prosecute the manufacturers, as they are governed by the laws of another state. It is the same way with the wholesalers. If they ship impure goods out of the state in which they are located it is impossible for the state in which the goods are sold to prosecute them. The only way the food and dairy commissioners can prevent the distribution of adulterated foods to the consumer is to prosecute the retailer. It is the retailer who are vitally interested in this question and it is up to them to secure the passage of a national food law at the next session of congress."

PREVALENCE OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Chicago's Health Commissioner, Dr. Reynolds, reported on Oct. 6 that out of 488 applicants for Fire Department positions, one in every 17 were rejected for Bright's Disease. He adds: "It is not reassuring to learn that 6 per cent of Chicago's male population in early manhood is afflicted with Bright's Disease."
In older people the percentage is higher, and Dr. Reynolds' report states that from the autopsies 90 per cent of men and women over forty have it in some form.
The census gives support to the above. It shows that the annual deaths from Bright's Disease have increased from 1,722 in 1870 to 53,748 annually in 1900. There were no deaths reported from Bright's Disease before 1870. It is believed that the deaths were due to kidney trouble and were so reported.
When to suspect Bright's Disease—weakness or loss of weight, puffiness of the face, itching of the skin, trouble after the third month; urine may show sediment; failing vision; drowsiness; one or more of these.
We advise to have in the hands of those having Bright's Disease a 36-page report on a large variety of test cases put on Fulton's Renal Compound for Bright's Disease. It shows 87 per cent of recoveries in 140 cases of fatal disease. The pamphlet is free.
