

SCORES WOUNDED IN RUSSIAN RIOT

Civilians at Kharkoff Hurt Bombs - Cossacks Reply with Rifle Volley.

Kharkoff, Russia, Oct. 24.—A serious conflict between troops and the people during which there were many casualties on both sides occurred here last night.

While a meeting of 20,000 citizens, students and workmen was in progress, the cry "The Cossacks are coming!" was suddenly raised and a panic followed.

Subsequently the crowd came in contact with a detachment of cavalry, revolver shots were fired by some of the civilians, and a number of bombs were hurled among the cavalry.

Strikers have since plundered the gunsmiths' stores and have armed themselves. A number of bookstores have been destroyed and all work has been stopped at others.

Water Supply Damaged. Moscow, Oct. 24.—The strikers have damaged the water conduit between Moscow and Mytishchi, and some sections of Moscow are without water.

RAILROAD STRIKE SPREADS Lines of All of Russia Tied Up—People in Want.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—The railroad strike situation has now entered on a highly serious phase. The movement is spreading rapidly to all the railroads of the empire, and apparently cannot be stopped.

The general strike in all branches of labor which the socialists planned for the end of the strike is speedily bursting forth of its own volition.

Minister of Finance Kokovsov yesterday received a telegram from the governing committee of the Moscow strike which said that a continuation of the strike for a week longer would force every factory in the Moscow region to shut down, owing to lack of coal.

All Industry Imperiled. The same condition of paralysis threatens all the trade and industry of Russia unless the strike is speedily settled.

Moscow Is Isolated. The last link that bound Moscow, the commercial center of the empire, with the outer world was broken yesterday afternoon when the Moscow railway station, connecting Moscow with St. Petersburg, went on strike.

St. Petersburg has one line to the frontier and the employees of this line held a meeting last night to discuss whether or not they should participate in the strike movement.

WITTE MADE PREMIER Reports Say Czar Has Put Him at Head of Cabinet.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—It was persistently reported in the clubs and in government circles late last night that the emperor had appointed Count Witte premier with the portfolio of minister of finance.

Witte with Liberals. Since his return from the United States, Count Witte has boldly ranged himself on the side of the liberals, and has not only advocated complete liberty of speech, of the press and of assembly as a corollary of the coming down, but has even gone so far as to promulgate, and the Solsky reform commission is now at work on a more liberal draft.

Empress Receives Countess. The reception of the Countess Witte by the empress yesterday is considered a singular evidence of the empress's determination to continue her fortunes to the hands of Count Witte.

TAWNEY BALKS AT STATEHOOD PLAN

Congressman Believes New Mexico and Arizona Should First Solve Irrigation Question.

Special to the Journal. Winona, Minn., Oct. 24.—Congressman James A. Tawney, who accompanied the congressional party on its trip to Arizona and New Mexico, came after attending a reunion of the Tawney family at Cedar Bluffs, Neb.

He was pleased with the irrigation work being done there by the government which he thinks will bring into these territories, in the course of a few years, an agricultural class of people that will give permanency and stability to their population.

As a result of the trip and the careful study made of the statehood question, he says: "In my judgment, these territories should not at this time be admitted either jointly or separately, until the people of New Mexico, like the people of Arizona, would cease agitating the question of statehood in any form until the federal policy of irrigation has received the lands that are available for agricultural purposes, and the other enormous natural resources have been developed as they will be, judging from development now going on, almost at the rate of the territories would be removed and independent statehood would then not only be possible, but very probable."

Mr. Tawney considers there are physical conditions which would make joint statehood impractical, and says that outside of the business men of Albuquerque who are of the opinion that city would be made the capital in case of joint statehood, there is an overwhelming sentiment in the two territories against joint statehood, as it is believed that the territories could be better developed under government than state control.

TRIPLE SOMERSAULT IS TUMBLER'S FEAT

Journal Special Service. New York, Oct. 24.—Dan O'Brien, a tumbler, achieved the ambition of his life at the Hippodrome yesterday when he executed a triple somersault from a springboard. The feat has never been accomplished before a lay audience.

It has caused the death of a man, but O'Brien escaped with nothing worse than strained muscles. O'Brien has spent his life leaping over elephants and camels, and he claims the record double-somersault distance of thirty-two feet. After completing the triple turn he said: "I lost all brain sense after the second turn and expected to land on my head or on the back of my neck, but I am content with the 'double' hereafter."

CANAL MAY BE DUG BY PRIVATE CONTRACT

Journal Special Service. Washington, Oct. 24.—Most of the important construction of the Panama canal may be done by private contract. The government is now seriously considering the adoption of this plan.

While a final decision has not yet been reached, it is almost certain that those portions of the canal which are to be cut in Culabra cut will be let to individuals or corporations. It was learned today on the authority of Secretary Taft that the government would prefer that the work shall be done by contract, if there are assurances that responsible contractors will take the job out of the hands of the government.

HAWAIIAN PLANTERS FIGHT SUGAR TRUST

PRESIDENT WANTS NEGRO PORTFOLIO

New Department of Government, to Take Charge of Insular Affairs, to Be Urged.

Journal Special Service. Washington, Oct. 24.—President Roosevelt's message to congress there will be, almost unquestionably, a recommendation that a new department be established to take charge of the country's insular possessions. If congress acts favorably this will mean a new cabinet officer and the removal of the insular affairs from the war department's bureau of insular affairs. He is an Ohio man, a protégé of McKinley and Hanna in the old days, and is said to be well liked by the president.

The hardest work has fallen on the war department thru its bureau of insular affairs. All the departments affected are earnestly in favor of a change which will bring relief. Gossip already names the man for the new place, if it is created. He is Colonel Clarence R. Edwards, chief of the war department's bureau of insular affairs. He is an Ohio man, a protégé of McKinley and Hanna in the old days, and is said to be well liked by the president.

NEWSPAPERS WILL BE COLLEGE TEXTBOOKS

Journal Special Service. Chicago, Oct. 24.—Newspapers have been ranked as a textbook at Northwestern university and hereafter students in the American history class of professor J. A. James must come to the recitation room to answer questions on the news of the day.

In the course of his lectures Professor James referred to an article which appeared in a morning paper yesterday. Upon questioning one of the members of the class, he found that the student was not prepared to discuss current news, and an examination of the class showed that but two of the members had read a morning paper.

"This will never do," said the professor. "Hereafter I shall expect you to have an accurate knowledge of current events as chronicled each day in the newspapers, and I shall consider it fully as important as the daily lessons assigned from the textbook. Newspaper are nothing more nor less than the latest edition of history, and students should read them with as much care as they do the prescribed textbooks."

Mr. Medina was also informed that another American warship had captured from a French steamer on the southern side of the island of Santo Domingo another shipment of war supplies.

TORONTO DREAMER HAS A BAD NIGHTHORSE

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Was Dan Patch stolen? There is a man in Toronto today who asserts that he was the owner of the horse which was stolen from Port Arthur. He has interviewed Crown Attorney Drayton and Crown Attorney Curry and yesterday afternoon he was interviewed by a general, who is considering his case.

Thompson says that nine years ago he owned Dan Patch and turned him over to another person to be trained. His stable was burned and horses and other contents consumed in the fire. Subsequently Thompson ascertained that his sulky and been sold in one place and another, and he has since reached the conclusion that his horse had been stolen. He claims to have the pedigree of Dan Patch in his possession.

Canada's strong wares must be working well this fall. Dan Patch has had three owners—his breeder, Mr. Sturgis and M. W. Savage. At the time the Port Arthur man says Dan was stolen, the king of the pacers-to-be was a sucking colt in a stall in a barn on the farm, now, and even at Port Arthur—where he do strange things—they do not train sucking colts for the track. The Toronto man evidently has another guess coming to him.

Grant, and a band of music under the direction of Alexander Davidson, is a feature of the meetings.

NEGRO HONOR PRESIDENT

who have done such heroic work in the south in arousing public opinion against lawlessness in all its forms, and especially against lynching. I very earnestly hope that their example will count in the north as well as in the south, for there are just as great evils to be removed in one region of our country as in another, and they are not in all places the same evils. And when anybody in a community stands up for the right, he is doing more than merely serve a useful purpose in doing the particular task to which they set themselves, but give a lift to the cause of good citizenship throughout the union.

Loyal Support of Whites. "I heartily appreciate what you have done at Tuskegee, and I am sure you will not grudge me saying that it could not possibly have been done save for the loyal support you have received from the white people round about, for during the twelve years of your stay to educate the black man here in the midst of a white community of intelligence and culture, there has never been an outbreak between the races or any difficulty of any kind. I honor you for the white men of Alabama, to the white men of Tuskegee, for what they have done."

And right here let me say that if in any community there is any understanding between the races arises, over any matter, infinitely the best way out is to have a prompt, frank and full conference and consultation between representatives of the white and colored-headed men among the whites, and the wise, decent, cool-headed colored men. Such a conference will always tend to bring about a better understanding and will be a great help all around.

Obligations of the Negro. "Hitherto I have spoken chiefly of the obligations existing on the part of the colored man, but I must not forget on the other hand that no help can permanently avail you, save as you yourselves develop capacity for self-help."

You young colored men and women, educated at Tuskegee, must by precept and example lead your fellows toward sober, industrious, law-abiding lives. You are in honor bound to join hands in favor of law and order, to stand against all crime, and especially against all crime by men of your own race, for the heaviest wrong done by the criminals is the wrong to his own race. You are nothing more nor less than the best of the colored man, and you must scrupulously observe any contract into which they in good faith enter, no matter whether it is hard to keep. You must save money, seek good homes and lead a moral, upright life, and you will win the respect of your neighbors of both races. Let each man strive to excel his fellows in every respect, and give substantial service to the community, in which he lives.

Policy to Be Pursued. "The colored people have many difficulties to pass thru, but these difficulties are not insurmountable. The policy of reason and compromise is pursued. You have made real and great progress. According to the census the colored people are now paying taxes upon something like three hundred million dollars worth of property and have blotted out over 50 per cent of the illiteracy. What you have done in the past is an indication of what you will be able to accomplish in the future under wise leadership."

ton with the rest of Miss Roosevelt's baggage in bond. This course was suggested by Deputy Collector Charles Stephens who received the travelers as the representative of Collector of the Port Stratton. From what the officials have learned, the duty on the things Miss Roosevelt brought from the orient outside of the $100 worth exempted by law, will not amount to $20.

Probably the most interesting events of Miss Roosevelt's trip were the visits at Tokio and Peking to the rulers of Japan and China. In each case Miss Roosevelt and her friends were the first American women who had been received, as they were, by the dowager empress of China or by the mikado. They were entertained in halls thru which never before had rung the sound of high heels tapping on polished oak, and in each case were guests of figures filling romantic places in the history of the world.

Silent as a Rockhill. Of the alleged intention of United States Minister Rockhill, no member of the party would speak. Cruz Herrera, the president of the municipal council of Manila, who made insulting reference to the women of America at a banquet to the Taft party, has resigned and Miss Roosevelt and her friends are willing to forget him.

At Honolulu, on the way to the orient, Miss Roosevelt had the time of her life. While at the island port she was introduced to the delights of surf riding and the new sport pleased her so well that she had been anybody else the Manchuria would have gone way without her. She oversteered her "liberty" until after the liner had left the wharf and the big ship had to wait until Miss Roosevelt arrived alongside on a government run.

The Sultan and the Tariff. When the sultan of Sulu greeted the party he wore an $18,000 uniform imported for the occasion from Paris. The sultan paid no duty on this uniform. The uniform was demanded, the sultan refused to pay. The customs authorities insisted.

"All right," said the sultan. "Keep the uniform. Understand, however, that unless I was paid the highest for nothing at the Taft reception. Nothing suits me. I am used to it. It may startle the Americans, however."

Rode Like a Trooper. The sultan of Sulu presented Miss Roosevelt with a pearl and with a saddle of beaded wood.

The long, rough journey from Malabang to Lake Lanao was made on horseback. Some of the men wore the saddle and took spells in the wagon which accompanied the party, but Miss Roosevelt, who rides like a trooper, rode in the saddle every foot of the way, during the tropical sun to do its worst.

CHANGE IN COUNTY SEAT MUST BE MADE. Special to the Journal. Pierre, S. D., Oct. 24.—The supreme court handed down several important decisions today. Among them is the decision of the supreme court on the circuit court is affirmed and the county seat goes back to Bangor.

This seat was contested, and after an arduous vote the decision of Selby took possession of the records and the old county building was torn down.

In the case of H. L. Hubbard, decision is reversed from the time of the trial. Hubbard was found guilty of the murder of William Calkins and he is granted a new trial.

SUICIDAL COMPACT HAS ITS PARALLELS. There is a complaint that in introducing his new play, "A Race for Life," which is now on at the Bijou, the author, a terrible suicidal compact as the one made between the California ranchman, Austin Seymour, and his murderous and implacable enemy and chief creditor, John Hunter, Mr. Seymour has exceeded the broad limitations of melodramatic license.

Mr. Kremer introduces Seymour as an almost hopelessly involved cattle raiser, solely dependent upon his neighbor, John Hunter, for the means of living. Hunter also has a horse entered, and is the owner of a heavy mortgage on Seymour's ranch. The way in his attempts to poison "Our Jessie," to blow up with dynamite the car in which she is stabled, he induces Seymour to wager his life insurance policy against the mortgage named, and the race; furthermore, solemnly obligates himself to commit suicide in case he loses, and in such a manner that it will appear to be the result of pure accident, so that no objection to paying the face value of the policy to Hunter will be interposed by the insurance company.

All of which is abominably harrowing, ridiculously pathetic, and preposterously melodramatic, to be sure, but for which Mr. Kremer, nevertheless, has ample justification in recent precedents from real life. Two instances may be cited.

Not long since the press teemed with the details connected with the deliberate and carefully planned self-murder of one of the foremost captains of industry in the south, who sacrificed himself in order that the immense life insurance he carried might be applied to the payment of claims. A more recent case was that of a highly respectable merchant of Brooklyn, N. Y., who shot himself in order that the immense children could collect his insurance of $50,000, the next premium on which, due in four days, he would have been unable to pay. He left a letter from which the following is an excerpt: "The next premium on my $50,000 insurance policy comes due July 29. I haven't the money to pay the premium. I am unable to stand the strain of my financial reverses and I am afraid that I am going crazy. By dying I will leave you better off. Run stores me in the face. But this insurance policy will pay for my funeral. I shall be able to pay the world to pay the premium. Tom."
