$40 A MONTH IS STUDENTS' LIMIT

UNIVERSITY COUNCIL FIXES MAXIMUM STIPEND.

More Cannot Be Derived from Work on Any University Publications and Enterprises—Other Radical Restrictions on Student Projects Arouse Campus Criticism.

Forty dollars a month is the maximum stipend which a student of the University of Minnesota can earn by work on any of the different university publications and enterprises.

At the meeting of the university council, the faculty governing board, yesterday, a report by the faculty auditing committee was submitted and adopted by the council.

In addition to these regulations, the council has decided that the privileges of advertising in programs or publications cannot be disposed of to persons outside the university.

Rules adopted by the council at the suggestion of the auditing committee were expected by the university students, but it was not thought that the faculty would go far in conferring authority upon the faculty and student auditing board, and a great deal of criticism is being heard on the campus.

The student members of the board were elected with the understanding that they were to act on an auditing board which would audit the accounts of the university enterprises and many of the students feel that the board conferred on the board to disapprove and prevent any student enterprise seeking financial patronage is not in line with the purpose for which the board was established.

MAKES FORESTERS

Pennsylvania Forest Academy at Mont Alto Visited by Gen. C. C. Andrews.

"On my way back from Gettysburg I visited the Pennsylvania Forest Academy at Mont Alto, in the forest of the South Mountain forest reserve," said General C. C. Andrews today.

Pennsylvania has now 700,000 acres of forest reserves of various kinds, which are being yearly increased by additional purchases, and to have trained foresters for their proper care the state has established the academy, under the immediate charge of George H. Wirt, the state forester, who obtained his forest training at Biltmore, and in Germany.

Only Pennsylvania boys between 17 and 25 years of age are admitted to the academy. Tuition, books, stationery, board and lodging are free, the student paying for them by manual labor in the forest.

Woman Says Big Beast Stole Her Watch and Hat.

Journal Special Service. Poplar Bluffs, Mo., Oct. 24.—Warrants were served today on John C. Robinson, a circus manager, and "Tip," one of his elephants, charging the theft of an $800 diamond-set gold watch and the destruction of a costly hat. Mrs. Ella Goltz, of Fortsned, Ohio, visiting relatives here, was feeding Tip peanuts, when the big pet snatched her watch and swallowed it and also made a luncheon of her bonnet.

U. V. U. COMING

Annual Reunion Will Be Held in Minneapolis Next Year.

Minneapolis will be the next meeting place of the Union Veterans union, which just closed its annual reunion at Springfield, Ill. The date has not been decided, but it will be in the same week as the national encampment of the G. A. R.

The union is a political organization pure and simple, and is in no sense a rival of the G. A. R., as many supposed. At the late convention the union adopted resolutions making sons and grandsons of veterans eligible to the organization on arriving at voting age. The meeting of the Denver encampment of the G. A. R. in endorsing service pensions and the proposition to exempt civil war veterans from civil service examinations was approved.

ADOPTS UNIQUE CALLING

MRS. FRANK S. ALLEN, FORMER PRESIDENT OF MINNESOTA FEDERATION, WILL BE "HOUSE-MOTHER."

When Mrs. Frank S. Allen, the retiring president of the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs referred last week in her convention address to the profession she was soon to enter, her audience of club women assumed that she intended to return to her former occupation as a teacher, but a subsequent talk with Mrs. Allen by a Journal woman discovers a quite different intent and one that will doubtless arouse much interest.

In one instance she was of the most domestic tastes, to whom her home was a kingdom from which nothing could tempt her, except temporarily. When the necessity of homemaking was forced upon her by the death of her husband, Mrs. Allen was reluctant to transplant her labors to another and less congenial field. After much consideration she decided that homemaking was really very much needed, and that she would be a homemaker for others who lacked such service. Therefore, Mrs. Allen is to become a housemother, and she will exercise her talent for house management in homes where the mother is absent or incapacitated.

During the summer Mrs. Allen has put her idea to the test and the result has been all that she hoped. She found the work interesting, varied and congenial, and had the satisfaction of feeling that she was performing much appreciated service. One instance she went on the briefest notice into a home where the mother had suddenly had an opportunity to take a six-weeks' vacation if she could have her home properly provided for. A family of three lively children with a genius for going through their clothes made this experience an active one. In this family a sum of money was placed in her hands to cover all household expenses, and she paid for everything as she went along, rendering an account weekly to the head of the house. At another place, where she spent a month, Mrs. Allen planned every detail of the living and purchased all supplies, but sent all bills to the head of the house, who paid them by check. This was a case where the housemother stepped into the labors of a mother who was ill.

Mrs. Allen has a cosy home at Dodge Center, with which she is loathe to part, and she will keep this as her home during her periods of rest between engagements, and as her headquarters.

ONE-LEGGED ACROBAT IS A CHEERFUL MAN

Tom Heffron, the versatile entertainer at the Unique this week, is one of those happy mortals who derive pleasure from misfortunes. Compelled because of a terrible accident to go through a year of tear about it. "What's the use of crying over spilled milk?" he says with a laugh. "I'm like the girl who had a one-legged sweetheart. When her friends would poke fun at her, she would say, 'I've no use for two-legged men, they're so common.'"

Heffron's good nature is the wonder of all who know him, and it is the more remarkable because he still suffers spasms of pain in the stump which he uses so skillfully. "People have a morbid desire to note misfortunes and make remarks about it," he says. "When I'm speaking of my vaudeville career on one leg. 'But I do not mind it any more. Some ask me questions out of foolish curiosity, others are genuinely sorry for me, and still others want to know the details regarding the sensations and trials of a man going about on one leg.'"

"You see there a great many advantages in not having to lug an extra leg about. Oh, it looks better to have two! I know, but think of the inconvenience at times! For example, if you have to wait on a cold corner for a car, you have only one foot to get cold instead of two. Another thing, if you are going for you to kick somebody, you can lead at him with your wooden member with much greater confidence and to better advantage. Then it is cheaper to have only one leg. It doesn't cost so much for shoes and stockings."

"When I was playing at the Unique last season, some kind woman gave me a rubber shield for my wooden member. In a polite note she told how much she had enjoyed the novelty of my act, and closed by describing how slippery the sidewalks were in Minneapolis some times, and hoped the shield she enclosed would prevent me from falling down and losing my last and only leg."

NEW HOSPITAL BUILDING

Norwegian Lutheran Synod Will Enlarge St. Paul Institution.

Luther hospital, Tenth and John streets, St. Paul, having outgrown its present quarters, is to be enlarged by the erection of a new building to cost upwards of $100,000. The Norwegian Lutheran synod is back of the institution and there is no question, but that the improvements will be made. A meeting of the board of directors will be held tomorrow evening to examine plans and discuss methods of obtaining funds.

It is proposed to dispose of the present building and the land, but if a satisfactory price can not be obtained, the old building will be torn down and a large modern hospital erected on the site. It is proposed to provide for about 300 beds in the new building.

After the Ball. When I wake up in the morning, After a night at the ball, And my eyelids are swollen and heavy, My cheeks have no color at all, I know what will relieve me, Make me feel fresh and bright, 'Tis Essence of Benzoin, believe me, Without it I'd look like a fright.

On rising in the morning apply Essence of Benzoin to the face, neck, shoulders and arms; then use clear water preferably cool or cold; wipe dry and note results. The Essence is far more cleansing than any soap made and its daily use renders the use of soap unnecessary for the toilet. Essence of Benzoin is in a class by itself, it is unlike any other preparation for chapped and rough skin, itching humors and is superior to any other remedy offered. Try it on its merits. Druggists and department stores.

—George E. Higgins & Co., Minneapolis. Mrs. Chas. Smith, of James, Ohio, writes: "I have used every remedy for sick headaches I could hear of for the past fifteen years, but Carter's Little Liver Pills did me more good than all the rest."

CONDUCTOR STRIKES

HEAD ON IRON POLE

E. Etchison, a conductor on a First avenue streetcar, struck his head against a trolley pole at Nicollet avenue and Twenty-seventh street yesterday afternoon and was seriously injured. The tracks are being repaired at that point and a temporary crossover track has been laid. As the car was pulling over this, Etchison looked out and his head struck the pole. He fell unconscious to the platform and passengers took him to Dr. W. H. Hallowell's office at 101 E. Twenty-seventh street. He was later removed to his home, 3120 Blaisdell avenue. The physicians say he will recover.

ANOTHER RECORD SMASHED

106,841 Barrels of Flour Were Shipped Out Yesterday.

Flour shipments yesterday, again broke all records, running to the immense total of 106,841 barrels. This represents in part the Sunday grind. This is the fourth day this season that the daily shipments have been 100,000 barrels, and on ten different days the figures ran between 92,000 and 98,000 barrels. Nothing like this continuous heavy movement was ever before known.

The flour loading yesterday, on the conservative estimate of 4.7 bushels of wheat per barrel, represents over 500,000 bushels of wheat. This enormous consumption by the mills explains why, with a big crop and larger movement of wheat to market, local elevator stocks have not increased and are now no larger than a year ago.

OBJECT TO FIELD

Property Owners Secure Temporary Injunction Postponing Proceedings.

A temporary injunction restraining Mayor Robert A. Smith of St. Paul from signing the ordinance vacating a portion of Wesley avenue for the enlargement of Hamline athletic field has been issued by Judge Hallam. The injunction is based on the allegations of Martha C. Clark, Ella M. Clark and Ida Closson, property owners on Wesley avenue, who declare that their property will be irreparably ruined if the street is vacated. They contend that the proceedings are irregular in that the petition for the vacation was not signed by a sufficient number of property owners to make it valid.
