WOMAN CHURCH LEADER A FORGER

Los Angeles Girl, Confessed Law-Breaker, Asks Prison Term.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 27.—Miss Ruby Coleman, a handsome young woman prominent in church affairs, declared her intention of entering a plea guilty to each of four charges of forgery and taking her punishment, whatever it may be. She says she hopes she will be sent to the penitentiary. The case is one of the most peculiar in the criminal annals of this county. Six weeks ago the young woman is arrested and positively identified the person who had cashed a dozen more forged checks by impersonating the wives of various prominent citizens, her numerous friends rushed her rescue, refusing to believe that she had been guilty of such a series of crimes. Her forgeries aggregated more than $1,000 and throughout the time she was thus getting money feloniously she was engaged in church work, helping the poor, teaching a Sunday school class and otherwise conducting herself as a devoutly religious woman. It was believed and is still believed that there was a man in the case, who took the money, but Miss Coleman refused to talk on this element of the case and would say nothing about the matter even to the several attorneys on her friends retained for her. Today, overcome by remorse and unable to longer maintain the false attitude which she had assumed, she broke down and confessed not only the forgeries which had been charged against her, but a number of others of which the police knew nothing. She says she fully realizes her position and is determined to go to the penitentiary. When asked why she committed the crimes she replies simply that she could not resist the temptation. She refuses to tell what she did with the money.

PAINTS HENS GREEN; "THEY LAY BETTER"

South Orange, N. J., Oct. 27.—P. J. Walsh, who keeps the Hunters' Rest at South Orange and Munn avenue, has painted his flock of chickens green. Until a few days ago they were of the ordinary motley in which nature garbs the common garden fowl. But Mr. Walsh noticed that they had a way of vanishing into the bush, and he quickly concluded that to paint the birds green might save their lives for a while. "I've painted them," Mr. Walsh confessed today. "You see, the grass is turning brown now and the leaves are turning red; so I can spot my chickens as far off as I can see 'em. There's no danger of having them absorbed by some conscienceless gallinophagist, and, moreover, I'll tell you a queer thing; My colored hens lay much fresher eggs than any other hens in the neighborhood." "Why?" he was asked. "Because they're so green," said Mr. Walsh, solemnly. Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

TOILED 24 YEARS; SCORNS A LEGACY

Gray-Haired Servant Accepts Late Mistress' Bequest Under Protest.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—It takes more than a $15,000 legacy to disturb the equanimity of Miss Ellen Devaney, a gray-haired servant employed for twenty-four years by the late Mrs. A. C. McClurg. Despite the fact that she is now comparatively wealthy, Miss Devaney will not relinquish her sway over the household at the residence on the Lake Shore drive. When the will of the late Mrs. McClurg was filed for probate in Judge Cutting's court it was found that Miss Devaney had been left $15,000 in recognition of faithful care of Mrs. McClurg's son, Ogden. The money is to be held in trust for her and she is to receive the income. "And what should an old woman like me be wanting of so much money?" said Miss Devaney, when the good news was brought to her. "I have always had enough and to spare, haven't I? But it was the will of the good mistress and I will take it." "Of course you will give up working and take a nice little house for yourself," suggested a friend. "Indeed, and I won't," responded Miss Devaney. "How could I rest easy, knowing that the mansion was kept by strangers?"

So Miss Devaney will remain, to keep a critical eye upon the work of everyone from the butler to the hall boy. When she dies, one-third of the amount of the legacy will be given to her relatives and the other two-thirds will be returned to a friend.
