Grooping about the bed she searched for the child until choking smoke compelled her to seek the air. A second time she dashed into the room to search for the child, but without success. Mrs. Bishop found the child lying on the floor near the door, where she had crawled before the flames. The burning wood overcame her. She caught the child up in her arms and staggered to the kitchen door, falling across the threshold in a dead faint.

FAMOUS KANSAN OF BORDER DAYS DEAD Buckle Arctics. Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 30.—Rev. H. D. Fisher, who died yesterday at Baldwin, Kans., was one of the most famous characters produced by the trying days of the border warfare in Kansas and the subsequent four years of civil war. Because of his activity as a free state man and his association with United States Senator Jim Lane, Rev. Mr. Fisher was marked by the Quantrell band, and his escape from capture and death during the Lawrence massacre, is one of the most thrilling and remarkable incidents of that affair. "Dr. Fisher was one of the few men who ever refused a United States senatorship. When Senator Lane committed suicide, Governor Crawford announced his intention of appointing Dr. Fisher to fill the vacancy. Later Dr. Fisher said in relating his reasons for refusing the offer: "My wife and I were in the city before God was made. The decision was against accepting the appointment."

WHY DOCTORS FAIL AND MRS. PINKHAM SUCCEEDS. Plain Reasons Are Here Given to Explain Why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cures When Doctors Are Powerless. A woman is sick; some disease peculiar to her sex is fast developing in her system. She goes to her family physician and tells him a story, but not the whole story. She holds something back, loses her head, becomes agitated, forgets what she wants to say, and finally conceals what she ought to have told, and thus completely mystifies the doctor. Is it any wonder, therefore, that the doctors fail to cure the disease? Still we cannot blame the woman, for it is very embarrassing to detail some of the symptoms of her suffering, even to her family physician. It was for this reason that years ago Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., determined to step in and help her sex. Having had considerable experience in treating female ills with her Vegetable Compound, she encouraged the women of America to write to her for advice in regard to their complaints, and being a woman, it was easy for her to understand the matter of officers and enlisted men. Shortage of 7,000 Men. At this time, according to the Army and Navy Journal, there is a shortage of 7,000 men in the regular personnel of the navy, and unless provision is made by the fifty-ninth congress for this increase in force, several ships will have to go out of commission. It is stated by the same authority that "should war break out under the present conditions, there would be just about half enough officers and men to man the ships of the country properly, and the trained vessels cannot be expected to do creditable work."
