

WORKING WOMEN'S UPLIFT, HER AIM

Mrs. Craigie Comes to America for a Lecture Tour—Our Literature Unreal.

New York Herald Special Service. New York, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Pearl Mary Theresa Craigie, better known to the Americans as John Oliver Hobbes, distinguished author and lecturer on topics relating to the advancement of women, arrived today on the Cunard liner Campania after a rough passage. Mrs. Craigie, who has been absent from this country nearly ten years, talked interestingly on the subject nearest her heart, which is the material advancement of the condition of working women.

"Women are better understood in England today," said Mrs. Craigie, "than they have been for years. We do not advocate any radical changes in the suffrage of women. In a talk before the Chadwick club in London she spoke strongly against the proposition to allow women to sit on juries, for instance. The Chadwick club agreed with me, and none of its members voted in favor of permitting women to meddle in the judiciary.

"I shall undoubtedly have many talks before working girls' clubs during my stay in America. Their members understand everything that is told them. In fact, I might say they are keener in their comprehension than any other class of women."

Critiques Our Literature. Of American literature, Mrs. Craigie said that she regretted to state that it had not advanced toward perfection. "American literature is not today what it was in the days of Henry James and when Howells was popular with the American readers," she said. "I call the fiction that we get from this side today intentionally unreal. The style of literature that I most admire is that of James Lane Allen, author of 'The Country Boy.' Literature lost much in the death of Mr. Norris, who was one of the really great minds in literature."

Mrs. Craigie declared that the literary profession is more than one clique. Correll, she said, has a large and loyal following. "The English critics," said Mrs. Craigie, "are unfair to American authors, playwrights and plays. They booby William Gillette unmercifully. But fortunately no one takes the English critics seriously. They cat-called Irving's Shaksperian productions and practically hounded Irving out of London. So the fiction that we get from this side today intentionally unreal. The style of literature that I most admire is that of James Lane Allen, author of 'The Country Boy.' Literature lost much in the death of Mr. Norris, who was one of the really great minds in literature."

LIQUOR CRUSADE HITS KANSAS ELKS

Assistant Attorney General Seeks Warrants Against 465 Brethren.

By Publishers' Press. Kansas City, Kan., Nov. 11.—A new move was made today in the fight made against the "joinks" in Kansas City, Kan., by W. H. McCamish, assistant attorney-general for Wyandotte county, when he asked for warrants for the arrest of 465 members of the Elks lodge of Kansas City, Kan.

The specific charge made against the Elks members is being partners in the business of selling and distributing liquors. Among the Elks against whom warrants have been issued are nearly all the city officials of Kansas City, Kan., and the county officials of Wyandotte county.

Mr. McCamish also asked an injunction against the Elks lodge. The charge made is that the Elks lodge is "selling, giving away or otherwise disposing of liquors." The application for the injunction was made to Judge W. G. Holt of the court of common pleas, who granted the injunction.

Mr. McCamish says he will have search and seizure warrants issued in serving the injunctions, if necessary. Aside from the city and county officials, hundreds of the most prominent business and professional men are members of the Elks lodge.

PHONE MEN AT BANQUET

Officers of Northwestern Company Gather at Nicollet Hotel.

Officers of the Northwestern Telephone Exchange company and its related companies, who have been holding a council in Minneapolis for the last three days, concluded their sessions with a banquet at the Nicollet hotel last night. The dinner was a very pleasant one and the evening was passed pleasantly.

President H. J. Pettengill of the Northwestern, presided at the banquet. There was no formal program of speeches, but the presiding officer called for a number of extempore displays of oratory. The first speaker was singled out were C. P. Wainman, vice president of the Northwestern, Albert C. Cobb, Harry Hoke, superintendent of telegraph for the Omaha railway, C. M. Mousseau, assistant general manager of the Northwestern, J. L. W. Zietlow of Aberdeen, S. D., president of the Dakota Telephone company, and W. W. Mulford of Chicago.

President Pettengill said that the convention, the first of its kind in the history of the company, has been a marked success and will probably be repeated next year.

AUTO-TRAP MAPS TO CHECK POLICE

War Between Motorists and the Police Goes Merrily On in England.

New York Herald Special Service. London, Nov. 11.—War between the automobilists and the police goes on as determinedly as ever, the Automobile Association is outwitting the witness of the police with all their cunningly laid traps. Members of the association will, when a new scheme is perfected, be able to produce a weekly list containing the latest and most complete information relating to the police automobile traps on important roads extending on an average sixty miles from London on each road.

The weekly list will be as up to date as any market report, and infinitely more valuable to automobilists. A charge of 10 shillings a year will be made to members toward all the expenses of postage and printing and all other expenses will be covered by the annual subscription of 2 guineas to the association.

"The aim of the association," says the secretary, "is to extend its system to every highway in the kingdom. I believe that automobilists should be controlled by trained patrols, just as the position in garrisons and harbor towns are controlled by their own comrades in the form of pickets.

"The road hog will soon become extinct under the new regime, but he is not yet extinct, he is checked by patrols wherever he goes." The police have hit upon a new plan to worry their enemies. It is ruled that, just as convicts or ticket-of-leave men are sent to work on the roads, so must automobilists notify the police immediately they make any change of address.

CONTESTING MYRAN WILL

WIDOW OF FORMER STATE SENATOR IN LEGAL BATTLE WITH STEPCHILDREN.

The widow and children of the late Ole H. Myran of Ada, Minn., who died at Los Angeles, Nov. 3, are at swords' points. At the funeral a son, Nordell, and a daughter, Mrs. Mattie Livingstone of Los Angeles, would not speak to their stepmother, who has led an unhappy life since her marriage six years ago.

"The will as filed for probate cuts Mrs. Myran off with nothing but the household furniture. She will contest it, and alleges that a later will leaving her the larger portion of the estate has been hidden, and that valuable securities belonging to her husband have been removed from a safety deposit vault. She was not permitted to see her husband before his death. The son, Nordell, stood at the door and refused her admission to the house, and she is likely to live two days longer, she went away, and in three hours he was dead.

Ole H. Myran was a prominent business man of Ada for a number of years and was a state senator from Norman, Red Lake and Beltrami counties from 1899 to 1903. He suffered for some years from asthma and Bright's disease, and was obliged to spend about his time in California. His second wife before her marriage was Catherine Weizel, who is said by the Los Angeles papers to be a rather attractive woman, refined in appearance and well educated.

There are six children from the first marriage, Albert Myran, now in charge of his father's business at Ada, and Mattie, now Mrs. Livingstone of Los Angeles; Nordell, Clarence, Erwin and Ailsa.

FAMILY REUNITED

After Many Trials the Meshbeshers Are Together in Minneapolis.

After a separation of nearly a year and the suffering of many misfortunes, the family of Hirsh Meshbesh, formerly of Russia, was reunited at the Minneapolis union station yesterday. A year ago Mr. Meshbesh, with his oldest daughter started for America, intending to send for Mrs. Meshbesh and the other children as soon as he could earn the money. Last spring he sent for her but while on their way to America they were all stricken with typhoid and when the ship arrived at Quebec the immigration officials declared them unfit to enter the country and threatened deportation. Minneapolis friends of Mr. Meshbesh interfered and the wife and children were allowed to stay in quarantine at Quebec. Last spring Mrs. Meshbesh and her daughter were able to come to Minneapolis and yesterday two more children arrived. Now, with the exception of one daughter, the family is reunited. The one who is recovering rapidly and will be able to come in another month.

PAINTINGS AT CAPITOL

Artists Simmons is Superintending Work of Placing Huge Panels.

The work of placing the four large paintings on the high walls of the rotunda of the capitol at St. Paul began yesterday. These paintings fit in panels left for them, and are on a level with the third floor. Two paintings were placed yesterday. "Wisdom Banishing Savagery," and "Wisdom as Minnesota. Distributing Her Products." Today will see the placing of the picture "Wisdom Breaking Through the Fog." Tomorrow the last picture will be hung. "The American Genius Guided by Wisdom." Following "Hope." The paintings are by Edward E. Simmons of New York city and were selected by sum in Paris after two years labor. He is in St. Paul in person directing the hanging of the pictures by Charles Hesselbach, the New York expert.

INDIAN SUMMER TODAY

That is Outlook According to Marks in Weather Map.

ROYAL ARCANUM WINNER RESULTS OF LITIGATION AT DIFFERENT POINTS FAVOR ORDER IN MOST CASES.

Results of litigation brought thus far to restrain the Royal Arcanum from putting its new rules into effect have been announced in the case of the first five suits. As outlined by G. T. Hughes, grand secretary of the Minnesota council, they are: In Ontario, Canada, decision emphatically in favor of the order.

In Nashville, Tenn., United States Court—A substantial victory for the order and an authoritative decision upholding the legality of the action taken by the supreme council.

In Nebraska State Court—Temporary injunction refused. Case for trial next spring.

In Portsmouth, Ohio, state court. Temporary injunction refused thus far; further action to be taken.

In Brooklyn, N. Y., state court. Temporary injunction refused. No action has been begun in Massachusetts. Under the laws of that state a suit can be brought only in the name of the attorney general. Application has been made to him and he has given a hearing to the interested parties; this probably gave rise to a report that suit had been brought.

Mr. Hughes reports that the membership of the order shows a reduction from suspensions and death, from June 30 to Oct. 31, of 32,758, as compared with 3,618 in the same time last year. Many suspended members have applied for reinstatement, and Mr. Hughes says that 111 new recruits were received by the supreme secretary in October.

ACCUSED OF CARRYING AWAY STORM WINDOWS

Tom Taylor, a negro living in the old Barrett house in the district known in the past as 'hell's half acre,' was arrested last night on the unusual charge of stealing storm windows from the house, which is on Fifty-seventh street. He will be charged with petty larceny.

Tom's new-fangled fad was discovered and reported to the police about midnight. When Detective Hehn and Hunigan Society Officer Bean went to pick up the accused they found the alleged purloiner of storm sash in the act of carrying away a window. A search of the premises revealed one of the stolen sashes and the officers arrested Taylor at the house. Thomas with them. He refused to do street attire, and they took him without.

At Fifth street and Third avenue, where a crowd was coming from dance the prisoner made a desperate attempt to escape, but succeeded only in attracting some attention from the crowd. He was given a cell in the lockup.

APPROVES CLOSING ORDER

Manitoban Says He'll Stop in Minneapolis After This.

Among the many interesting letters received by Mayor Jones as to his order closing the saloons on Sunday, is the following from a merchant at Deloraine, Manitoba:

"Dear Mr. Jones—Blessing on you, Mayor Jones, for your genuine grit and determination in fighting the whisky combine of your city. The writer noticed an article in our Winnipeg Free Press of the 10th inst. about the whisky fraternity, bemoaning the amount of money that is taken over from Minneapolis and transferred to St. Paul last Sunday.

"From the writer's knowledge of Minneapolis it is a fact that much money twice a week for the advertisement thru the world that it will give your city for cleanliness, order and decency. The outsider looking for a place to make a home to take his boys and girls will be very liable to give St. Paul a cold shoulder, that is if the man has any moral decency about himself, and he will when it comes to the question of their own children.

"In future, when on business or on a trip east, I will arrange if possible to spend a day in a city over Sunday where the good decency of humanity is respected."

INTERESTS AUDIENCE

George A. Brackett Lectures on Pioneer Days and Alaskan Life.

George A. Brackett delivered a lecture on pioneer days in Minnesota and life in Alaska before an audience of 300 or more at the Y. M. C. auditorium last night. His story was graphically illustrated by numerous stereoscopic views. The audience was fascinated by the vivid pictures of the struggles and hardships which made up the life of the early settlers in Minnesota and surprised by the wonders of the Alaskan country.

Mr. Brackett opened his lecture with an account of early days at Crookston and Mankato. He showed several pictures of the first building at the Falls of St. Anthony, of old Fort Snelling and of the Indians who were hanged at Mankato for their crimes in connection with the Indian outbreak.

His Alaskan pictures were also very interesting. Starting with scenes in the gold fields, he traced the whole course of the miner's work from the time the big hydraulic monitors washed the rich gravel into the flume to the final washing out in the miner's cabin. His views included pictures of the seal herds, the Muir glaciers and the icebergs in Glacier bay. The most startling pictures of the evening were those which showed the wonderful growth of poppies, nasturtiums and sweet peas in Mr. Brackett's Sitka garden and the vegetables shipped from Sitka to the Minnesota state fair.

THE WEEK IN CHICAGO

By Martha Anderson Wyman. Chicago, Ill., Nov. 10.—The Minneapolis colony in Hyde Park has recently been increased by the acquisition of at least for a season, of a family formerly prominent in Minneapolis society.

New Members. But now, rather than of any particular city, Mr. Lawrence Folds and Miss Folds have taken to heart the season in order to unite their family for that time. Charles W. Folds has been in Chicago for a number of years in the commercial paper business and has recently been made a partner in the eastern firm which he represents here.

Mr. Lawrence Folds, who came here more recently, has just received an appointment as a national bank examiner in the Chicago office. He is a native of the city and has been for a number of years connected with the Brooklyn rapid transit system going to Manhattan. He is a resident of the Brooklyn rapid transit system going to Manhattan. He is a resident of the Brooklyn rapid transit system going to Manhattan.

Another Hyde Park family, whose former connections were divided between Minneapolis and St. Paul, are the Von Wedelstaedt family. Miss Von Wedelstaedt keeps house for her brother, Dr. Bismarck von Wedelstaedt, in some charming new sets on Madison avenue near the city.

In the opinion of flower experts and of the public the much vaunted Mrs. Marshall Field rose, the Wellesley and the Killarney roses, are completely outshone by the new Minneapolis creation, the Best at the Show.

Munson of the Minneapolis Floral company was christened on Wednesday. The young lady at the show, was the cynosure of all eyes. Everybody interested in roses wanted a specimen flower and the huge bunch in many prices after the display. Neither the Miss Kates nor the Mrs. Marshall Field was entered in competition, so their relative value was not passed upon by the judges, but the Miss Kates, a much superior rose in form, size, foliage and length of stem and is notable for its keeping qualities, in this vying with the Mrs. Marshall Field.

The Mrs. Field and the Miss Moulton, with one or two others, in pedestal vases, occupied the places of honor in the display of the rose exhibit. The Miss Moulton roses were of a very delicate and graceful in their rather loose-leaved arrangement. The leaves are of a length of the American Beauty with a decided but delicate rose pink, deepening somewhat at the heart. From what learned, this rose is about the length of the American Beauty with a decided but delicate rose pink, deepening somewhat at the heart.

Curiously, all the important new roses shown were pink of a somewhat similar type. The other roses were quite as imposing and beautiful as had been predicted and the huge coliseum was completely filled with exhibiting the competing display in the center and the florists around the edge, their booths fringed with the individual plants and bouquets. The decorations of streamers of bunting and flags of southern sash with suspended roses, and many of the golden chrysanthemums were very fine.

The announcement that plans are being made in New York for a subscription to the "Theater" independent of the caprice indicates that the air is full of the independent theater idea whose aim is the elevation of the stage thru the betterment of public taste.

The local elections yielded results very satisfactory to citizens earnest in good government measures and in progress. The voters elected a board of good government, a board of public safety, a board of public works, a board of public health, a board of public education, a board of public safety, a board of public works, a board of public health, a board of public education.

The fourth triennial Council of Jewish Women will be held in Chicago, Dec. 10 to 13. The council was organized during the world's fair in 1893 by Mrs. Henry Solomon of Chicago.

INDICTED ON AN UNUSUAL CHARGE

Grand Jury Decides Prisoner Shall be Tried for Attempted Suicide.

Special to The Journal. Mankato, Minn., Nov. 11.—The Blue Earth county grand jury which was discharged today, brought an unusual charge of attempted suicide against James Gallagher. The latter will plead to the indictment Monday.

He made several attempts to kill himself when placed in jail last summer and has put the county to the expense of hiring an extra watchman ever since. He was locked up on the charge of attempting to burglarize at a local hotel. The grand jury returned eight indictments in all. Others indicted were Samuel Jacobson and George Monro, alias George M. Elliot, forgery second degree; John Kelly, Edward Ryan, Arthur Wilson and Thomas Conners, grand larceny second degree, and E. C. Heving, obtaining signature by false pretenses.

Monro pleaded guilty, but Jacobson retained attorneys. They were arrested at LaCrosse, Wis., this week, charged with victimizing two Mankato saloon men. All others will probably stand trial.

PICTURES IN PLACE

Art Exhibit in State Capitol Will Open Tomorrow.

The St. Paul Art Workers' Guild will open an art exhibit on the third floor of the state capitol tomorrow. The exhibit was put in place yesterday and includes about a hundred pictures. Miss Ellen Wheelock, president of the organization, is taking personal charge of the arrangements. Nearly all the paintings shown are portraits. Among them are two interesting lifelike portraits by N. R. Brewer of New York, one of Mrs. John A. Johnson, wife of the governor and the other of Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul.
