

MORGAN LIKELY TO OUST PERKINS

Wall Street Hears Rumor the Man of Two Jobs Will be Retired.

New York Herald Special Service.

New York, Nov. 25.—Following the disclosure brought out in the investigation of the $40,000 received by Perkins out of the profits of a loan of $930,000 made by the New York Life Insurance company to a Boston firm, there was a rumor in the financial district today that Mr. Perkins would retire from the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. on Jan. 1. An effort was made to see Mr. Morgan in regard to this rumor, but he was too busy to be seen. Later a note was sent to Mr. Perkins at the Morgan office asking him whether the rumor of his proposed retirement was true. Mr. Perkins read the note, tore it up and said that he had nothing to say. In the financial district it was conceded that the late developments in the recent insurance investigations had the effect of putting Perkins in a relatively the same position of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., as that occupied by former President Loomis in the National City bank, following the disclosures in the Montreal and Boston Copper scandal. It is alleged that Perkins has discredited Morgan & Co., as Loomis did the National City bank, and that now it is up to Perkins to clear the atmosphere.

Voluntarily sacrificing himself for the advantage of the Odell faction of the republican party with which he has been identified, Odell Scores in William Halpin, president of the republican county committee, today withdrew from the race for re-election and the Odell men threw their strength to Herbert Parsons, leader of the twenty-fifth assembly district, who was endorsed by Governor Higgins and was also satisfactory to President Roosevelt. The Odell men say Parsons will be elected by a good majority when the county committee meets next Monday for organization. This will be a defeat for Senator Platt's candidate, J. van Yechten Olcott, who, however, still remains in the race and today opened headquarters at the Gilsey house to push his campaign. Mr. Olcott claims 308 out of the 714 members of the committee, forty short. The Odell men assert that Parsons will have 435 and that 85 are still doubtful.

Mme. Marcel Journet, wife of an opera singer, who arrived on La Lorraine today, was the victim of thieves while on the passage over, being robbed of jewels valued at $3,000. The police as well as the customs officers are investigating.

Louis Dalrymple, a noted cartoonist, was taken today to a sanitarium on Long Island. He is insane, probably hopelessly. For weeks the artist's condition has been a source of grief to his friends.

Violently Insane Early this week he became violent. Yesterday afternoon he was found in a frenzy, chasing children about the streets in the neighborhood. Those who know Dalrymple's story are convinced that marital troubles affected his mind. Alimony demands were made upon him through a divorce suit and he brooded over an enforced exile from New York and an ever-growing desire to return here. About fifteen years ago Dalrymple, then forging to the front as a cartoonist for Puck, married Mrs. Lettia Carpenter, a pretty brunette of Brooklyn. Their life together was not happy. The wife obtained a divorce on statutory grounds. By the terms of the decree she was awarded their handsome home in Brooklyn, where she still lives. The court denied the husband the right to marry again in this state and ordered him to pay his wife $75 a month in weekly installments.

Several years later Dalrymple met Miss Mary Ann Good, an exceedingly attractive young woman, belonging to a good Baltimore family, who had come to New York on a visit. He eloped with her to Jersey and they were married there. But Dalrymple was compelled to go on paying his former wife $75 a month as long as he lived within the jurisdiction of the courts. He finally decided to leave New York.

Many discrepancies were found by the board of county canvassers today in their comparison of the official returns and the original tally sheets of the Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh assembly districts.

On Tally Sheets The most flagrant was that of the Fifteenth election district of the Twenty-sixth assembly, where it was discovered that the tally sheets gave William R. Hearst, the municipal ownership candidate, a vote of 195, whereas the official returns credited him with only 115 votes. This is the election district in which the grand jury investigated and indicted the whole board of election officials.

Rev. F. Lawrence of London, head of the Church Society for Promoting Kindness to Animals, arrived in New York today. Mr. Britons Seek Aid Lawrence has come to America for the express purpose of seeing President Roosevelt and endeavor to have the United States cooperate with England in furthering kindness to small dumb animals. "When America and the American people say things shall be done, they are done," he said. Bishop Henry C. Potter, who is now in London, is one of the patrons of the society and was one of the contributors to the fund to send Mr. Lawrence over here.

According to Pittsburgh dispatches, Charles M. Schwab is not satisfied with possessing a private car, but has arranged for the purchase of Pullman coaches. Mr. Schwab will be the first individual to own and operate such an expensive luxury as an entire train of cars.

Confirmation was had at the Equitable Life today that the society had disposed of its St. Louis building by leasing it for ninety-nine years. The property has netted the society less than $20,000 per annum for the last seven years, and it would have been necessary to spend a large sum of money in improving it. By the new lease the society more than doubles its income from the property, is relieved of all taxes, assessments and expenditures of every description, but retains title. The average yield of the property during the last ten years has been 2.15 per cent. Under the new lease it will be over 4 per cent on the same valuation.

KING HAAKON IN HISTORIC PALACE

Norway's New Rulers Take Up Their Abode in Beautiful Christiania Castle.

Special Cable to The Journal.

Christiania, Norway, Nov. 25.—Now that the state entry of King Haakon VII. and Queen Maud into Christiania has taken place, the new sovereigns, with their young son, will take up their abode in Christiania castle, a palace which was ordered built by the Norwegian parliament in 1822, but was not finished until 1848.

On entering Christiania the eye is at once caught by the castle, situated high above the sea level and affording a grand view of the Norwegian capital. It is most beautiful when seen from the fashionable promenade. The arrangement and appointments of the interior harmonize perfectly with the exterior. The main entrance is found in the great porch facing the promenade. Broad stairs lead from the ground floor to the second and main floor that is covered with beautiful carpets made in Norway.

In the front, facing south, are found the royal apartments. In the billiard room, which King Oscar used may be seen the valuable gifts presented by Norwegian citizens at the king's silver wedding. These gifts, as well as other ornaments presented by Norwegian citizens, will remain in the castle, a friendly settlement of these points having been reached. The elaborate furniture belonging to King Oscar, however, is on its way to Stockholm.

It was natural that the provisional government of Norway fixed its eyes on Prince Karl of Denmark, when the time for choosing a king of Norway had arrived. Not only have Denmark and Norway been close friends for centuries, but the openly displayed sympathy with which the Danes looked at the outcome of the union strife surely influenced the Norwegian parliament in choosing a king.

The personal qualifications of King Haakon make him especially adapted for his high office. It must be admitted that he is rather young, 33, but he is old enough to know what he owes himself, his relatives and the people of which he is going to be the ruler.

From the moment of the arrival of the sovereigns at the palace until late at night, immense crowds remained outside the palace cheering incessantly and demanding a sight of their majesties.

Both the king and queen spent the greater part of the afternoon on a balcony bowing their thanks in answer to the countless cheers and waving acknowledgements of the honor shown them.

The new king and his royal consort have created a most favorable impression in Christiania and the enthusiastic citizens could not do enough to show their satisfaction. The demonstrations were noisy in the extreme, but through the crowds remained orderly and there was little use for the large number of extra guards which had been sworn in to preserve order.

Toward evening the weather, which had been raw and cold, with flurries of snow, changed and the evening was clear and cool. This caused great crowds to assemble and the streets were packed until a late hour. Many fine illuminations were arranged in honor of the occasion and they were thoroughly enjoyed by the masses of people on the streets.

Evidence Found in Safe that Combines Do Big Business in Canada.

By Publishers' Press.

Toronto, Nov. 25.—The investigation into the operations of the combine of Canadian plumbers led by Mr. Curry, prosecuting attorney, to a clue which indicated that there were even worse combines in other trades. He immediately went in pursuit, and this week with the aid of five detectives entered the office of James Hardy and seized his books. A vault was locked, and Mr. Hardy refused to open it, or even give the combination. An expert was called in, and after half an hour, had the vault open.

For three days thereafter Mr. Curry was sorting the mass of books for evidence. He was rewarded by finding, so it is reported, that Mr. Hardy was the permanent secretary of some sixty hard and fast combines in the various branches of the hardware, cutlery and woodenware trade. Among the seized goods are the minute books of the various associations, and from these he has made a formidable selection of witnesses who will be called next week to give evidence. These will include many millionaires in Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and other cities, representing, all told, it is said, a business investment of $100,000,000. Agreements galore of these associations have been seized also, showing the squeezing process many of them indulged in. In fact, Mr. Curry says he has already sufficient evidence to indicate that practically every article that goes into the home, or into the construction of a house, has been enhanced in price by the various trade combines.
