

SOCIAL PLEASURES OF THE WEEK IN MINNEAPOLIS

Now that we have seen how perfectly the Auditorium meets every requirement for a large and brilliant ball, we are looking forward more eagerly to the charity ball tomorrow evening as it will be given in the big, beautiful hall that makes such an ideal ballroom. The charity ball has always been the favorite party of the year to many people, for so many reasons that it is not attended by everybody. Mrs. George Porter and Miss Emily McMillan, the committee on decoration, has arranged to have the same decorations that were used at the hostesses' ball, and you cannot imagine how beautiful they were. The Fort Snelling band will play the program of dances and a most efficient floor committee, formed of a large group of well-known men will look after the ballroom. Tickets for the ball have found ready sale, and they may be obtained at Hudson's or Eustis' store.

You hear a lot about the debutants, but very little of the men who are also making their entrance into formal society this winter. But there are some men who left school and college last summer and are home to go into business and incidentally take their proper place in society, altho they slip in so unostentatiously, without any coming-out receptions and both, that no one knows who they are. To be sure the list is not very long, but there are some who are planning a dancing party and is racking her thought for men to invite exclaimed in despair that she did not believe Minneapolis men ever did get thru college, for they never seemed to come back when they once went away.

The hostesses' ball showed several new faces among the younger masculine guests. There was Anson Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jackson, tho Mr. Jackson is only home from Yale on what might be termed "sick leave" and expects to go back after the holidays, while he is here he is taking a prominent part in the affairs for the buds. Cyrus Brown is a university man, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Brown, and he has already won local fame as the author of the play that the Roosevelt club will put on this winter. Edwin W. Coan, a nephew of Mrs. E. L. Carpenter, has come from Clinton, Iowa, and will be a member of the younger set. Then there is Randolph Edgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Edgar, Tracy Fairchild, a graduate of the university last June, and a son of E. K. Fairchild. Edwin Brown, a Harvard man, was in Minneapolis occasionally last winter, but he has recently come here to reside, and now has apartments with Edward Stanley Waters.

Not a very long list is it? No wonder the hostesses are complaining, and wondering how they can ever do their share in the season's entertaining if they cannot find men for the evening affairs.

At every large reception this fall, if you have been observing, you will have noticed a dining-room hostess. Do you know what her duties are? The title is not purely honorary and neither does it hold such laborious duties as used to attend a woman when a hostess invited her to preside at the table and serve ices or pour coffee for two or three hours. The dining-room hostess is a special friend of the woman who is giving the reception and it is her pleasant duty to see that the people who presiding at the table is relieved every half hour. This gives the hostess of the afternoon a chance to ask more of her friends to assist her and makes the honor of presiding a pleasure instead of a burden, for it is no insecure to pour coffee for three hours and keep up a constant chatter to the people who come and go thru the dining-room. Most social observances have a grain of common sense as the foundation and the dining-room hostess is a useful as well as honorary innovation.

Did you notice that there was not a flower used at the hostesses' ball? The decorations were entirely in foliage—palms, ferns and the bay and fir trees—with fruit on the tables. The use of fruit is proving very popular this winter and has rather taken the place of flowers for table decoration. The florists make some stunning arrangements—baskets filled with fruit, the most perfect and richly colored to be found, and with grapes and leaves wreathed around the handle. If you have an old-fashioned spurge tucked away on the top shelf of the pantry hunt it out and polish it up, for it is the very smartest thing to use for a centerpiece. It is really amusing how the pendulum has swung back this winter and with the revival of our grandmothers' bouquets, the princess gowns and pillow muffs has come the restoration to favor of our grandmothers' prim table decorations.

"A debutante really has all the fuss and bother a wedding without the bridegroom," commented one of the recent brides at one of the big receptions last week. "Did you know that some of the girls had any number of gifts, jewelry, bits of real lace, fine handkerchiefs, all sorts of pretty frills and chiffons that a girl so loves to have, and then of course there were the bouquets, dozens and dozens of bouquets. Every one of them must be acknowledged with a vote of thanks. As for trousseaus, no bride ever had more elaborate outfits than these buds. And they have just the same troubles with the modistes. This afternoon's debutante has to have her coming-out gown literally made on her this morning and yesterday's bud nearly wept for fear she would have to slip into an old gown because the modiste delayed sending the new one until the hour of the reception, and such a scramble as there was to get her into it when it did arrive."

The pretty social buds are all out—eight of them—Misses Marion Partridge, Rebecca Semple, Deila Winston, Caroline Sewell, Winifred Westlake, Marion McCallough, Eleanor Regan and Edith Williams. It is some time since we have had such a long list. Last year, you remember, there were only two—Miss Ethelwynn Wyman and Miss Marion Ireys—and before Miss Ireys was out six months she was married to James A. Robb and took her place among the young matrons.

Plans for the entertainment of the Yale Glee and Banjo clubs, on Dec. 26, have again been changed and it is now probable that the time-honored dance, which has always been one of the features of the holiday social events, will be given at the residence of Mrs. George H. Partridge. In order that the dance may be more successful from the standpoint of the younger girls who have yet out, it is possible that a cotillion will be substituted for the program dance.

As the clubs do not arrive in the city until late in the afternoon before the concert, it is not probable that there will be any other entertainment. The concert begins at 8:15 at the Auditorium and the dance will follow the concert.

It will be of especial interest to Minneapolis society to know that Calvin Truesdale, the son of W. H. Truesdale, of the Delaware & Lackawanna railroad and formerly general manager of the St. Louis road, is the assistant manager of the Yale Glee club. This is considered one of the greatest social honors possible to be obtained at Yale.

MRS. JOSEPH WIDENER, wife of well-known Philadelphia millionaire, an acknowledged beauty.

Mr. Truesdale, who is now a junior, will be elected manager next year, thus completing his honors. The following local Yale men have been appointed to committees for the entertainment of the clubs: D. D. Tenney, local manager; F. M. Crosby, C. S. Gale, Clement Cochrane, D. D. Tenney, entertainment committee; L. S. Kirland and Anson Jackson, Jr., publicity and advertising.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Belden announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary B., to Richard Greene Fisher.

One of the most interesting weddings of next week will be that of Miss Florence Virginia Ashcraft and Rev. E. Dean Ellenwood, which will take place Thanksgiving day at his home at the home of Miss Ashcraft's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ashcraft, in Chicago. Dr. Shutter will go down to Chicago to read the service. Mr. Ellenwood has been Dr. Shutter's assistant at the Church of the Redeemer for over two years and leaves this evening for Chicago. He has accepted an unanimous call to Atlanta, Ga., where he will be pastor of the Universalist church and will enter on his new duties next Sunday.

The people of the Church of the Redeemer will sadly miss Mr. Ellenwood who has been very popular in the city as well as in the church. A large reception was given in his honor Wednesday evening and several hundred guests were present to say goodbye.

The lecture room was attractively decorated with palms, ferns and southern smilax and the Sunday school scholars played at the refreshment tables, which were prettily decked with pink carnations and ferns. The arrangements for the reception were made by a joint committee from the Women's association and the Ladies' Social circle of the church and was one of the most delightful affairs of the year.

Mr. Ellenwood was a guest of honor at a number of dinners last week. Mrs. F. R. Chase, Flora Arnold and George R. Fox were among those who entertained for him.

Quite a number of out-of-town guests are to come for the marriage of Miss Nora Wells and Frank Greenwood Jewett Wednesday. There will be Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Jewett, the parents of Mr. Jewett, of Hibbing, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. White, of Grand Forks; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wilson, of Fairbury, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. John Watson, Miss Constance Watson, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ball, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wheelock, all of Fargo; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Graham, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Dudley, Miss Grace Dudley and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pierce, of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Costello, of Duluth. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Wells, of 19 West Twenty-fifth street, will give the bridal dinner Monday evening at their home. The guests will be only members of the family and the attendants.

Mrs. R. H. Passmore and Mrs. John Waaburn will give a dancing party at the Plaza hotel Thursday, Dec. 28, for their daughters, Miss Margaret Washburn and the Misses Fannie and Charlotte Passmore. The girls are now at Bryn Mawr college, but will return home for the Christmas holidays.

Among the holiday gaieties will be a large ball which Mrs. Frank B. Semple will give when the college men and girls are home for the Christmas vacation. Mrs. Semple and her daughter will go east after Christmas for an extended visit.

Miss Semple will leave next Sunday to spend a fortnight with her aunt, Mrs. J. W. Schoonmaker, in Pittsburg, Pa. There are just fifty debutantes in Pittsburg this winter, almost a dozen of them schoolmates of Miss Semple, so that her visit will be one round of gaiety. Mrs. Schoonmaker will give a large ball at her handsome home for her niece.

What a charmingly appointed dinner that was that Mrs. George H. Partridge gave last evening at her home on Groveland terrace for her daughter, Miss Marion Partridge, and for Miss Katherine Anderson of Cincinnati, who is their guest. The loggia was transformed into a palm garden with smilax, palms and ferns and the small tables decked with red flowers and red shaded tapers were placed thru the room. The lights thru-out were shaded in red. Covers were placed for sixteen. An orchestra played a program of popular music during dinner. Miss Anderson will leave for her home in Cincinnati Tuesday evening.

There was a charming group of visiting girls at the hostesses' ball Friday evening. Miss Katherine Anderson, of Cincinnati, who is the guest of Miss Marion Partridge; Miss Potter, of Omaha, who is visiting Miss Margaret Welles, of Clifton avenue; Miss Katey of Rock Island, the guest of Mrs. C. C. Webber, of Clifton avenue; Miss Cathgrine Noyes, who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. A. H. Bright; a Smith college girl who has found a number of college friends here, and Miss Bernice Heesner, of Goshenkstad, the guest of Miss Grace Harrison.

Such a chatter of winter plans as there was at the hostesses' ball, and right in the midst of the very gayest of gay seasons in Minneapolis, with a number of the prettiest buds to furnish every possible excuse for remaining and entertaining. Perhaps people are tiring of so many social doings or perhaps the habit of traveling is so strong that the first raw winds and frost are the signals to close house and go, anywhere, south, west or east. Fortunately there will be but little travel before the holidays, but after that—well, everybody will go somewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Gillette will close their house in East Minneapolis. They have taken a handsome cottage at Nassau and will move south shortly after the holidays with their three daughters and servants. Mrs. G. R. Newell will leave as soon as the boats run from Miami to Nassau; the first boat is to make the trip about Jan. 1, and Mrs. Newell plans to be one of the passengers. Mr. Newell will join her later in the winter. Mr. and Mrs. George Gillette are also contemplating to join the Minneapolis colony for a while later in the season. Judge and Mrs. M. B. Koon, after all, cannot resist the temptation of spending a winter under southern skies, and their decision to keep the Harmon place residence open thru the winter will count for nothing as soon as the birds of travel are under way. They will go to one of the fashionable southern resorts, in all probability. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Paul have almost decided to go south like many of their friends. Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Wagner will spend the winter in the south. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Peavey talk of going to Europe for the gay season in some of the fashionable resorts on the Riviera. Mrs. H. J. Moreton will leave in February to Augusta, Ga., and Mr. Moreton will probably join her before she returns home. Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Jeffrey are also to be among the Minneapolis people to winter at Augusta. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Harrington leave next Sunday for California to spend the winter at Redlands. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Linton have also planned to spend another season in southern California and will leave some time in December. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rand leave next Saturday for Hot Springs, Va., to spend a few weeks. They will return by way of New York and Miss Mary Rand, who is at Miss Burnham's school, will come home with them for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Phelps and Miss Phelps leave Dec. 15 for California. Mr. Phelps will have his touring car shipped out to the coast and will spend a few weeks with his family, remaining for the Christmas holidays when the sons of the family, who are attending school in Pasadena, will be with them. Mrs. and Miss Phelps will settle in Pasadena for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Russell M. Bennett have taken a house in Pasadena and will leave for the coast with their two children, the Harringtons, they will have their touring car shipped out to California and their stay will be made all the more pleasant, as they are planning delightful trips about the country.

The Mediterranean has as usual its attractions for the Minneapolis travelers, and there are several people who are preparing to make that delightful trip. The Molke, which sails Jan. 7, will have on board Mr. and Mrs. George C. Bagley, Dr. and Mrs. Marion D. Shutter and a number of other twin city residents, including E. Pennington, general manager of the Soo road. Mrs. Haskell of 1710 Third avenue S will give a benefit at 8 p.m. Dec. 12 at her home for Miss Blanche Booth, who will be assisted by her pupil, Miss Celia Elizabeth Haskell. An attractive program has been arranged, and several well-known artists will participate, among them Mrs. W. S. Porteous, H. S. Woodruff and Heinrich Hoevel.

Many of the members of the Minneapolis club spent yesterday on the golf links, and the green was thronged from early morning until late in the afternoon.

For Thanksgiving the house committee announces a delightful program. From 2 to 3 o'clock a table d'hote dinner will be served and there will be music; in fact the music will be at the club all the afternoon and evening and will play for the dance and the buffet supper from 7 to 11. Supper will be a jolly affair; the delicacies of the season will be spread on a long table, over which two cooks in natty white linen will preside. About 200 members are planning to come out for the day, as Thanksgiving at the club is all the pleasures of country celebration. The new toboggan is finished and is only waiting for snow and ice to be used.

Before and after the football game yesterday quite a number of informal luncheon and supper parties were given in Donaldson's tearooms. Mrs. G. F. Piper gave a luncheon and entertained ten guests, who, however, attended the matinee performance at the Metropolitan theater. Pink roses and pink-shaded tapers were used as a decoration. Miss Gertrude Sargent of Hawthorn avenue gave a small luncheon for a number of girl friends. The table was appointed in red with a cluster of red roses. C. W. Lyon entertained sixteen guests at the tearoom for supper after the game, and J. Stone was host to a party of twenty guests who had attended the football game.
