BEST FARM YEAR

KNOWN TO WORLD

Secretary Wilson Reports United States Production the Highest Ever Made.

Washington, Nov. 27.—"Wealth production of the farms in the United States in 1905 reached the highest amount ever attained, this or any other country, at $4,150,000,000. In the first annual report of his third term, James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, presents a survey of all statements representing the products and profits of the farmers of the country which, he admits, "dreams of wealth-production could hardly equal."

Four crops make new high records as to value per acre. The corn crop, although in amount of production the corn crop is the only one that exceeds previous yields. In every crop the general level of production was high and that of prices still higher. Farms Worth More. Besides the enormous yield of wealth, the secretary estimates that the farms of the country have increased in value during the last five years to a present aggregate of $6,133,000,000.

Every sunset during the past five years," he says, "has registered an increase of $3,400,000 in the value of the farms of this country." This increased value, the secretary suggests, is even better than in bank deposits or invested gilt-edged bonds of corporations. In dealing with the crop report "leak," Secretary Wilson, after referring to the gross breach of trust on the part of one of the employees of the bureau of statistics," says: "This department acted with vigor and dispatch when it got evidence of wrongdoing on the part of its own officials, but we have evidence of disciplinary or preventive action at the traders' end of the line, where gamblers interested neither in the production nor consumption disturb the value of a jury of both and make loud outcry when creatures of their own kind corrupt officials to betray confidence for the love of money."

The responsibility for this 'leak' is shared by every one who, to get money without work, gambles in farm products. When this form of industry ceases, these parasites, who tempt the department officials, will have to work for their bread."

The Crop Reports. The method of handling crop reports, he says, has been thoroughly recast during the year. There has also been a decided change in the methods of work prescribed for field agents. Each agent is now confined to a definite group of statistics with which he becomes thoroughly familiar by travel each month.

Cotton comes this year with a valuation of $775,000,000; wheat, $525,000,000; oats, $282,000,000; potatoes, $138,000,000; barley, $58,000,000; tobacco $52,000,000; dairy products, $665,000,000, an increase of $54,000,000 over last year; sugar cane and sugar beets, $50,000,000; rice, $13,892,000,000.

The Hen and Her Work. "The farmer's hen," the secretary says, "is becoming worth more and more to his cow. The annual production of eggs is now a score of billions. Poultry products have climbed to a place of more than half a billion dollars in value, so the farmer's hen competes with wheat for precedence."

There are more horses and with a larger aggregate value than ever before, notwithstanding the secretary says, they were first threatened by the bicycle and later by the suburban trolley and the automobile. He estimates their value at a billion dollars, as much as the corn crop, and the value of mules at $252,000,000.

Altogether, the secretary estimates that other cattle and sheep for several years have been decreasing. There are 17,570,000 milch cows, valued at $482,000,000. Other cattle are numbered at 43,669,000, with a value of $662,000,000. Swine number 47,321,000, valued at $283,255,000. In the aggregate the value of farm animals has increased a few million dollars since the census of 1900, since the census of 1900 has increased 9 per cent.

Exported Farm Products. With this enormous production, the secretary says, the world's supply of people have been supplied, with a remaining surplus constituting a generous contribution to other nations. The exported farm products during the fiscal year ending in 1905 had a value of $27,000,000, which was less by $51,000,000 than the average exports for the five preceding years.

In accordance with the secretary says that owing to the short wheat crop there was a decrease in the export of that cereal amounting to $41,000,000, of $5,000,000 in the export of packing-house products and another $5,000,000 in fruits and other minor items. The increases included $9,550,000 in cotton, $4,700,000 in oil cake and oil cake meal, $4,000,000 in vegetable oils, and $2,000,000 in rice and various minor products.

"During the last sixteen years," the secretary says, "the total exports of farm products have amounted to $12,000,000,000, or 1,000,000,000 more than enough to buy all the railroads of the country at their commercial valuation, and this with a mere surplus of which there was no demand at home."

Farmers Become Bankers. Secretary Wilson points out that the farmer is taking an important part in developing the manufacturing interests of the country, by furnishing raw material, and that he also has become a banker, contributing to the manufacture during the year were $2,679,000,000.

Under the recent amendment to the national banking act, the establishment of banks with a capitalization of less than $50,000, there have been 1,754 such banks established in the last year, and every one of which is located in a rural community and the capital furnished by farmers. Of these new banks 633 are located in the southern states and 792 in the north central states.

Their Bank Deposits. Speaking of the increase in deposits in banks by farmers, the secretary states: "In the north central states farmers have been depositing money in the banks until the rate of interest on deposits has fallen so low that they have diverted a large portion of their savings to permanent investments. In spite of the fact that the banks do not reserve or keep most of the farmer's savings, the increase in deposits in agricultural states and larger regions is most extraordinary. In Iowa and South Dakota the increase was 14.9 per cent; Nebraska, 13.7 per cent; North Dakota, 25. Bank deposits in the great capital state of Massachusetts increased 9.1 per cent.

Still more remarkable is the bank statement for the sixth central states. Deposits increased 18.1 per cent in Texas, 21.4 per cent in Oklahoma, 24.1 per cent in Arkansas and 45.7 per cent in Indian Territory, while throughout the geographic division the increase was 25.8 per cent. The general average increase for the United States was 13.5 per cent.

"For the first time in the financial history of the nation deposits in the banks of that region now exceed one billion dollars.

"The foregoing remarkable increases in bank deposits in agricultural states, as well as the increase in the number of small country banks, are directly and indirectly because of the profits that have come to the farmers from the operation of their farms."

"Figured in dollars of gain per acre the increases during the five years past of medium farms were: In the north central division, $11.25; in the western division, $5.35; in the north Atlantic, $5.25; in the south Atlantic division, $4.95; and in the south central division, $4.66. The average increase for the United States was $7.31.

"The returns showed that farms of less intensive culture and crop have increased in value less than the farms having more valuable crops and receiving high culture. Farmers are improving their cultural methods and changing from less to more profitable crops.

"Should there be no release from his present position as a wealth producer, three years hence the farmer will find that the farming element, about 35 per cent of the population, has produced an amount of wealth within ten years equal to one-half of the entire national wealth produced in three centuries."

"In so far as the investigations have been completed, it has been found without exception that the addition of the ordinary preservatives to foods is injurious to health. The same is true, also, of at least one of the coloring matters commonly employed, namely, sulphate of copper."

"The results of these investigations show the need of protecting the public by legislation against the addition of such articles to foods, either by prohibiting their use altogether or by requiring the amount thereof and securing a statement of composition upon the label of each package. In general, it appears that there are wholly objectionable ways of preserving food products, which should be followed, namely, by desiccation, by sterilization, or by cold storage. All of these methods are efficacious, but it must be understood that each of them has its limits and that, inasmuch as nature provides every year a sufficient quantity of food for mankind, there seems to be no reasonable excuse for preserving any food product over more than one season."

"Of durum wheat, the report says: "The production has steadily increased until in the season of 1905 it is conservatively estimated by grain dealers to be between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 bushels for the three states of North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota. Add to this about 5,000,000 bushels for Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast states, and the result is a production of probably 20,000,000 bushels for the entire country."

"It is reported that during October about 6,000,000 bushels of durum wheat were shipped to Europe, and that the prices recently offered by importers were an advance of 12 cents over the price paid for the first shipments. The question of marketing the wheat, therefore, can no longer be a doubtful one, as our reputation for furnishing a good quality of grain is well established. As stated recently by an official of the board of trade of Duluth, durum wheat has 'passed the experimental stage and is now a regular commodity.'"
