UNCLE JOE WILL NOT LEAVE STAGE

HE IS GOING BACK TO THE FARM TO REST UP.

For Thirty Years Demman Thompson Has Stuck to the Part That Has Made Him Famous—He Speaks of the Foolishness of Flopping About from Play to Play.

Denver Times. All whose eyes caught the paragraph a few weeks ago that Demman Thompson, who has immortalized the character of Joshua Whitcomb, was to retire from the stage because of old age, experienced a shock.

Demman Thompson as Joshua Whitcomb has played a single role longer than any other actor on the American stage. Jefferson, as Rip Van Winkle, made all the other roles seem like a child's play.

He is going back to the farm to rest up. He believes that most actors make the mistake of going on for years when they should be along in years. As he said a few months ago:

"I'd be an old fool to think that I could get up and just as well as I could think they can. Some old fellows think they can. The same old fellows who play a good many actors into flopping about from play to play and role to role."

QUIT HIGH SCHOOL BECAUSE OF 'FADS'

PARENTS GET RESTLESS BECAUSE OF WASTED TIME.

An Ex-County Clerk in New York Protests Because His Boy Was Asked to Describe Circulation of Blood in a Tadpole's Tail.

New York World. Because he failed to see the necessity for a boy learning "that a knowledge of the circulation of the blood in the tail of a tadpole, and not of that character, is essential to success in life," former County Clerk William J. McKenna, who is now a clerk in the criminal court, after a spirited controversy with Principal John H. Deanebach of the Morris high school, says he will take his son from that school. He will propose to educate him privately, "so that when he goes out in the world to seek employment he will be able to do that which he cannot do now, and which I am morally certain he would not be able to do were he to be graduated from the Morris high school—namely, to write a proper letter applying for a situation."

The incident is but one of many that have occurred in the Bronx in the last few months, where a strong fight has been kept up against what is termed "Maxwell's fads."

In a letter to the principal Mr. McKenna says: "Here and now I rise against Mr. Maxwell or any other man who attempts to use my child as a subject for the exercise of his whimsical and unnecessary advantage of teachers or of publishers and authors of textbooks."

"The best proof that our public schools fail to equip boys for a sphere of usefulness in mercantile life is that the majority of the graduates of the city, the other business colleges have sprung up, where young men go and are obliged to go, and at their own expense, in order to acquire that which the schools should have imparted to them in their schools and which could be taught at home. It has cost not so much time devoted to fads that have become the laughing stock of the community. It is a lamentable fact that thousands of dollars are spent in teaching boys to sew buttons on pieces of cloth and to make ornamental kindlingwood, and the study of the structure of a soup-bone, 'the gall bladder of an ox,' 'the intestines of a sheep,' 'the stomach of a pig,' 'coroncles of frogs' heads,' and, ye gods! 'the circulation of the blood in the tail of a tadpole.'"
