The bride got safely aboard the train, but the groom, deluged with rice, became bewildered and was left behind. Mrs. Miller feared at first that her husband had fallen from the platform and had been injured. Her bridesmaid and companion, Miss Mary Coons of Lake City, persuaded her that all was well, and by means of considerable telegraphing the missing husband was located and the pair were reunited at La Crosse twenty-four hours later.

His resignation was not unexpected in Minneapolis Y. M. C. circles, as it was known that he had been offered the secretaryship of the association in Australia and New Zealand. It is understood that he will accept the offer if his health will permit.

The jury returned a verdict for the full amount with interest.

The defense also sought to avoid payment on technical grounds. It evidently thought it had things well in hand for at the close of the plaintiff's testimony a motion for dismissal was made. It was denied by Judge Kelly and the case turned over to the jury which returned its verdict is about which returned its verdict in about three hours. Lindahl was charged with arson and robbery.
