

City News

THE WEATHER

The Predictions. Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday, except snow flurries near Lake Superior, rising temperature, in-creasing southerly winds. Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer Tuesday and in west portion tonight, winds shifting to southerly and increasing. Iowa—Fair tonight and Tuesday; rising temperature Tuesday and in north and west portions tonight, North and South winds tonight and Tuesday; rising temperature; increasing southerly winds. Montana—Fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer tonight. Upper Michigan—Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday, with probably snow flurries near Lake Superior, rising temperature Tuesday; increasing southerly winds.

Weather Conditions.

Clear weather is general this morning in the upper lake region and in all the rest of the west of the lake region and in the rest of the state. In the southern New Mexico and in Oregon, while along the middle, Mississippi, in the Ohio valley, New York and southern New Mexico snow was falling. In Texas, southern high-pressure area is central over Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska, extending westward into Wyoming and southern Idaho; this "high" is accompanied by cold weather in the central valley region, with the lowest temperatures this morning reaching from 16 degrees below to 18 degrees below in North Dakota. Temperatures below zero are reported from southern North Dakota, Minnesota, southern Wisconsin, South Dakota, Wyoming and eastern Nebraska. A "low" developing over northern Alberta is causing a rapid rise in temperature in the western Canadian provinces, northern North Dakota, northern Montana and the northern parts of Minnesota and Michigan. No precipitation in the western Canadian provinces, northern North Dakota, northern Montana and the northern parts of Minnesota and Michigan. No precipitation in the western Canadian provinces, northern North Dakota, northern Montana and the northern parts of Missouri valley move southeastward, warmer weather will come on.

Weather Now and Then.

Today, maximum —3 degrees; a year ago, maximum 19, minimum —8 degrees.

AROUND THE TOWN

Sues for Divorce.—Anna M. Fish has begun a suit for divorce in the district court against Charles Fish. The plaintiff alleges that her husband deserted her sixteen years ago. Board of Pardons Meets.—The state board of pardons convened this afternoon at the capitol to consider a calendar of twenty applications for clemency, as published yesterday. Action in any of the cases has yet been taken. North Side Hebrew Club.—The North Side Hebrew club, a purely social organization, is in the process of formation and has a meeting at 703 Sixth avenue N. It is the plan to arrange for specially built quarters later. A meeting to perfect the details of organization will be held on the evening of Jan 17 at the present rooms. Not This Evening.—The meeting to organize the chorus to begin work on the oratorio "Georgina" composed by J. Victor Bergquist of Minneapolis, will meet on Wednesday evening at Knickerbocker hall, Fourth avenue S. and Ninth street, instead of this evening, as was announced in the official program yesterday. All singers interested are cordially invited to attend. New Grand Jurors.—Grand jurors were lacking when the roll was called in Judge John Day Smith's courtroom today, and as a result they were not sworn in, but were all excused to meet again Wednesday morning. A special venire of four jurors from the following names were added to the original panel: Nathaniel McCarthy, Walter Gregory, Owen B. Kennard and Edwin P. Capen.

NECROLOGIC

MRS. NETTIE HUBERT, wife of J. E. Hubert, died Jan. 2, aged 33 years, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Duryea, 252 1/2 Polk street N.E. The funeral was held Friday afternoon from the residence, Rev. James Trimble of St. Matthews' Episcopal church officiating. Mrs. Hubert was a member of St. Matthews' church, the last past president of its guild and a teacher in the Sunday school. EDWARD J. CADWELL, died Jan. 7, aged 80 years. Funeral from the residence, 413 West Twenty-sixth street, Tuesday, Jan. 9, at 2 p.m. Interment at Lakewood cemetery.

ENORMOUS PLANT OF STOLEN TOOLS FOUND

Following the arrest of J. J. Courtney and George Sestgast late Saturday night on a charge of stealing tools from a building at 413 Third street S., the police uncovered a plant containing stolen goods valued at several hundred dollars yesterday at 503 Washington avenue S., where Morris Hayndet conducts a second-hand store. Sestgast and Courtney owned up to the theft and said that they had sold the tools at Hayndet's place. The police refused to allow them to search the place and said that the men had no right to search it. Later, however, Hayndet allowed the officers to search his place and tools of all descriptions, stolen from different places, were found there. They were taken to headquarters in the patrol wagon, which was completely filled, and notices were sent to several persons who have been robbed recently to come and look over the list. Hayndet was locked up charged with receiving stolen property. Pawnbroker Inspector J. C. Scallen says that Hayndet made no report of the purchases, and the case will be pushed against him. While the officers were searching the store, Alonzo Rodding, who escaped from the workhouse some time ago, came in with a bundle of gas-fires under his arm and offered them for sale. He was at once recognized and was taken to Central station and held until he can tell where he obtained the articles. No charge has yet been placed against him. The three men were arraigned in police court today. Courtney will have an examination and Sestgast will have a preliminary examination and was bound to the grand jury. Hayndet pleaded not guilty and will be tried Jan. 11.

PIANOS

We make a specialty of renting good pianos. If you are not ready to purchase you can select the piano you would like to own and we will rent it to you at $3.50, $4 and $5 a month and allow one year's rent if purchased. Representatives for the KNABE-ANGELUS PIANO. 36 Fifth St. S. FOSTER & WALDO, Cor. Nic. Ave.

RIVAL CARRIERS STEAL JOURNALS

THEY LEAVE INFERIOR PUBLICATION IN ITS PLACE. The Number of Such Cases Arouses Suspicion that the Boys Have Had a Common Source of Inspiration—Yesterday's Offenders to Be Tried in Juvenile Court. Thomas and John Engel, two Tribune carriers, will have to defend themselves next Thursday in the juvenile court, against charges of stealing Sunday Journals from the Lowry Hill flats yesterday morning. According to the information filed against them, they not only stole the Journals, but added insult to injury by leaving in the place of each Journal a Sunday morning Tribune.

Some time ago another Tribune carrier was arrested on the charge of stealing Sunday Journals. He did not defend himself against the charge and was placed under the care of the probation officers. Other cases of misdirected efforts to find out what is going on in the world have also been reported, but no arrests have been made. The case of the Engel brothers, however, is the first one where the motive has been traced beyond the boys themselves. The fact that the youths are alleged to have left a Tribune in the place of each stolen Journal, has led the officials to make a thorough investigation, and every effort is being made to ascertain the source of the stolen Journals.

The defendants are said to be the sons of a school janitor who lives at Emerson avenue N. The janitor's name is not given, but the department has received many reports of stolen papers and for several Sundays a man has been detailed to watch for the thieves. Last Sunday morning this watchman was rewarded by seeing two boys, which he says are the ones now awaiting trial, making a business of exchanging Tribunes for Journals. He is said to have caught one boy in the act of exchanging a Tribune for a newspaper and to have "nabbed" him on the spot. While waiting for the arrival of the other boy, he saw the other lad playing the same game. The boys' cases came up today, but were continued to next Thursday, giving the officials time to make a more thorough investigation. At that time there will undoubtedly be some interesting evidence adduced.

OVER 500 TO GRADUATE

FOUR HIGH SCHOOLS AND FOUR GRADES TO HOLD COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES. Graduation exercises will be held for the public schools next week. Nearly 150 students will be graduated from four high schools and more than 400 will graduate from the eighth grades, but the latter will not make much of a vacancy in the schools, for most of them will continue with their high-school work. First on the list of commencement exercises will be that of the South high school, to be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 16, at the Immanuel Baptist church, Bloomington avenue and Twenty-third street. A class of nineteen will be graduated. On Wednesday, Jan. 17, exercises will be held at the assembly hall of the East high school for the January class of twenty-eight. On Thursday, Jan. 18, exercises for the North high class will be held at the assembly hall Thursday evening, Jan. 18. There are forty-one in the class. On Friday, Jan. 19, at the Wesley M. E. church, Grant street and First avenue S. All the grade graduations will be held Thursday, beginning at 9 a.m. The exercises for the south district will be in the Immanuel Baptist church. The arrangements are in charge of Miss Flora E. Morton, principal of the Greeley school. The exercises for the East district will be held at the East high school at 10 a.m. at the Wesley M. E. church, principal of East High school, is in charge. At 1:30 p.m. will be begun the program for the schools of the North district at the North high school. The arrangements are in charge of Miss Fanny C. LeGro, principal of the Blaine school. The central district graduates will have their exercises at the Wesley M. E. church, Miss Alice C. Warrington is in charge of the arrangements.

NOT A COLD WAVE

Director Outram Says Thermometer Did Not Go Low Enough. Minneapolis was not visited by a cold wave today. This statement was issued by T. S. Outram, section director of the weather bureau, and is official. The thermometer neglected to fall twenty degrees in twenty-four hours and did not reach the required —10 degrees. At 8 o'clock this morning the government mercury stood at —8 degrees, a fall of just eight degrees in twenty-four hours. Drug store and household thermometers are running much stronger, and people from the suburbs are coming in with stories of ten, twelve and fifteen degree weather. Even the government observer at St. Paul caught the infection and reported —10 degrees. A sharp fall in temperature was not accompanied by a storm, no actual damage was done, unless the moral wear suffered by the "old settler" in cooking up some legend of the "early forties" can be called damage. At the charitable bureau the demand for fuel was noticeably increased, principally on behalf of those dependents who are old or sick.

LUMBER COMPANY PAYS

Trespass on State Timber in Hubbard County Costs $2,795. The Crookston Lumber company today paid $2,795 into the state treasury for trespass on state timber in Hubbard county, the payment being double the appraised value of the timber cut. Parties had purchased so-called agricultural land from the state. On this land was a certain amount of timber which the purchasers of the land sold to the Crookston company, contrary to law.

STRUCK STEPDAUGHTER

J. N. Sanford, living at Fifteenth avenue S. and Twenty-fifth street, was fined $15 in police court today on a charge of disorderly conduct, which consisted in his fighting with his stepdaughter, the 12-year-old child of his wife, Mrs. Sanford. The fight was a quarrel and the young woman started to leave home. Sanford followed her and tried to compel her to return, and she alleged that he struck her.

WANTS HIS MONEY

Solomon Goldberg had $250 once. He wanted to keep it and to do so he deposited it in the Farmers and Mechanics' Savings bank under the assumed name of G. S. Solomon, so that it could not be affected by pending litigation. Now he wants to get his money and the bank officials have refused to give it to him, claiming that they don't know who deposited it. Mr. Goldberg has begun a suit in the district court to regain his money.

BRICKLAYERS FOR SUNDAY CLOSING

MAYOR JONES CHEERED TO ECHO IN CONVENTION. Governor John A. Johnson and Rev. J. M. Cleary Also Assist in Welcoming Delegates to International Gathering, Which Today Began Two Weeks' Session. Sunday closing was cheered to the echo by the 200 delegates and spectators present at the opening session of the fortieth annual convention of the Bricklayers and Stonemasons' International union today. The incident occurred when, in the course of his address to the convention, Mayor Jones said that the Minneapolis saloons were closed on Sunday and that he felt that such action was in the interest of the laboring man. The applause was deafening and long-continued. The morning session was taken up with the proper welcoming of the visiting delegates on behalf of the local unions and the state and city representatives. President William Doig, of stonemasons' local, No. 5, presided, and after a few words of welcome introduced Rev. J. M. Cleary of St. Charles church, who made the invocation. Governor John A. Johnson then took the platform to welcome the convention. "I believe that labor has a right to organize to protect the country and to protect itself," said the governor among other things. "Every man who must labor to support himself and those dependent upon him should be organized, and not till he is organized is there a chance for that equitable dealing between labor and capital, which we all desire. Mayor Jones then welcomed the visitors to Minneapolis. In addition to the utterance upon the Sunday closing enforcement which aroused the enthusiasm of his audience, he dwelt upon the great development of Minneapolis as a building center and commented upon the present friendly relations between employer and employee. At the close of his address William J. Bowen of New York, the international president, replied briefly in behalf of the visiting delegates and the meeting was adjourned until the formal reception with Governor Johnson, Mayor Jones and Father Cleary in the receiving line. The afternoon session was taken up with the routine work of organization. The committee on credentials reported that there were about 300 accredited delegates from all points in the United States and Canada. About 150 of these delegates were present at the opening session. The convention will remain in session for two weeks, holding two sessions a day the first week and three the second. No great issues will be presented this year, as the hour and wage question will not come up. The local unions will be invited to send the visitors with a banquet and ball this week and the St. Paul locals will give a banquet in their honor. The present officers of the union are: W. J. Bowen of New York, president; Thomas R. Preece of Chicago, first vice president; George T. Thornton of Boston, second vice president; Edward G. Brandon of San Francisco, third vice president; Thomas Izard of Toronto, fourth vice president; William Dobson of North Adams, Mass., secretary; Patrick M. Ryan of New York, treasurer; Edward A. Moffett, editor.

TOMMY BRENNAN WILL GO TO CHICAGO UNCLE

Tommy Brennan, the 12-year-old boy who was shot in the face by his step-mother, Stella Brennan, after she had murdered his sisters and little brother, will be given a home by his uncle, James J. Breen, 400 Cullom avenue, Ravenswood, Chicago. Arrangements are now being made by County Attorney Al J. Smith and by the boy's Minnesota uncle, Mr. Breen, to take Tommy will probably leave for Chicago within a few days. Since the Brennan tragedy Tommy has been cared for by the state and has remained in the custody of Police Matron Sarah Schaeffer. He was the state's star witness in the trial and Mrs. Brennan's conviction is largely due to his testimony. He has gained an exalted opinion of his importance and has become somewhat unmanageable.

MAYOR IN COURT

Is Defending His Attitude Toward Contracts Awarded by Council. Mayor David P. Jones appeared in the district court today to show cause why he should not sign the contract with the Patterson Street Lighting company for incandescent gas lighting of the streets of Minneapolis for 1906. Aside from the fact that he is not satisfied with the terms of the contract, the principal purpose the mayor has in waging the fight is to secure a judicial opinion on the proper method of awarding contracts by the city council. Two of the strongest law firms in the city will be pitted against each other in this case. Cohen, Atwater & Shaw, appearing for the mayor, and Koon, Whelan & Bennett for the Patterson company.

O. H. PECK IS DEAD

Orlando H. Peck, formerly head of the Peck Photographic Supply company of Minneapolis, died in New York today from injuries received in an automobile accident several days ago. Mr. Peck, whose hat had been blown off near the Flatiron building, was struck by an automobile while trying to recover it in the street. The prominent New Yorker who was driving the machine made every effort to avert the accident, but the auto was moving slowly, it could not be stopped before Mr. Peck was struck.

FAVOR FOOTBALL REFORM

Northwestern Yale Alumni Elect Dr. Burnside Foster President. Resolutions indorsing the reformation of football, the restoration of more open play and the prohibition and elimination of brutality in professional football were passed by the Northwestern Yale Alumni association at its annual meeting in St. Paul Saturday night. Sixty-five graduates of Old Eli were in attendance and twenty-five were Minneapolitans. No formal program was observed and after impromptu toasts and the singing of college songs the convention reverted to football. In the absence of President Cyrus Northrop of the University of Minnesota, president of the association, Dr. Burnside Foster presided and later was elected president to succeed Dr. Northrop. R. M. Newport was elected secretary and treasurer. Frank Crosby, Louis K. Hull and Theodore Griggs composed the committee that will arrange the banquet of 1907.

WOMAN'S PROHIBITION CLUB

Woman's Prohibition club, St. James hotel parlors, 3 p.m. C. A. Stewart Foreign Missionary society, Mrs. E. F. Nicoll, 2731 Pillsbury avenue, afternoon. Lucy Hayes W. C. T. U. Mrs. W. M. Lawrence, 1922 Clinton avenue, 3 p.m.

TOO MANY SNAPS FOR NON-WORKERS

He Complains that the City With Its Saloons and Charitable Organizations Puts Idleness at a Premium, While Various Industries Are Hampered for Lack of Help. Employment is plentiful for those who really want to work, says an officer of a large manufacturing concern in Hennepin, in a letter to Louis Levy, superintendent of the state free employment bureau. He states that his company possible means have tried every possible means to employ a large number of men, but with only partial success. He strongly criticizes a certain class of able-bodied men who are not employed in the large cities, altho work of good wages is plentiful and industries are hampered for lack of laborers. Mr. Levy says that the criticism is justified as he has offered out-of-town work to many applicants who have refused it. There is one class of worthy men to which this criticism does not apply, however, and that is the poor laboring man with a family. The letter which is a pertinent commentary on the winter habits of a certain class of workers is as follows: "I have just read in The Minneapolis Journal your remarks concerning laborers looking for work. I do not think that there can be many men in Minneapolis who cannot get work if they want it. We have tried all winter, thru the regular employment agencies, and by sending men ourselves, to fill our camp here, and have not succeeded. Men are scarce all thru the lumber camps and wages have never been so good. We have paid the fares of 200 men to the woods this winter and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a large class of men who will not leave the cities, and those whom the saloons do not hold up, the charity organizations and other concerns have done the same. I repeat, not a man in Minneapolis who wants to work need be without it this winter, and if the soup kitchens and other charitable organizations were to be abolished and the police authority drive out of town all those who cannot get work in the city, it would have a right to effect all around. The trouble is that there is a