Read the Bryan Letters.

The Bryan letters from the famous presidential candidate will appear exclusively in The Journal next Sunday.

'GOLD TO WAKE UP,' SAYS JAMES J. HILL

HE SAYS NORTHWEST SHOULD BE DOING BETTER.

His Address Before the St. Paul Commercial Club Full of Suggestions for Development—With the Perfecting of Peat Charcoal, Great Possibilities Open for Minnesota Iron.

In an address at the St. Paul Commercial club last night James J. Hill made the statement that Pittsburg may have to look to its laurels. He had received letters from Gottingen saying that charcoal can now be made from peat. If so, it will be possible to manufacture charcoal from the inexhaustible peat beds near the iron ore deposits in Minnesota and remove the necessity of hauling it long distances from the east for the working of iron from Minnesota ore.

Mr. Hill declared that the country was wasting its heritage. It is selling its resources for present gain. Instead of looking to the future, when it must support millions of persons. He emphasized the fact that only in the wise cultivation of the soil can the continued prosperity of the country be assured. He suggested an industrial school where pupils could learn to write and spell correctly, and at the same time learn to use their hands as well as their heads.

City Depends on Country.

In part, Mr. Hill said: "To build a city you must build the country that supports it. At the same time, you have your churches, your colleges, your schools, your bankers, your merchants, your lawyers, your blacksmiths, all depend upon the man in the country. That man may be in the mine, he may be in the forest cutting the timber, and he may be cultivating the land. It is not difficult for you to estimate how few men are engaged in cutting the timber in the forest. The trees are practically all cut, and in ten years at the present rate of cutting, there won't be any left. Your forest isn't going to contribute very largely to the growth of the cities.

"The mines in the northeastern part of the state are immensely valuable, and the state derives a great income and will derive a much greater income from the royalty on these mines, but the product of these mines cannot be used in Minnesota. They don't employ a great many men. Most of the work is done with a steam shovel, and it is laded into ore cars and taken to the lake and there, by gravity, shot aboard of a steamer. At our new dock at Superior during the summer they have loaded 10,000 tons of ore into a single ship in two hours.

"You see it doesn't take many men or much money to do that sort of work; it is done by gravity. These mines would be invaluable to the state if they had fuel to go with them; but the money that the mines produce when they employ are away down in the Mahoning valley, and the Ohio valley, and scattered from Johnston thru to Ohio, and now they are building up in Chicago quite a large industry.

Progress Is Slow.

"Our state of Minnesota has not made the progress it ought to have made. It has not done as well in the business at our stations. Every month it is tabulated; every year it is totaled. And you would be surprised to see the number of stations in Minnesota where the business is not as good now as great as it was seven years ago.

"We have got to get our people to wake up; they have got to do better work. If they don't, you, ourselves, every one of us, will be ruined. "We don't want to live extravagantly on what we have inherited; or what a kind of providence has done for us. Let us save up; let us keep it; so that in the future those who come after us will find a heritage there and a good living. For I tell you they will need it.

"That leaves you where you fall back on the man who cultivates the soil. He has a man that will not be exhausted with proper care. The future of your city depends upon the proper cultivation of the soil."

OVER THE LIMIT

Over 400 Votes Were Cast in Seven St. Paul Precincts in 1904.

As a result of checking over the registers at the last election, the auditor of Ramsey county has found that at the 1904 fall election there were seven precincts in the city of St. Paul in which over 400 votes were cast, the largest being in the following precincts: Seventh ward, seventh precinct, 410; seventh ward, first precinct, 424; fourth precinct, 439; sixth precinct, 416; eighth ward, third precinct, 457; fourth precinct, 445; eleventh ward, second precinct, 544.

Alderman Lynch of the eleventh ward secured the passage by the aldermen of an ordinance last evening restricting the number of party so as to materially decrease the size of the second precinct. According to this ordinance, the precinct will hereafter simply comprise the strip along University avenue known as Union and Howard Parks.

TO TALK ON 'JUICE'

Norman E. Seavey Will Lecture to Y. M. C. A. Electrical Club.

Norman E. Seavey, superintendent of the Minneapolis General Electric company, will lecture before the Y. M. C. A. Electrical club tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., on "The Central Electrical Station."

The members of the club, in anticipation of this lecture, visited the central station last week, under the direction of Fred Dustin, city electrician, in order that they might be better prepared to understand the lecture by Mr. Seavey, who is lecturing this year. A large number of electrical workers have taken advantage of the opening up of the winter term and have registered for the course. The club extends an invitation to all interested in electrical work to be present at this lecture.

NEAR TO DEATH

Father Ravoux, Pioneer St. Paul Priest, Cannot Live Much Longer.

Father Ravoux, pastor of the Catholic church of the northwest, is lying at St. Joseph's hospital, St. Paul, at death's door. For years the hospital has been his home, for it was only there that the church for which he has worked so faithfully throughout his life, could give care to his declining years which were nearly reached. He is now in his ninety-second year, and it is the infirmities of old age which have caused his present condition. Up to the present time Father Ravoux has enjoyed good health. He has been enjoying daily walks through the busy thoroughfares, where once his little log church was located in a wilderness.

THOMAS A. GARRITY TRYING TO OUST SAM FULLERTON

CHANGE IMMINENT ON GAME AND FISH COMMISSION.

Two Coming Appointments Will Give Johnson Administration a Majority of the Board—Program May Include Retirement of Sam Fullerton as Executive Agent—Candidate for His Place.

THOMAS A. GARRITY, Well-Known Attorney Who Died Today.

Thomas A. Garrity, a well-known member of the Hennepin county bar, died at his home, 2801 Girard avenue S., early today, after ten days' illness with pneumonia.

Mr. Garrity was 36 years old. He was born in New Richmond, Wis., and was a resident of that state until he came to Minneapolis, fourteen years ago, after graduating from the law school of the University of Wisconsin. He leaves a wife and two children.

The funeral will be held from the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9 a.m. Friday.

GIGARMAKERS' UNION AIDS CARL PUTZWALD

Gigar makers' union, No. 77, has made all arrangements for assisting Carl Putzwald, the member of the union whose sad case was told in yesterday's Journal. The union has furnished Mr. Putzwald with sufficient funds to take him back to Germany, and has arranged to care for Mr. Putzwald's children when he returns with them. Four union men will take the children into their homes until they are permanently located.

These arrangements were well under way by the union when a well-meaning outsider, not knowing of the union's plan, brought Mr. Putzwald's case to the attention of the Humane society. The Humane society has now turned the entire matter over to the union.

Mr. Putzwald, who lives at 2420 James avenue, was born in this country last May and saved enough to pay the expenses of his wife and four little children to Minneapolis. He bought the tickets and sent them. A few days ago he received word that his wife had died in Hamburg and that the little children, ranging in age from 11 to 3 years, were left in that city without a parent or guardian. The Humane society company, through the children on account of their age.

Judge Andrew Holt—Michael Copley et al. vs. Minneapolis Fire Relief Insurance association, still on trial.
Judge R. C. Dinkenshaw—Hester vs. R. F. Bettsch & Co., suit to recover $6,000 on alleged breach of contract, still on trial.
Judge F. V. Brown—P. A. Seguin, head of the "Weekend Girls" home, stand for cross-examination under the statute, in the hearing on the writ of quo warranto looking to the dissolution of the Christian Union's articles of incorporation.

LIKE A MELODRAMA

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Smalley Fighting for Their Child.

F. C. Smalley, formerly of Minneapolis, and his wife, Josie L. Smalley, are carrying on a counter kidnapping campaign to get possession of their child, who is at the latest accounts in the father's possession at Spokane, Wash.

Mrs. Smalley contends that when she was arrested on a charge of kidnapping she was given the custody of the child. The father, however, took the child and went to Spokane early in December. Mrs. Smalley followed. She retained the child and begged proceedings to get possession of the child. Mr. Smalley accused his former wife of having improper relations with her lawyer and being arrested. Mrs. Smalley retaliated by having her former husband arrested for assault. In the mixup the child was spirited away by the father to a farm near Colfax, Wash.

Mrs. Smalley cornered the child's whereabouts, forfeited her cash bail and went to the farmer's house. There, with the aid of the town marshal, she snatched the prize and started for Portland, Ore. She was traced by Smalley's agents and arrested at Starbuck. She and the child were taken back to Spokane, where people are waiting the next move in the interesting campaign.

LOOKING UP SULLIVAN

Bankers Will Search Past of Prisoner at Waterville, Minn.

The protective committee of the Minnesota Bankers' association, with headquarters in Minneapolis, is trying to get more complete identification of the alleged burglar arrested at Waterville, Minn., with a charge of larceny, before his sixty-days' term expires. He gave the name of James Riley or Lawrence Sullivan, and is said to be known at Chicago as "Landing Jim." He is 6 feet 1 inch tall, has dark gray hair and gray eyes, light of complexion and 55 years old. A shot in the right hip has given Sullivan a stiff leg with two open wounds. He says that he was connected with the Chicago postoffice robbery. In his possession were the names and plans of several cities where it is thought he intended to operate.

HUBER IS GAME

Victim of Game Warden Votes Money for Convention Fund.

President Huber of the St. Paul board of aldermen, who was recently arrested by a game warden for having thirteen ruffed grouse in his possession, made the amende honorable last night by voting $150 from the mayor's contingent fund for the entertainment of the national convention of game and fish commissioners at St. Paul on Jan. 25-27. There was a general laugh at the expense of Alderman Huber when the resolution was read, and to carry the joke a little further enough aldermen voted against the measure to kill it. Upon reconsideration the resolution was passed without opposition.

ST. PAUL PLANT BURNS

The Capital City Furniture Company's plant at 839 Johnson street, St. Paul, was destroyed by fire at midnight last night, causing a loss of $5,000. A patrolman discovered the fire and after turning in the alarm aided the proprietors in getting their horses out, as surrounding buildings were endangered. The origin of the fire is not known.

TRYING TO OUST SAM FULLERTON

CHANGE IMMINENT ON GAME AND FISH COMMISSION.

Two Coming Appointments Will Give Johnson Administration a Majority of the Board—Program May Include Retirement of Sam Fullerton as Executive Agent—Candidate for His Place.

A shake-up is promised soon in the state game and fish commission. The terms of two members of the commission expired Jan. 1, and their successors have not been named. When those appointments are made the Johnson administration will have control of the commission. A move is on looking to the retirement of Samuel P. Fullerton as executive agent. He holds that position till Aug. 1, and his term as a member of the commission does not expire for a year, but the change in executive agent may be made in August.

Governor Johnson made one appointment on the board last year, putting in O. J. Johnson of Glenwood to succeed Captain William Bird of Fairmont. The other two names of Uri Lamorey of St. Paul, president of the board, and D. W. Meeker of Moorhead, its secretary, both expired. It is understood that neither will be reappointed, and the two new members named, with O. J. Johnson, will give the state administration a majority of the board.

Under the law the executive agent must be a member of the commission, so the choice will be limited to the three Johnson appointees. A. B. Clair of Grand Rapids is an active candidate for Fullerton's successor. P. Fullerton, the Glenwood man, is a republican, and may not stand for Fullerton's retirement.

The situation has some interesting features. Practically the appointment of numerous deputy game wardens is involved, but it is understood that no changes in those positions will be made or considered for some time.

ST. PAUL CARS ALSO DECREASE IN NUMBER

Public Examiner Kerst has filed his report on the examination of St. Paul city accounts, of which the chief feature is the section on streetcar license fees. He finds that the street railway company paid its $10 license fee in 1905 on July 145 cars, while it paid on 181 cars in 1902. While the company has been building extensions and putting on more cars to give frequent service, the cars reported for taxation have decreased. The number of motormen increased from 238,206 in 1901 to 232,570 in 1905, and the payroll of conductors from $249,705 to $233,700, indicating a large increase in the number of cars run.

The examiner criticizes the St. Paul system of collecting water rents, and finds that in Minneapolis much superior. He calls attention to a bill of $75 for a trip of inspection of the waterworks system, which includes three quarts of whiskey and twelve bottles of apollinaris. Mr. Kerst considers this a reflection on the St. Paul water. With such a war, the use of whiskey seems needless.

The report inquires into the purpose of the new tower on the workhouse. It was supposed to be built as a fire escape for the shops, but the shops are now closed.

OF FIGHTING STOCK

Great Grandson of Nelson's Quarter-Gunner Seeks to Join Navy.

Family tradition decreed that Dick Leigh of Winnipeg serve in the navy, and in consequence he made the trip to Minneapolis and presented himself at the naval recruiting office in the federal building today. He explained to the officers in charge that his great-grandfather was a quarter-gunner on Nelson's flagship, the Victory, at the battle of Trafalgar, and that the laws of the family circle decreed that the oldest son should be a "man o' war's man."

As the Minneapolis recruiting office was nearer than his majesty's station at Quebec he came here. His regret was deep and sincere when he learned that British subjects could not fight for Uncle Sam, but he said that he supposed that if such were the case he would have to fight for Edward VII instead.

HAMMERS WERE OUT

Wilderness Charity and Salvation Army Christmas Dinners Are Criticized.

"The Wilderness charity has so far done more harm than good," said Daniel R. Noyes at the annual meeting of the St. Paul Society for the Relief of the Poor in St. Paul last evening. And Dr. Stober, pastor of the People's church, stirred things up more by attacking the Salvation Army custom of giving Christmas dinners to the poor.

Dr. Noyes criticized the Wilderness charity on the ground that not a cent has as yet been available for the worthy poor, whereas the general public, being the Wilderness charity has made a big sum available, has cut down its gifts to the Relief society by about $10,000.

Dr. Smith, in criticizing the Salvation Army Christmas dinners, said the money for them was collected in a spectacular way, its expenditure unaccounted for to the donors, and he did not believe in the principle of stuffing poor people one day in the year and not giving the Relief society the means to provide for them the rest of the twelve months.
